GOOD JOKE.

The democrats of our Legislature introduced a Resolution in the Senate, to allow James Page, the Democratic Doorkeeper of that body, last session, and not re-elected this session, pay for one day's service at the beginning of the session, and also his mileage in coming from home to wait at the door till the Senate was duly organized. Mr. FRANCES called for the yeas and nays on the second reading, much to the surprise of the democratic members. They were recorded, and every member voted yea, beginning with a whig member. After the democrats were thus committed, Mr. Frances introduced an amendment awarding the same pay and mileage to S. J. Finch, one of his constituents, who happened to be a Whig; and he read a Resolution offered in his case at the last session, similar to the one now offered in favor of Page, and which was rejected by he vote of the democratic party!

The Resolution was laid on the table, at the suggestion of a democratic member, that there might be time for reflection, and to ascertain if the appropriation would be lawful. There was not a moment's pause about paying a partizan, in the person of Page, but when a Whig fell into the same category, an if was in the way-We have no doubt but both will be paid ; certainly if it is considered legal. But Page would have got it law or no law, if it had not been for the amendment proposed by Mr. FRANCES-which had the effect of tickling the consciences of the democracy of the North Carolina Senate. "Ma conscience !"- Wil. Com.

Collections, too, are going on in all the churches for the war. The private contributions, otherwise, are also large. But when our forces, if ever, reach the heart of Mexico, we are told, such is the enthusiasm and determination of the Mexicans not to be subdued, that we shall have to pass over the dead bodies of nearly the whole popin Mexico, who dares surrender an inch this side the Rio Grande, or an inch of California, without a quid porquo."

The great "breach of promise" case, which was tried last week in Louisville, has resulted in the jury giving a verdict of $6000 damges to the fair plaintiff, the defendant to pay the costs. The parties were Miss Nano Haynes (aged about 30) vs Mr. John Hays (aged about 54) There was no promise proved in the case-but there was a good deal of attention, much flirtation, and a great desire on the part of the plaintiff to " catch the rich old bachelor." She did not catch him, but she has some of his money—he being reputed to lars. The Louisville Courier says that the announcement of the verdict in the case caused several gentlemen who have been accustomed to think they could do pretty much as they pleased, "to shake in their shoes!"

In his late address before the State Agricultural Society of South Carolina, Judge King presented some weighty considerations respecting the over-production of cotton, and the absolute necessity of turning attention to the cultivation of some other staple. Even if the discovery of the "explosive cotton" should increase its consumption several hundred thousand bales, still (he said) the production would be increused at the same time to such an extent in the rich cotton-growing regions of the Southwest as either to exceed the demand or to keep down the price of the article. He earnestly recommended, therefore, the introduction of the Olive Tree as a permanent and profitable staple, admirably suited to the whole low country of the South, including South Carolina, Georgia. and Florida. He gave an interesting account of the rise and progress of the cultivation of the olive in foreign countries, and adverted to some unsuccessful experiments to introduce it in this country, ascribing the failure to the want of patience and perseverance on the part of those who had undertaken them. The olive, from the seed, is of very slow growth, and does not attain to maturity under twenty years, but, when engrafted, it will bear fruit in two years. The oil is said to be highly nutritious as food, and may be substituted for bacon, and is, besides, used very extensively in various manufactures. The longetive of the tree is remarkable. It is estimated that it will live for nineteen centu-Some olive trees, Judge King said, are now in existence whose history may be traced back, with infallible certainty, for six or eight hundred years. Mr. Jefferson, many years ago, recommended that Southern planters should make a fair experiment of the olive; and it is probably that it would have been attempted but for the successful cultivation of cotton in the Southern States, now rendered unprofitable by the opening of the Mississippi valley to the cultivation of that great staple. The news of Whig victories, with which we were all electrified a few weeks ago, is coming back to us, in the distant papers, like the echoes of pleasant music. The New Orleans papers are full of it—we mean the Whig papers. Our Locofoco friends are so busy with the Mexican intelligence and other matters that they have very little time to devote to politics. THE AMERICAN REVIEW has now reached nearly the end of a second year. Its success so far has been entirely unprecedented. Its subscription list now numbers about 3,500, with a constant increase. The public sense of the value of the work is shown by the fact, that of the numerous new subscribers whose names have been sent into the office within the last few months, a large number have ordered the back volumes. Ample arrangements have been made to add greatly to the merits of the work, in both its political and literary character; and it is confidently believed that the patronage of this Review, on the part of the Whig party, and of the literary public generally, will soon be so large as to enable it to pay so liberally for every order of high and finished writing, as to make it in all respects the most able and attractive periodical published in the United States. We earnestly ask the continued confidence and support of all true minds in the country. ENGRAVINGS .- There will be four engravings each year, carefully executed; and what is of more importance, accompanied with ample biographies, that may stand as a part of the history of the country. More embellishments may be given, if the intrinsic value of the of the Public to his NEW and LARGE STOCK of Review can thereby be enhanced.

TERMS.—The Review will continue to be published at Five Dollars, in advance: Three copies, however, will be afforded at twelve dollars; Five for twenty dollure; so that Committees, Societies, Clubs, &c., can obtain them at a more liberal rate. The cash system, and payment in advance, must be urged on our subscribers, it being the only way that a periodical can be efficiently sustained. REDUCTION OF POSTAGE .- A great item of expense is saved in the reduction of postage. The postage on the meres, Fancy do., Sattinets, Kentucky Jeans, Palo Alto Review is not half the former amount Jeans, Rio Grande Cassimere, Plaid, Linseys and Ker-

These may be the occasion by the strong impression they have upon the moral, may seriously affect the bodily functions. How few persons are there who consider that'the action of these upon the humors is the occasion of them becoming corrupt, or of exciting the principle that occasions their corruption! But so it is. And the application to Brandreth's Pills under these circumstances will be productive of more benefit than all the nervous remedies in the world. Practical facts prove it.

External Pains.

People who are affected with chronic sickness, and those crippled, firmly believe that their painful situation, after a fall or a blow received, or a bad wound, or after having strained themselves, is only and simply the result of the action of these external causes. Let me tell these people that the majority of these cases would have been eured had they resorted to Brandreth's Pills. In proof of this, we find a number of persons injured, much in the same manner; the same applications cured some, while others receive no benefit. These latter had that within themselves, which being roused into action by the accident, aggravated the cause of their sufferings. By purging with Brandreth's Pills their bodies will be placed upon a par with those whose humors were in a better condition. [Nov. 20-30-4t
