

Country strictly obeyed and enforced... He ought to know, if he does not, that it is only in this way he can enjoy those privileges for which he left his native land.

The Washington Union, speaking of the Bill presented to Congress by Mr. Douglass of Illinois, providing for the encouragement of emigration to Oregon, says—

The giving of notice to Great Britain must be carried out with the most scrupulous regard for the faith of this country. The joint occupancy must first cease, by giving the notice, before the emigration to Oregon can be accelerated.

No man can now positively say, what will be the result—whether peace or war. But as the English are preparing, let us prepare too, immediately, vigorously, with all the energy in our power.

We think Mr. Polk and his administration have been maddened on this Oregon question, and if political destruction is not waiting them, we are deceived. It is now beginning to appear that the peace of the world was jeopardized by them merely to afford an opportunity for vilifying, bragging, boasting patriots to let off their windy pipes.

We find the following paragraph in the Philadelphia United States Gazette, of the 31st ult.

We have the pleasure, on all sides, of hearing the expression of belief, that the peace of the country will not be disturbed by any collision with England on account of Oregon. Of course, there is, as yet, but mere opinion.

The Committee on the Judiciary, have reported a bill in the House of Representatives, by which all the officers of the Government will hereafter be appointed for four years, subject to a new appointment of four more—the officers to be selected from the Congressional Districts of the several States, and the District of Columbia to be regarded as one Congressional District.

The Southern Methodist Episcopal Conference were lately in Session in New Orleans. The following, gathered from the returns laid before the body, may not be uninteresting to some of our readers:

Columbia Market.—Cotton 54 to 74—Corn, 70 to 80 cents—Peas, 62 to 70.

The two Houses of Congress are taking it easily, as the reader will observe; and, under present circumstances, that is perhaps the best thing for the country that they could do.

The House of Representatives, we are glad to learn, relieved itself yesterday of a most unprofitable discussion concerning the appointment of messengers and other servants of the House, such as the House has never heretofore meddled with, but left to the care of the principal door-keeper.

The Naturalization or Native American debate has been recommenced in the House, and may perhaps continue for a day or two longer.—Nat. Intelligencer.

CONGRESSIONAL.—JAN. 2. The Senate did not sit to-day. In the House of Representatives resolutions were introduced concerning the right of the U. States to the whole of Oregon.

We would invite attention to the following advertisement copied from the last Greensboro Patriot. Our readers will doubtless recall to mind that we stand committed against the publication of what are commonly called Quack Medicines.

"FOUND AT LAST!" "Drink and live!"—Why will ye die? THE MONARCH OF ALL MEDICINES. Practice of the Physicians entirely superceded!

Highly concentrated Essence and Double Refined Compound Fluid Patent Extract of Cabbage Heads. Warranted to be entirely a Vegetable preparation. DR. JOHN SMITH, a regular bred M. D., and disciple of the illustrious Thompson, perceiving the reckless slaughter of the human race by means of the humbug quack medicines of the day...

Price of this invaluable preparation, only $10 for the large bottles, and $5 for the small ones. Directions accompanying each, under Dr. Smith's own signature and seal. Beware of counterfeits! Warranted to keep in any climate.

This is to certify that I, Thomas Jones, have been afflicted for twelve years with rheumatic pains so that I could not walk a step, and gout in my right great toe so that it was with difficulty I could get about on it; besides being twice or three times reduced to the last extremity by yellow fever and small pox, and laid up all the time by a stroke of paralysis so I could budge neither hand nor foot; and also reduced to mere skin and bone by consumption and the liver complaint until I found it impossible to walk the streets of a windy day without rocks in my pockets; all this in addition to a dreadfully sprained ankle which I got while lifting salt at the wharf, during the time I was laid up with disease of the spine and a compound fracture of both my legs, in which situation I was attacked with the cholera and expired within three hours, when Dr. Smith's highly concentrated essence and double refined compound fluid patent extract of cabbage heads was recommended to me by a friend. Veni vidi vici—sic semper tyrannis!—E pluribus unum—et erudum in suam po!—which being interpreted means, I thought of it, and revived!—looked at it, and was better!!—drank of it, and was well!!! THOMAS JONES, [SEAL.] Sworn to before the Mayor.

SHAD was brought to the Savannah market on the 22d December. Early.

FRIDAY MORNING.

