rfundreds of children and adults are lost yearly with worms, when some other cause has been supposed to be the true one.

It is admitted by all doctors that scarce a man. woman or child exists but what are sooner or later troobled with worms, and in hundreds of cases, sad to relate, a supposed fever, scarlatina, cold, or some other ailing carries off the flowers of the human family -- while in truth they die of Worms ! and these could have been eradicated in a day, by the use of a bottle of Kolmstock's Vermifuge, at the cost of a quarter of a dollar !

How sickening the thought that these things should be-and who can ever forgive themselves for not trying this Worm Exterminator, when they know that even if the case was not worms, this remedy could not by any possibility do hurt -but always good as a purgative-let the dis-ease be what it may. How important then to use it, and who will dare take the responsibility in do without it? Let every parent that is not a brote, ask themselves this question in trath and soberness.

Mr JC Ringold had a child very sick for near two weeks, and attended by a physician, without relief, when Kolmstock's Vermifuge was given, and next day more than forty worms were passed, when the child recovered rapidly.

A child of a widow woman, living near the Manhautan Water Works, had dwindled for a month, till near a skeleton, with great dryneas of the mouth, and itching of the nose. A humane lady, who called to provide for the family, sician, and a member of the Medical Society of sent immediately for Kolmstock's Vermifage, which brought sway great quantities of worms

Fair beau'y may with frowns reprove The partial fondness of her beau, Nothing can chill the blaze of love

Fan'd by soft zephyrs as they blow ; The pondering mind will distant rove, Apprized that nothing draws like love.

Say, what exceeds affection's tide, Which must remain to est and flow,

Mid sweiling waves on every side, My beart is reeling to and fro. Oh ! what in nature can remove,

The sting, the pleasing bans of love.

Say, what then wilt, I must be thine-Thou distant magnet of my soul ; Forbid the rose of love to pine.

Which glows or fades at thy control. Not all the lovely bells of Jove. Excell'd thee on the stream of love.

I'll hom around thee till the last And pour my wishes in thy ear ;

Till beauty sinks in ages blast-And life becomes no longer dear. And then the hymenial dove Shall coo upon the bough of love.

And though the sun of life may set, It sinks not in oblivion's gloom, For love too vital to forg

Perhaps the most westerly border of what is known as the Pangwe territory was within one hundred and fifty miles of the coast, and from theoce may extend many hundred miles into the interior. and possibly spread itself over a large portion of the south side of the Mountains of the Moon .----Their country is represented as immensely populous, but I could not learn that they had any very large or powerful organizations. They are aware that vessels visit the opposite coast, and they affirm that they have seen articles of merchandise brought from that quarter. I sm inclinated to thick that the Pangwe people are i nigra-ting in large bodies towards the coast. If so the intermediate bushmen, weakened as they are by the slave trade, must mevitably be supplanted.

FRUITS OF TREASON.

" ARNOLD, bearing of the plot being detected, immediately fied to the enemy. I went in pursuit of him, but was much too late ; and could hardly regret the disappointment when, on my return, I saw an smisble woman, frantic with distress for the loss of a husband she tenderly loved : a traitor to his country and to his fame ; a disgrace to his connections : it was the most affecting scene [ ever was witness to. She, for a considerable time, entirely lost herself. The General (WASBINGTON) went up to see her, and she upbraided him with being in a plot to murder her child. One moment she raved, another she melted into lears. Sometimes she pressed her miant to her bosom, and lamented its fate, occasioned by the imprudence its father, in a manner that would have pierced insensibili ty itself. All the sweetness of beauty, all the loveliness of innocence, all the tenderness of a wife, and all the foodness of a mother, showed themselves in ther appearance and conduct. We have every reason to believe that she was entirely unacquainted with the plan, th t the first knowledge of it was when Arnold went to tell her he must banish himself from his country and from. her forever. Several children in a highly respectable family in Broadway had worms to a frightful extent. and were all cured rapidiy with this Vermifuge. In some of the best families in the neighborhood of St. John's 'ark, it has been extensively used, from the circumstance of having eradicated a large quantity of worms, after all other remedies had failed, which was very extensively known in that part of the city.

