TP Advocate of Peace in the British ouse of Commons .- When Sir Robert el was moving the House of Commons rotes of thanks to the commanders of British armies in India, for their dere victories over the Sikhs, and after a t eloquent tribute to the valor and of these commanders, which was reord by every speaker save one-that Mr Brotherton, held this language:

fr Brotherton said, he had no desire to rude on the attention of the house, but the speech of the honorable member Reading. (Mr. C. Russell) he thought it ald appear like posillanimity on his with his well known sentiments with rd to war, if he did not endeavor to Dicate his principles. Whatever might said of the hon, member for Reading knew that the advocates of the princiof peace were fast gaining ground his country. He, had no wish to dethe unanimity of the house in voting iks to those men who had risked their for what they believed would promote honor and safety of their country .as one of those who believed war to mongst the greatest scourges of the toman race, he would deeply regret to the military spirit of the country ine, and he believed it could be shown the best interests of nations could be moted-without it. he right honorable baronet had deed the horrors of the scenes which had n place in India, and he (Mr. B.) did like attributing to the Almighty what could not look upon with satisfaction. ere was a manifest difference between what God ordained and what he permitred and we should not confound these horrible scenes either with the name or the ceremonies of religion. He was, therefore decidedly against the consecration of flags, and placing the banners of war in the temples of peace. He believed God looked with equal eyes on all kind, though he might sometimes pergreat evils, such as war, to exist agst them's and he thought it was maniwrong to regard those evils which remitted for our punishment, as blessfor which we were indebted to his providence.

Mr. P. T. Barnum, of the New York seum was among the passengers in the teamer Great Western. He has brought nome with him a living Chimpanzee, or African ourang-outang, which he purchasfor six hundred guineas from the profors of the Surrey Zoological Gardens England. The Liverpool Chronicle es the subjoined remarks concerning rare animal:

the only living specimen in England, s universally acknowledged to be the tinest nost extraordinary specimen ever seen in and. Its actions, the sound of its voice e laughing and crying, approach as closely a skin as any child living. Mr. Barnum purchased the Chimpantee for his Ameri-Museum, of which he has recently become bronrietor. The genus is not only extremeduring the creature at such a heavy outlay whe gratification of his countrymen, is really rk Courier thus happily alludes to the ligation this gentleman recently receivfrom Mr. Webster, in his speech on the Vashington Treaty:

Among the best jokes of the present seaif not among the best that are extant, is the complacency of Mr. Senator Dickinson, unhis immortal drubbing in the body, of which some inscrutable dispensation of Divine evidence he has been permitted to become a emiler. So far from feeling the castigation rom Mr. Webster as an infliction, he actually seems to consider it a compliment, and to look pon himself as "booked" for immortality by very operation which has excoriated him as modern mortal has been excoriated before, els are said to become reconciled to skinning, " after they become used to it," but our phiphic Senator takes his first thrashing as gly as other animals do their last, and parts his epidermis in great glee-prima impre-

The Washington correspondent of Baltimore Patriot gives the following acerning Mr. Ashmun's statement that J. Ingersoll had tried to enlist Mr. Tywith him in his slanderous abuse of niel Webster:

Mr. Ashmun says he has been informed by entleman who was a conspicuous Tyler-man, Mr. Ingersoll had approached him, the asaid Tyler-man, and solicited that he would te to his friend Tyler and urge him to come in this matter against Mr. Webster. The der-man referred to, admits that he gave this formation to Mr. Ashmun, and declares that . Ingersoll did advise him to write to and ge Mr. Tyler to come out against Mr. Weber, but contends that he asked Mr. Ashmun t to make use of the information. Thus that Peas, anch of the matter stands at present."

The Blockade of the Rio Grande.-We learned last evening that formal protests had been made before the British Consul by the English houses which had shipped cargoes on board the schooners Equity and Floridian, for Matamoras, which were turned back by the United States brig Lawrence. off the mouth of the Rio Grande.-Picayune of Friday.

The Locofocos have elected a considerable majority to the Convention, which is to revise and amend the Constitution of New York.

FOR THE WATCHMAN THE FROZEN FAIRY.

" A band of fairies making a flying tour by moonlight, came suddenly upon the borders of a northern forest .-The full moon shining brilliantly upon the woods, festooned with icicles, made the scene of dazzling splendor. The fairies gazed in mute wonder, for never had they beheld aught so gorgeous," &c. .

