

The U. S. Gazette, in answer to the question flippantly put by some opponent of Henry of the West, makes an excellent reply, which we regret to have mislaid.

"Where is Henry Clay?" At present, sir, he is in New-Orleans, pursuing with that system and energy for which he is distinguished, the duties of his profession.

A few days since, the people of New-Orleans were assembled in a spacious church, to witness the inauguration of their new Democratic Governor.

"Where is Henry Clay?" We said he was in New-Orleans—but, no, that is a mistake. He is not there alone.

"Where is Henry Clay?" above and beyond the reach of his unforgetting foes. His history is identified with that of his country.

"Where is Henry Clay?" Future ages will give the answer, pointing to the highest name on the scroll of American statesmen.

The N. York Journal of Commerce says that the whole amount of specie exported from that city, since the 20th of March last, to England, France and Canton, is about $350,000.

DISSOLUTION. The firm heretofore existing as Albrook & Miller in this day dissolved by mutual consent.

Notice. FASHIONABLE TAILORING. H. S. MILLER. RESPECTFULLY informs the citizens of Salisbury and the public generally, that he will continue to carry on the above business at the stand recently occupied by Albrook & Miller.

After quietly suffering for some years from calumny and detraction in reference to his conduct in negotiating the Ashburton-Treaty, Mr. Webster has at last come out with a triumphant defence of himself, and forever nailed to the counter the foul aspersions upon his character as a Statesman and an American citizen.

In reading his great speech in the Senate, we were struck at almost every line with the perfect ease with which he disposed of his puny assailant—the Allens, the Ingersolls—et id omne genus.

If the former individual's course had not been so contemptible and disreputable—if his whole political life had not been that of a Tory-turned demagogue, we should feel some pity for the dreadful castigation which he has received.

No culprit at the whipping post ever writhed under a more dreadful punishment, and unless his conscience is seared, we doubt if any culprit ever felt more conscious of getting his deserts, or a more complete sense of his inability to "help himself." Never has there been any thing like it in Congress, and for the sake of justice, morality, and decency, we trust that Ingersoll's fate will prove a warning to all who act on the iniquitous maxim that "all is fair in politics."

From the following extract, it will be seen how Mr. Webster dealt with Mr. Ingersoll:

Mr. WEBSTER. In the National Intelligencer, as corrected by Mr. Ingersoll himself, and so it would appear that it is not inserted by the member from New York, there is one falsehood in the case which the original author was not so graceless as to retain.

Well, now, I say that a series of more distinct, unalloyed falsehoods—absolute, unqualified, entire—never appeared in any publication in Christendom.

What follows? Steam force! I never mentioned steam nor any other force. "But, said the Governor, the power of pardon is vested in me, and if he be convicted he may be pardoned."

THE AMERICAN REVIEW. The April number of this valuable publication has come to hand, filled as usual with interesting matter.

VERY STRANGE INDEED! That men of common sense should so far forget what is due to them, as to permit a certain class of men to heap up wealth at their expense, thereby entailing misery and in many instances starvation upon their families!

Having heard this, however, General Harrison directed me to write a note of thanks to the Governor of New York, stating that he had done exactly what was proper, and by so doing had relieved the government from some embarrassment, and the country from some danger of a collision with a foreign power.

THE CAROLINA WATCHMAN

Salisbury, N. C. FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 17, 1846.

FOR GOVERNOR, William A. Graham, OF ORANGE COUNTY.

We are authorized to announce Hezekiah Turner, as a candidate for sheriff at the ensuing August election.

We are authorized to announce John L. Graham, as a candidate for sheriff at the ensuing August election.

We think a few fat Beesves might be sold in Town, at a fair price.

The Whigs will not slumber, we trust, when they should be up and doing, in the approaching campaign, either in the election for Governor or Members to the Legislature.

But whilst it is important to be on the alert, there is not, it occurs to us, the least possible occasion to entertain a fear as to the triumph of Mr. Graham.

The approaching election for the Legislature, this year, is one of interest, from the fact that it will devolve upon it to elect a Senator to Congress; and as North Carolina should be rightly represented there, it is therefore, the more important that the Whigs should put forth their strength.

"Is mere notoriety his object?"—The Wilmington Journal, a strong advocate of the claims of Mr. Shepard to the Gubernatorial Chair of North Carolina, in an article introductory to Mr. Leak's address to the Democracy, concludes with the above sentence.

R. H. TOLER. This gentleman so long known as the Editor of the Lynchburg Virginian, has taken charge of the editorial department of the Richmond Whig.

Randolph Herald.—The first number of a new paper under the above title, published at Ashborough, N. C., and edited by R. H. Brown, has been received.

By the arrival of the Packet Ship Northumberland intelligence to the 8th March has been received. There is no change in the price of cotton to record. In the money market very little was doing, and no change is noticed.

