We give up a large portion of our paer this week to the news of the recent rest banks in Mexico. There is nothing higher interest at this time, and nothing so much sought after. VERMONT ELECTION.

Full returns have not yet been received from the election which took place in Vermont a few days since, but enough is known to convince us that the Whigs there have triumphed. According to the Boston Atlas, the Senate stands 18 Whags and 10 Democrats, and two districts (Essex and Grand Isle) to hear from. Report says that the former has elected a Whig and the latter | tory of the country : and probably this has affected the a Democrat. The House of Representatives will stand about 110 Whigs, 80 Democrats, and 10 Liberty men. The number of towns not represented is 32.

The vote for Governor is incomplete. Returns from 168 towns give Eaton (Whig) 18,512; Dillingham (Loco) 15,362; Brainard (Lib.) 5,493. The Legislalature being Whig, there is no doubt of the election of all the Whig candidates for State officers.

The Atlas remarks that, when we take into consideration the many distracting local issues which were presented, and the apathy which prevailed among the Whigs arising from a feeling of security, we think the " Green Mountain Boys" have done well.

MAINE ELECTION.

An election for State Officers and four Members of ongress (to fill vacancies) took place in Maine on Monday last. In consequence of a severe storm on that day the vote was unusually small.

Asa W H. Clapp is elected to Congress in the Portland district, and Franklin Clark in what is called the Comet District." They are both Democrats. The other two districts not heard from. If it shall turn out that the Whigs have carried either of them, it will be a

The vote for Governor in eighty-six towns shows the following results: for David Bronson (W.) 10,802; John W. Dana (D.) 11,441; Liberty, 2,448. The same town last year gave 14,100 for Bronson; 12,979 for Dana; and 3,595 for third party candidate.

WISCONSIN ELECTION.-In all probability John H. Tweedy, the Whig candidate, is elected Delegate to Congress. The returns thus far show Tweedy to be 1,008 votes ahead, and it is fair to presume his election by about 800 majority. There is no election of the year which, rightly understood, should be productive of more satisfaction to the Whig party, and friends of morality generally -N. Y. Tribune.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN MARTIN SHIVE, COM-PANY C, OF CABARRUS CO. N. C. REGIMENT.

We deeply regret to announce the death of Captain Shive, of Cabarrus County, one of the best disciplinarians and officers, in the North Carolina Regiment, in Mexico. The melancholy event will cause a lively sorrow and general grief, among his many friends and acquaintances, in his native land. He has found an early grave far from his family-his friends and native home. He has left a wife and several children to mourn his death, and a whole community to cherish his memory.

The following letter from the 1st Lieut, of the Company, to Thos. S. Henderson, Esq., P. M., at Concord, gives the details of his death.

The men of one company ordered to perform the duty refused, but were compelled to obedience by the Colonel. One of them, however, refused to take his arms until the Colonel held his sword over him and threatened to cut him down if he refused. That company having evinced a determination not to tent , and obeyed, contrary to his expectatons, and were dismissed, after answering to their names. Subsequently, quite late in the evening, another posse assembled in front of the Colonel's tent, but as he came in sight they began to disperse in different directions. He ordered them to balt, but they refused. The Colonel then cried out that he would fire if they The Secretary of State has avowed his did not halt, and ordered them again, and upon their refusing, discharged his pistol into the crowd, bringing down two men, wounding one of them mortally. This prompt and decisive step quelled the mutiny, and the Colonel reported to Gen. Cushing and Gen. Wool, who approved of his conduct. They both repaired to the camp, but every thing was quiet. I regret to say that the Colonel did not receive any very unanimous support from his officers on the occasion. The man who was so badly shot died

FACTS IN THE HISTORY OF DISTILLATION IN Iredell County.

FOR THE CAROLINA WATCHMAN.

The manufacture of ardent spirits belongs to the his present condition of Iredell County, as much as any County in the Western part of our State. No one can have passed through some parts of it without being struck with the great quantity of waste land; "old fields," washed into gullies; grown over with bushes, pines, sassafras sprouts and broom grass. And, on enquiring the reason of this, we learn, that this is " a burnt district;" distillation has caused it.

We will mention a few facts, connected with the hisory of this business, as gathered from a very respectable gentleman, who is well acquainted with it; and if we mistake not, has had some experience in it. He was raised near Henry's Ford, on the South Yadkin; and has lived in that vicinity since 1788. He says, that from that year onward, for several years, there were but two ills in all that region ; one at Jacob Nichols', and one at James Gay's. There was another, however, long before this, at Morrison's mill, near Concord Church, and, two made but little whiskey, and it was difficult to obtain at times when of all others it was thought indispensable. A drunkard was hardly ever seen; there were not more than two or three in the whole circle of my informant's acquaintance, who were ever known to be intoxicated, and those not habitually. Though the number of stills had increased some before that time. what gave a great impulse to the business, was the duty laid on stills by Congress, either in the latter part of Washington's Administration, or in that of the elder Adams. This duty, was paid at so much per gallon on the quantity made; or according to the capacity of the still, for the time it was run. In the latter case, in order to make as much as possible during the term of the license, they kept the fire going night and day; and scarcely stopped for the Sabbath. Thus they kept the him. Terms made known on the day of sale. building and the vessels in a high temperature; fermentation was more complete : and more liquor mas made out of the same quantity of grain than formerly. It was now found to be a profitable business. As late as the year 1800, however, no great quantity of spirits was made here, and it was still scarce; but after that, the number of stills in operation began to increase rapidly. Almost every farmer had one near his spring branch .-Whiskey began to be very common, and used freely. There was a great demand for men well acquainted with the process of distillation, to conduct the business. Those who brought good recommendations obtained high wages. From 1800, to 1810, the market in South Carolina was good; but the number of stills was so great as greatly

Farmers cut down their timber, cleared their land and planted it in corn, till it was worn out: then they threw it open, and cleared more: and though it was originally good land, like the prairies in the Western States, probably there is no part of the County, as good as this at first, that is now as poor as what would be included in a cirele reaching some ten or more miles in every direction, having its centre near the mouth of Rocky Creek. Duto come; and if they had been won last night, with Typhoid Pneumonia. He was sick only two days. Our Cuptain was a good officer, and I bemade here than in all the rest of the County; and the County had the pre-eminence of having more stills, and making more whiskey than any other in the State.*

The article became so cheap, that all could obtain it: drunkenness increased at a fearful rate. The County grew poorer; and many people were ruined. An im-At first, when spirits bore a high price, and the poorer class could not afford to use it freely, men of the best ability to purchase, ruined themselves; but afterwards, when it became so cheap, the multitude followed them. Those who made, drank, and trafficked in whiskey, injured themselves in person and property; some ruined themselves in both, though there were some honorable exceptions. Men of sound judgment and experience testify that stilling is "mighty lean business to make money at": that " it is a great disadvantage to the majority of those who have been engaged in it." "Their regiment and in the Mississippi and Virginia negroes are spoiled by it": the history of the County property, have lost both by it. Houses, lands and negrows, have all been swallowed up in the bottomless gulf. Familes have been rendered penniless and wretched, by