A fairy Queen with her elfin train, Made a flying trip to cold winter's reign, With wild delight as they roamed along, Their tiny voices were raised in song. 'Mid the glittering halls they winged their way, Illum'd by departing beams of day; They perched on an icicled branch of spray, Or rode on a snow-flake, away, away.

The brightest one of that lovely band. Knelt low to the Queen, and kissed her hand, " A boon great Queen, - wilt thou leave me here. To dance but one night in the moonbeams clear;" A shade of doubt dimmed the Queen's bright eye, She paused as in sorrow to frame a reply; "Ah simple child, too late thou may'st find, That splendor and fame oft leave peace behind."

How happy was she in those diamond halls. With no sound around save the icicle falls, She spread with delight her rainbow wings, And a wild cry of joy thro' the forest rings .-But soon a chill on her heart there came,-No warmth from Aurora's brilliant flame .-And the snow spirits came with their chilling breath, And all was as still, and cold, as death.

" Sisters, sweet sisters, come take me home, I faint in this bright but cheerless zone, My feeble wings can no longer soar, O come to me loved ones, ere life is o'er." Frail beautiful one, thou wast never made, For this cold, this dazzling chilly glade, In thine own sunny clime of light and love Thy wings would unfurl and soar above.

"Gifted, yet humble one," sigh not to roam, From the simple delights of thy own lowly home, Hope not to find in a loftier sphere, The peace and content which attend on thee here.

Ah! many have song'st 'mid the world's cold glare To rest their warm hopes and affections there, And too late have they found, that tho' fair and bright The dream of fame ends in death and night. April 25, 1846.

THE UNION HOTEL, MOCKSVILLE.

Messrs. Editors: I hope I am not intruding upon the privacy of your columns to say a few words in recommendation of the above Hotel, recently fitted up at considerable expense by the gentlemanly proprietors, Messrs. H. & R. assible to the human species, and its hands, Reynolds. It is eminently deserving of public and feet are as pure white, and passess as patronage. Having had occasion, very recently, to spend a few days in the pleasant little village of Mocksville, I was charmed with the superior accommodations which the Union Hotel afforded, and I left not only the village but the rd, but its existence is precarious in north. Hotel and its landlord with reluctance. The halitudes - so that Mr. Barnum's spirit in proprietors are gentlemen in principle, feeling, conduct, and well qualified and desirous of promoting the comfort of those whose good fortune eving of praise. We saw the Chimpanzee may lead them to call. No expense is spared. e Waterloo, vesterday, where it was in- no privation not undergone which may conduce sed by a few of Mr, Barnum's personal to such a desirable end. The claims of many of our best houses of entertainment to public patronage are too often overlooked, and I think. Mr. Senator Dickinson.-The New without disparagement to others, that the Messirs. Reynold's establishment worthy of more extensive notoriety than it seems to possess. Their bar is furnished to supply and gratify the most varied taste-not only is to be found the iced lemonade suited to the cool-blooded Washingtonian, but also the "glorious mint julip," as some of our jolly fellows have it, and decidedly some of the greatest brandy that the county affords, and Davie is remarkable for her good liquors. In short, to sum up, the accommodations necessary and requisite to form one of the best Hotels in western North Carolina, are all to be found at the Union Hotel. C.

IT Those of our citizens who desire a goo will find one in the justly celebrated Pills of Dr. Brandreth, which have performed cures upon thousands of helpless and hopeless persons, after the usual scientific skill of physicians had consoled them with the assuran that they could do no more. The properties of these Pills, as an anti-bilious and aperiont medicine, are unrivalled; all who use them recommend them; their virtues surpass all eulogy, and must be used to be appreciated. The weak and delicate will be strengthened by their use, not by bracing, but by removing the cause of weakness, the gross and corrupt humors of the body .-They require no change in the diet, or care of any kind. Plain directions accompany each box, so that every one is his own competent physician.

These Pills are for sale at 25 cents per box, by our agents in every town in the State, and by the following highly respectable gentlemen in this vicinity, viz: J. H. Enniss, Salisbury ; David Fraley, Rockville ; A. & D. W. Hunnicut, Gold Hill; T. C. Graham, Cowansville; J. Krider & Son, Mount Vernon.
