SELECTED FOR THE WATCHMAN. THE DYING BOY.

It must be sweet in childhood to give back The spirit to its maker, ere the heart Hath grown familiar with the paths of sin, And soon to gather up its bitter fruits, I knew a boy whose infant feet had trud I pon the blossoms of some seven springs, And when the eighth came round, and called him out

I was night; he summoned his accustomed

friends; And this wise bestowed his last request:

'Mother, I'm dying now: There's a deep suffication on my breast, vilege of changing the form every As if some heavy hand my bosom pressed ; And on my brow I feel the old sweat stand. Say, mother, is this death? -

Mother, your hand ! Here, lay it on my wrist, And place the diher thus, beneath my head; And say, sweet mother, say when I am dead, Shall I be missed ?

'Never besides your knee

You taught to me. Oh! at the time of prayer, When you look round and see a vacant seat, You'll miss me there.

'Father, I'm going home, To that great home you spoke of, that bless'd. land