In nine cases out of ten, we venture to say, these persons were drawn from the ranks of the tillers of the soil; so that instead of contributing, as formerly, to the stock of bread-stuffs, &c., brought into market, they have become consumers to the full amount of all that is necessary to support them, thus patronizing, instead of competing with, those who continue to farm.

At a moderate calculation, they consume annually of breadstuffs, 2,000 barrels; and Pork to the amount of $200,000 lbs. Now to estimate the flour at $5 per barrel, and the Pork at $5 per hundred cwt., we have the handsome sum of $20,000, which is thrown into the hands of the farmer, just for these two articles alone.

Taking this view of Cotton Factories, it is clearly the interest of all concerned in Agricultural pursuits, to foster and encourage them amongst us. How strange then, that any of such should sustain a party in the country, whose every effort, in the political world, has a powerful tendency to break them up—to destroy them.

But say they—all the benefits which we derive from factories here may be enjoyed by sending our cotton, pork, and flour, to the manufactories of England!

But there are other considerations going to show the benefits of fostering the manufacturing interests of this Country, more national, and consequently, more important than the foregoing, which we will not take up.

From the above statement, it will be seen that New Orleans is the only receiving port at which there is an increase in receipts this year, and that increase only 25,557 bales; while at the remaining ports there has been a falling off, summing up in the aggregate, 386,483 bales.

The Sugar Crop of Louisiana.—It appears from a work by Mr. P. A. Champomier, that the whole crop of 1845 is 186,650 hogsheads, weighing 207,337,000 lbs.

A rencounter took place at Macon, Ga., on the 31st March, between C. F. Collins and Wm. J. Donnelly, which resulted in the death of Collins, by a pistol shot in the left breast.

From India late intelligence has been received, and the British are likely to have their hands full in their invasion and attempted subjugation of the Sikhs.

Carriages, Barouches, &c.—Mr. Isaac A. Witherspoon, of Mocksville, N. C., Carriage Builder, &c., passed through Town last Wednesday, to the South, with six beautiful vehicles of his own manufacture.

We understand, says the "Petersburg Republican" of yesterday, that on Saturday evening last, about 8 o'clock, the Jury in the case of the Commonwealth of Virginia vs. Thomas Ritchie, Jr., without leaving the box, rendered a verdict of "not guilty."

THE COTTON CROP. As the deficiency in this year's crop begins to be felt, says the Milledgeville (Ga.) Recorder, and as there is a contrary of opinions as to its extent, we append the following table, from which can be seen at a glance the deficiency at the respective places and dates named, and what is likely to be the deficiency in the whole crop, as compared with last year:

Table with columns: Where at, March 1846, 1845, Increase. Rows include Georgia, S. Carolina, N. Orleans, Mobile, Virginia, Florida, N. Carolina, and totals for 1846 and 1845.

The late Legislature of Virginia act directing a sale of the Potomac and Annapolis Rail Road, and the late purchasers thereof, by the Board and Roanoke Rail Road, recs the sale of all the lands, ever situated, "together with all privileges, and immunities, pertaining to the Potomac and Annapolis Rail Road Company, as well in Virginia, Carolina," and confers upon "all the franchise, rights, immunities, granted to and enjoyed any time heretofore by this State of North Carolina."

Be it further enacted, That of the Potomac and Annapolis Rail Road Company, or any time thereafter, North Carolina, or any company in said State for purposes of improvement, shall become the owner, or by Agent, or otherwise, of mouth and Roanoke Rail Road, used to be sold, or of the said Roanoke Rail Road, the Commonwealth of Virginia hereby reserves the right of Legislature or other authority, the powers, privileges and advantages, conveyed by the sale of said road, the same null and void.

Be it further enacted, That the State of North Carolina, at any time by legal process, to deprive the Petersburg Rail Road of the privileges and advantages, obtained from that State, by the said act, or omitted to be done by the Petersburg Rail Road Company, or by any other road company from conducting on so much of their rail-road as is in the State of North Carolina, or any reason of an act heretofore done by the Petersburg Rail Road, then all the rights, privileges and advantages granted to the Petersburg Rail Road, shall be null and void, and the State shall reinstate the Petersburg Rail Road in all the privileges granted by any act passed for their benefit, or until the Legislature otherwise direct.

Will somebody enlighten this means, if it means any thing to feel affronted at somebody, to be meant as an insult to somebody, but really as the thing stands, whom to quarrel with. The Virginia has evidently made itself for any one to feel angry.

The N. York Express speaks of the market, says: Stocks continuing to the alarm created by the Sub-Treasury. There is a panic in the money market.

The Journal of Commerce real panic in the street (the Sub-Treasury). Even the lost its terrors in comparison with his iron chest. Stocks declined, and the tendency is to further decline.
