STANZAS. DELIVERED BY J. H. GRAY,

Pupil of the Peunsylvania Institution for the instruction of the Blind, at their Examination :

The bird, that never tried his wing, Can blithely hop and sweetly sing, Though prisoned in a narrow cage, Till his bright feathers droop with age ; So I, while never blessed with sight, Shut out from Heaven's surrounding light, Life's hours, and days, years enjoy, Though blind, a merry hearted boy. That captive bird may never float Through Heaven, or pour his thrilling note 'Mid shady groves, by pleasant streams That sprinkle in the soft moonbeams; But he may gaily flutter round Within his prison's scanty bound, And give his soul to song, for he Ne'er longs to taste sweet liberty. Oh! may I not as happy dwell? Wathin my unillumined cell? May I not leap, and sing, and play And turn my constant night to day? I never saw the sky, the sea, The earth was never green to me; Then why, Oh, why, should I repine For blessings that were never mine. Think not that blindness makes me sad, My thoughts like yours are often glad. Parents I have who love me well-Their different voices I can tell, Though far and absent I can hear, In dreams their music meets my ear, Is there a star so dear above, As the low voice of one you love! I never saw me father's face; Yet on his forehead when I place My hand, and feel the wrinkles there, Left less by time than anxious care, I fear the world has sights of woe, To knit the brows of manhood so. Last upon my father's knee-He'd love me less if I could see. I never saw my Mother's smile; Her gentle tones wy heart beguile-They fall, like distant melody, They are so mild and sweet to me. She murmurs not-my mother dear!-Though sometimes I have kiss'd the tear From her soft cheek, to tell the joy One smiling word would give her boy. Right merry was I every day ! Fearless to run about and play With sisters, brothers, friends and all, To answer to their sudden call, To join the ring, to speed the chase, To find each playmate's hiding-place, And pass my hand across his brow To tell him-I could do it now ! Yet though delightful flew the bours, Sa passed in childhood's peaceful bowers, When all were gone to school but 1, I used to sit, at home and sigh; And though I never longed to view The earth so green, the sky so blue, I thought, I'd give the world to look Along the pages of a book. Now since I've-learned to read and write, My heart is filled with new delight. And music too-Can there be found A sight so beautiful as sound? Tell me kind friends, in one short word, Am I not like that captive bird. I live in song, and peace, and joy, Though blind, a merry-hearted boy.

FROM MEXICO.

The correspondent of the Louisianian,' under feat of the Federalists in the vicinity of Puebla is a mortal blow to their party. 'SANTA ANA,' he says, 'has become the idol of the day. 'His name is the common word in the mouth of the people, and such is the frenzy of thuse who are in a majority, that if his excellency chose to make himself king, emperor, dictator, in one day the Central Government would disappear, and be replaced by a tyrant and a troop o slaves."

The writer of the letter from which this is extracted goes at some length into a statement of his views of the politics of Mexico, and the prodoubtedly they are acting together in a common cause with such a good understanding as has, by the defeat of MEXIA and his followers, let to a complete success. SANTA ANA, it appears, after the battle of Puebla, returned forth with to the city of Mexico. "He has returned to Mexico,' says the correspondent above quoted, ' where he was received with extraordinary honors. He had rejoteings, balls, illuminations, public plays, for an event over which every good man grieves. The populace admires the hero of Tampico; patriots deplore the miseries of civil war. One party weaves garlands for the victor, the other is filled with grief; on one side you hear songs of victory, on the other wailings for the dead Time will show us the end of this medley of things.'

COMMODORE PREBLE.

In Cooper's Naval History of the United States is the following anecdote of Commodore Preble, illustrative of same points in the character of that distinguished Naval officer : 'Commodore Preble was a man of high temper and a rigid disciplinarian. At first he was disliked in his own ship-the younger officers in particular, feeling the effects of his discipline, without having yet learned to respect the high professional qualities for which he atterwards became so distinguished. One night when the Constitution was in the Straits of Gibraliar, she suddenly found herself along side of a large ship. Some hathing passed without either party's giving any answer. Commodore Pieble, who had taken the trumpet himself, now told the name and country of his ship. and his own rank. He then demanded the name of the stranger, adding that he would fire a shot unless answered. 'If you fire a shot I'll return a broad side,' was the reply. Preble sprang into his mizzen rigging, applied the trumpet and said, this is the United States ship Constitution, a 44. Commodore Preble, I am about to hail you for the lastrime, if not answered, I shall fire into you. What ship is that ?' 'This is His Britanic Malesty's ship Donegal, a razee of 60 gons' Preble told the stranger he doonted his statement, and should lie by him till morning in order to ascertain his real character. He was as good as his word, and in a short time a boat came from the other vessel to explain. It was an English frigate, and the Constitution had got so suddenly and unexpectedly alongside of her, that the hesitation about answering and the fictitious name had proceeded from a desire to gain time in order to clear the decks and get to quarters.

CONSIDERABLE NUMBER of these TREES may be had at Fayetteville N about the last of next summer or the first of the Fall. The proprietor can very readily dispose of them at the North, but from patriotic considerations, he prefers that they should be taken by his native State. The price will be the same as in Baltimore or New York, and will be forwarded to purchasers on the money's being remitted. It is hoped that such as may wish to engage, may do so at an early day. Enquire of E. L. WINSLOW, Fayetteville.

"The spirit of Commodore Preble on this pe casion,' says Cooper, "produced a very favorable impression in his own ship. The young men pithily remarked, that if he was wrong in his temper he was right in his heart.

THE WILMINGTON ROAD.

The Wilmington papers contain the Report made to the annual meeting of the Stockholders, by the President, General OWEN. Trains have been running over it daily, since the first of the present year, & the Road has now 10 Locomotives, and a sufficient number of baggage and freight Cars. One hundred and three miles are now in use, and the whole of the remaining part ( 58 miles ) is under contract .--Two Sections more of the Road will be opened in July.

Raleigh Register.

We learn (says the Saratoga Sentinel) from gentleman who has just returned from Wash ington, that the President and the Secretary of State intend visiting the Springs this Summer and that they may be expected about the last of June or early in July.

Unexampled Mammoth SCHEME.

THE following details of a SCHEME OF LOTTERY, to be drawn in December next. warrants us to declaring it to be UNPARAL-LELED in the history of Lotteries. Prizes to the amount HAVE NEVER BEFORE BEEN OFFER-ED to the public. It is true, there are many blanks, but on the other hand, the extremely low charge of $20 per Ticket -the VALUE AND NUMBER of the CAPITALS, and the revival of the good old costom of warranting that every prize shall be drawn and sold, will, we are sure, give universal satisfaction, and especially to the SIX HUNDERD PRIZE HOLDERS.

To those disposed to adventure, we recom mend early application being made to us for tick ets-when the Prizes are all sold, Blanks only remain, the first buyers have the best chance. We therefore, emphatically say-DELAY NOT! but at once remit and trans- mit to us your ofders, which shall always receive our immediate attention Letters to be addressed, and applica tion to be made to