Extract of a Letter, to the Editor of the Raleigh Register, dated

Washington, December 30, 1845. DEAR SIR: Shall we have War? is the absorbing question, in and out of Congress; but no body can answer to his own, or others' satisfaction. The response in England, to the President's Message, is looked for with intense interest. Many of the Locos, in both branches of Congress, will plunge the country into all the miseries of War, if possible. They have already Resolutions before Congress, to take Military possessions of Oregon up to the 54th 40 degree of Latitude. The excitement has been considerably increased by the warlike debate in the Senate, to-day. It is said, Mr. Calhoun is conservative in his policy; if so, he will probably render important services. An influential Loco member of the House from the Empire State remarked to-day, that the country needed the services of Mr. Clay, and enquired of a member from his State, whether he could be prevailed upon to return to the Senate? What an admission, and what a question from a Democrat, who, but a few short months ago, assisted in cheating the country out of his services as President of the United States?

Mr. J. Q. Adams, in a speech on the 2nd inst., on a bill reported to the House to raise two regiments of dragoons for the Oregon service, declared himself in favor of giving to England the one year's notice. He argued that was the first step necessary to be taken in the matter. When that was done, then he would be ready to proceed with war preparations, and not before. He thought the question should be settled, and the one year's notice required, was the first step towards it. He believed there would be no war. War did not necessarily ensue if the notice be given.

The Hon. Dupcan Cameron has been prevailed upon, by the unanimous and earnest appeal of the Stockholders, to serve as President of the Bank of the State of North Carolina.

Preparations for Defence.—We understand, (says the Baltimore Patriot of the 27th ultimo,) that the Committee in Congress on Fortifications, proceeded this morning in the steamboat, chartered for the purpose, to Fort McHenry and thence to "Sollers' Point Flats," for the purpose of examining the condition of those places, and reporting thereon. Col. J. G. Davies, Mayor, and a number of gentlemen of this city, accompanied the Committee.

The Committee appointed by the British Government to devise means for the relief of the sufferers in Ireland from the scarcity of food, will, it is thought by the editor of the New York Courier, recommend the free introduction of Indian Corn from the U. States. It is known that one of the members of the Committee, Sir Randolph Routh, late Commanding General of the British forces in Canada, has written to this country for full and detailed information concerning the various ways in which Indian Corn is used in the United States as an article of food.

Doct. ASHBEI SMITH, late Texian Minister to France and England, who was said to be unfavorable to the annexation project, has written a letter to the editor of the Galveston Civilian, going to show the contrary.

Those who pay in advance for the WATCHMAN, get it at two dollars; whereas, those who defer it to the end of the year are charged two dollars and fifty cents. Now where we know the patron, and are satisfied he is able to pay, we don't care to let him slip to the end of the year; for we consider fifty cents pretty good interest on two dollars, for one year. A thousand subscribers paying at the end of the year, are worth $500 more to the printer than the same number paying in advance; and if we could so arrange it, we would have none but such as are good, and let them all pay at the expiration. But we can't have it so: A large number of those very men whom we would be willing to trust, won't let us. They come up at the beginning of the year with $2 in their hand, and say to us, "take this or nothing,"—and we are obliged to go it. Thus we lose a half dollar every year on those who pay in advance, and they, of course, save it.

But although this is the case, yet we do not lament it, but, on the contrary would prefer that all would pay in advance. It is better for both editor and patron. It saves to one the trouble and expense of collecting arrears, and obviates losses by runaways, insolvents, &c., (which eat up the profits), and to the other it saves a half dollar annually.

The subscription year of many of our patrons dates from the 28th January. This is, therefore, to such of them as wish to change their practice—who wish to try the advance system—a favorable time to do so.

Died At his father's residence, near Mocksville, on the evening of the 26th ult., SIMEON T. CHESHIRE, aged 19 years. By the death of this promising young man, this community has sustained another severe loss. For he possessed that spirit of independence, and that desire to excel, which, though they sometimes lead inexperienced youth astray when chastened by mature age, generally qualify their possessor to act well his part in the busy scenes of society. At first acquaintance, some may have supposed him to be of a rather unusual disposition; but those who have been intimately acquainted with him, know that his attachments were ardent—his friendship sincere. He was especially beloved by his parents and relatives. On him were placed their fondest hopes; and his early proofs of intellectual endowments had rendered their pleasing anticipations in a high degree flattering. He was preparing to commence next session, the regular collegiate course of Emory and Henry College. But his misfortune was, not to engage in the service of God, "in the days of his youth;" yet, his constant, fervent prayers during his short illness, leave some ground to hope, that God in infinite goodness took pity upon him and answered his dying prayer. After exhorting his friends to be truly religious, and particularly his sisters to prepare to meet their mother in heaven, his last words were, "Lord, have mercy upon my poor soul!" Young reader! why were not you, instead of this promising youth, laid upon your death-bed? Alas! a few days ago he was in the vigor of health; he had suffered in all his life scarcely any sickness; his cheeks were tinged with rosy hues, his spirits were buoyant and gay; and his prospects were perhaps equally as good as yours for a long, happy, and distinguished career. But he is no more! O that his schismatics may take warning, and prepare to meet their God. With him have fallen the fond hopes of many friends. May they learn from his sudden call the uncertainty of life, and be ready to meet death at any moment. Especially with his bereaved father, brother and sisters, would we drop a sympathizing tear.

TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT!

ALSOBROOK AND MILLER, Tailors. HAVING located ourselves in the Town of Salisbury, (establishment,) we intend carrying on our business in a style not to be surpassed in the State or out of it. Our establishment is in the office three doors below the Matthew corner and nearly opposite the Market House. We have employed the best of Northern Workmen. No expense or pains will be spared to render this a fashionable Establishment in all respects. Gentlemen, therefore, may rely on having their clothes made up in the most fashionable and durable manner. We have been engaged regularly in cutting for the last five years, and part of the time in some of the most celebrated establishments in the Southern States. We shall not hesitate to guarantee every thing to fit we cut and make.

London, Paris and New York FASHIONS received monthly. In conclusion, should we be encouraged, no one will be under the disagreeable necessity to send away to procure first-rate made clothing. We return thanks for the liberal patronage heretofore bestowed on us, and hope by fashionable work and strict attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1846—VOL. III.

The American Review: A Whig Journal of Politics, Literature, Art and Science.

Edited by GEORGE H. COLTON, assisted by C. W. WEBBER, of Kentucky. The American Review has now reached the beginning of its second year. Its success to far has been entirely unprecedented. Its subscription list now numbers about 3,500, with a constant increase. The public sense of the value of the work is shown by the fact, that of the two hundred new subscribers whose names have been sent into the office within the last month, more than two-thirds have ordered both of the back volumes. Ample arrangements have been made to add greatly to the merits of the work in both its political and literary character; and it is confidently believed that the patronage of this Review, on the part of the Whig party, and of the literary public generally, will soon be so large as to enable it to pay so liberally for every order of high and finished writing, as to make it in all respects the most able and attractive periodical published in the United States. We earnestly ask the continued confidence and support of all true friends in the country.

ENGRAVINGS.—There will be four engravings each year, executed carefully, and of more importance, accompanied with ample biographies, that may stand as a part of the history of the country. TERMS. The Review will continue to be published at Five Dollars a year, in advance. It has been suggested, from some quarters, that the price should be reduced in accordance with that of the organ of the opposing party—viz. to $3 00. A moment's reflection will show the disadvantages of this; for it has also been found necessary to reduce the pages of that Journal from 112 to 80 a month—a reduction to which neither we nor our readers are willing to come. We have always issued 112 pages, and expect occasionally to find it necessary to print 132 in one number. This month, it will be seen, we have only a number of pages, being the same amount with Blackwood. Certain it is, that it is entirely impossible to create and sustain a truly able and national work—such as a Whig Review must be—dealing comprehensively with great subjects, in the space of 80 pages, or, if with more pages at the Democratic price of $3. We should prefer to stop the Review.

REDUCTION OF POSTAGE. A great item of expense to avoid, in the reduction of postage. The postage of the Review is not half the former amount. It is earnestly requested of every one willing to be interested in this design, especially Whigs, to obtain as many subscribers as possible, transmitting them with their places of residence, to the Editor in New York, through the postmaster. If each would only procure, or be the means of procuring, one subscriber—and many could easily obtain a number—it is seen at once that most important aid would be extended to this Review with a little trouble, and some service, we believe, to the great interests of the country.

That this may be entered into more readily by Committees, Societies, Clubs, &c., the following liberal terms are offered:—Five copies for $20; the amount to be remitted in current New York funds; or any person becoming responsible for four copies, will receive a fifth gratis. Persons in the country, remitting the amount of subscription, can receive the work by mail, strongly enveloped, in any other way arranged by themselves. All communications must be addressed, post-paid, to G. H. COLTON, 118 Nassau-st.
