FREDERICKSBURG, May 9.

MONUMENT TO THE MOTHER OF WASHINGTON.

The President of the United States; Gov. Cass, Secretary of War, Mr. Taney, Attorney General; Major Barry, Post Master General; and Major Donnellson, the President's Private Secretary, arrived in town on Monday evening.

LAYING THE CORNER STONE.

This ceremony took place on Tuesday, with very imposing effect. About 9 o'clock the President was escorted from his lodgings to the Town Hall, where he was introduced to a number of citizens and strangers, who called to pay their respects to the Chief Magistrate of the Nation.

As the procession moved up Main Street, the extended line, the various uniforms of the military, the glittering arms, the music, the dense mass that thronged the side walks, the crowded windows, overlooking the whole scene, altogether presented a view grand and imposing.

FROM THE NEW YORK ADVERTISER.

BONAPARTE AND BLACK HAWK.

When Bonaparte was dethroned by the allied powers of Europe, after the battle of Waterloo, he was obliged to take refuge on board a British ship of war in the channel, thus throwing himself upon the clemency of his most persevering and powerful enemy, the British Government.

and shed the blood of those who stood in the way of his ambition, so was Bonaparte. In what then do the principles of the two cases essentially differ? Black Hawk doubtless considered himself as fighting for his own and his nation's rights, in defence of his own unquestionable dominions, and for the soil on which he was born and to which he was attached by the strongest affection.

We should like to hear the opinions of casuists on the relative merits of these two cases. That of Bonaparte must be acknowledged to have been of a more splendid and astounding character, than that of Black Hawk. But this is not the moral view of the case.

It is not the moral view of the case, but the respect was it more reprehensible in the allied powers of Europe, who had been implored for a long course of years in the most destructive and desolating wars that modern history records, carried on by the exercise of the most remorseless tyranny that the civilized world had ever experienced.

New-York, May 2d, 1833.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AGAIN.

In the postscript of yesterday morning we gave a brief account of one of the most destructive fires that has occurred in this city for a great number of years. With trading exception, four entire blocks of the buildings are level with the ground.

The scene of distress was appalling. Fathers, mothers, children, and servants, scattered and flying in every direction. Up to yesterday forenoon many members of the same family were dispersed, and had not found each other.

The loss in all is said to be over Two Hundred thousand Dollars, and not a sixth part insured. The loss of the insurance offices is comparatively light.

Again the by rns supplied a great portion of the water used after the cistern of the Dutch church gave out.

THE BOOK OF NATURE.

THE BOOK OF NATURE. Edited by an association of scientific gentlemen of Philadelphia.

Each number will contain EIGHT to TEN FULLY ENGRAVED QUARTO COPPER PLATES in the various departments of Natural History, each plate to contain from four to ten distinct figures, making from 50 to 100 figures in each number.

- 1. Quadrupeds. 7. Vermeas & Zoophytes. 8. Shells. 9. Botany. 10. Vegetable Anatomy. 11. Geology. 12. Mineralogy.

Each plate will be accompanied with a brief but satisfactory description of every subject or figure it may contain, so written as to convey a good idea of the subject, without being either of tedious length, or so technically written, but that all may read with pleasure.

As the subjects embrace the whole range of Natural History, in order to make it as complete as possible, several scientific gentlemen have been engaged at great expense to conduct the work, whose united researches, it is believed, will render this periodical extremely valuable.

One great source of the patronage anticipated by the proprietor is from schools and colleges, and as the figures represented will be models of elegance and correct drawing, it will form a work for consultation by the Painter, Engraver, Drawing Master, and Student, and will be of insupportable advantage in the prosecution of their practice.

This work is not got up with a view to temporary popularity; or to a subscription of two years, in about which period it will certainly be completed; it will on the contrary, be so compiled as to be valuable, as long as the plates last.

Persons wishing to purchase, will do well to call and examine his Stock; for he thinks from the lowliness of his prices to induce purchasers to buy. The usual kinds of produce taken in payment.

$10 REWARD.

A MAN named Edward Gage, in my employment, having been sent on business into the county of Surry, ran away with my horse on Sunday, the 29th of April last. The said Gage was heard of in Huntsville, where he offered to trade my horse.

Gage is an Irishman, about 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high, stout made, rather dark hair, very fair complexion—wore of a light mixed homespun coat, homespun vest striped with red, pantaloons of blue cord, of light tan color, and a hat cap.

The horse was a dark brown bay, between 14 and 15 hands high, and about 10 years old this Spring, walks and paces remarkably well—in fact he is a first rate saddle horse—luck considerably marked by the saddle, and I believe, one of his hind feet is white.

Gage had no money, and perhaps he will wrap the horse to get some. He says he has some relations in Union, South Carolina, and probably he may make for those parts.

I will give ten dollars for the recovery of the horse, saddle and bridle, and will thank those who may feel disposed to assist in punishing the thief.