A family in New Jersey saved several children by the use of it. One, a girl of eight years of age, had become exceedingly emaciated before the Vermifuge was given. The next day three large worms were dislodged, and she left off the Vermifuge, when she became again worse, and had resort to the Vermifuge that finally brought away an incredible quantity of worms, and the cure was complete, and she gained her health rapidly

A NEW NEGRO NATION

From an extract published in the Albany Ar gue, and derived from the Narrative of Mr Wilson, a missionary in Africa, we learn that he had discovered a nation of Ethiopians, never before seen or described by any white man. > The mission is at the mouth of the river, but having a fine opportunity, Mr Wilson accom panied Toko, a distinguished pegro merchant, to Kobangai's town, fifty miles from the ocean. on the Bawke, a branch of the Big Orombo .-This was as far up the river as he ascended -While there, he met with a new nation of Aficans, " some of whom were said to come five days journey and others ten to twelve days jour ney from the interior"-that is, from 200 to 400 miles from the sea cost. He calls them the rection in which a country of that name lies .-The distance from the coast indicates that they and her sufferings were so eloquent that I came from Ethiopia ; and possibly that this peowiehed myself her brother, to have a right ble may spread over that vast unknown region of Africa.

The existence and use of iron of their own wanufacture, seems very remarkable, and philosophers would say, indicates an advanced state of civilization, for it is known that a barbarous of savage people never have iron of their own manplacture until it has been first introduced by the whites The non-existence of slavery and the slave trade among them, shows a feature still more distinctive from the ordinary African. We are furnished by the Argus with the fullowing passage from the journal of Mr Wilson. " During our short sojourn in this place, we met with a number of men entirely different in their features and general appearance from those in this part of the country. Some of whom were said to have come five, and others ten or twelve days journey from the interior. They were known by the name of Pangwe people .-They were on a visit to this part of the country, which is as near to the sea coast as they have ventured. Hearing of us at this place, they came in considerable numbers to see a white man to become her defender " THE CONTRADICTORY COUPLE.

" I do believe,' he says, taking his spoon out of his glass, and tossing it on the table, "that of all the obstinate, positive, wrong headed creatures that were ever born ; you are the most so, Char lotte '

'Certainly, certainly; you have your own way, pray. You see how much I contradict you." rejoined the lady.

ring and passionate of Earth.

She was not a being to love with an earthly effection. Her person had no harmony with her mind. It bore no resemblance to those beautiful forms which glide before the eyes of romance in the shadowy world of dreams. It was not like the bright realities of being-the wealth of beauty which is sometimes concentrated in the matchless form of woman. It was deformity-strange peculiar deformity, relieved only by the intellectual glory of a dark, soul-like eye.

Tet. strange as it may seem, I loved her. deeply. possionately so the young heart can love when it pours itself out like an oblation to its idol. There were gentle and lovely once . around me-creatures of smiles and blushes, soft tones and melting glances, but their beauty made no lesting impression on my beart. Mine was an intellectual love-a yearning after something invisible and holy - something shove the ordinary standard of human desire, set spart and esnetified as it were, by the mysteries of mind.

Mine was not a love to be revealed in the shronged circle of gaiety and fachion-it was avowed underneath the bending heaven ; when the perfect stars were slone gezing upon us. It was rejected, but not in thoughted girl. She would ask my friendship-my sympathy; but she besought me -ay, with tears she besought me, to speak no more of Love. I abeyed her. I fled from her presence. I mingled once more in the basy tide of being, and ambition entered to my soul. Wealth came upon me une ctedly ; and the noice of praise became & familiar sound. I returned at last with the impress of manhood on my brow, and sought again the being of my dreams She was dying. Consumption-pale, ghastly consumption had taken away her hold on existence. The deformed and unfitting tenement was yielding to the impulses of the soul. Clasping her wasted band, I bent over her in speechless agony. She raised her eyes to mine, and in those beautiful emblems of her soul, I read the hoarded affection of years-the long smathered emotion of a smothered heart. "Henry," she said, and I bent lower to catch the faltering tones of her sweet voice-"I have loved you long and fervently 1 feel that I am dying. I rejoice at it. Earth will cover this wested and unreemly form, but the soul will return to that promised and better land, where no change or circumstance can mar the communion of Spirit. Oh, had it been permitted !-- but I will not murmur. You were created with more than manhood's beauty, and I deformedwretched as I am, have dared to love you !

I knelt down and kused the pale brow of the sufferer. A smile of more than earththat in that house there are just fourteen doors, by tenderness stole over her festures, and fixed there, like an omen of the spirit's hanpiness. She was dead. And they buried ber on the spot which she had herself selected-a delightful place of slumber, curtained by green young willows. I have stood there a thousand times in the quiet moonlight, and fancied that I beard in every breeze that whispered among the branches, the voice of the beloved slumberer. Devoted girl ' thy brantiful spirit bath never abandoned me in my weary pilgrimage. Gently and soothingly thou comest to watch over my sleeping pillow-to cheer me smidst the trials of humanity-to mingis thy beavenly sympathies with my joys and sorrows, and to make the mild reprovings known and felt in the darker moments of existence ; in the tempest of passion, in the bitterness of crime Even now, in the awfol calm which procedes the last change in my being, in the cold shadow which now stretches from the grave to the presence of the living, I feet that thou art near me-
