A LOCK OF HAIR.

BY MIES ALICE CAREY. Three times the zephyr's whisper, And the soft sunlit showers, Have called up from their slumber The early spring-time flowers :

Three times the Summer wild-birds Have built among the trees, And gone, with the dull Autumn, Three times across the seas-Since this bright lock was severed In the hopelessness of bliss : O, there's a world of eloquence In simple things like this !

What a moult of strange feelings It wakes within my brain : Half joyous and half sorrowful--Balf rapture, half of pain,

One moment I am dreaming Loves broken chain is whole, And echos of lost music Are trembling in my soul.

Another, and I 'm sitting Where the lights of memory burn, And thinking of the summer-times That never can seturn.

Of in the solemn watches Of the long and weary night, No link beside has bound me To the morning and the light.

"T is strange my heart will vibrate From gladness to despair, Whenever I am thinking of This simple tress of hair. Mount Healthy, Ohio.

A VALUABLE HINT FOR FARMERS.

The celebrated Mr. Robert Bakewell of Dishly, Leicestershire, and the founder of the New Leicestershire sheep, used to tell an anerdote with exceeding high glee, of a farmer not only of the olden school, but of the golden times .-This farmer, who owned and occupied one thousand acres of land, had three daughters .-When his eldest daughter married, he gave her one quarter of his land for her portion, but no money; and he found by a little more speed daughter married, he gave her one-third of the He then set to work, and began to grub up his

JUDGE O'NEAL'S TESTIMONY.

What causes the angry passions of man to rise above all restraint, and leads to deeds of blood ? The ardent spirits sold by legalized and lawful retailers. Where occurs the homicides, the murders, which so often shock humanity? In grog shops and taverns. What horrid cry comes from yonder place of fashionable amusement, and from that other scene of startling orgies ?---the death shrick of men stabbed to the heart by those who had lost reason and sense in the legalized cup. Ob, dreadful, terrible traffic, which, under new, sells that which makes a man a demon and a murderer! And who benefits by this accurred trade ? Certainly not the commuaway to sustain the drunkard pauper and to punish the drunken criminal. Individuals are not benefitted. Experience exhibits the startling fact that the curse of the Prophets of old rests upon the drumbard makers to this day. They do not prosper in their " baskets and store," nor do their families usually benefit by the morals of the trade ; while the husband and father of. destroyer. SHELTER FOR STOCK.

At this inclement season those having the care of stock should be sedulous in their endeavors to render them dry and comfortable. It is bad policy to allow animals of any description to get chilled and wet, or to remain exposed in situations where there is no opportunity to lay or stand with comfort. Under such circumstances vastly a greater quantity of food is required for their daily sustenance and is consumed with proportional diminshed effects. If an animal is endued with sufficient hardihood to suffer with impunity
