

POETICAL.

WOMAN'S SMILES.

There is a star that brightly gleams, Calm in the sky above,
And thro' her life its golden beams Of brightness and love...

TO MISS S. E. S.

Lady! thou art fair as the lily white, Thy charms how fascinating;
Lovely as love itself the sight,
Of one so unassuming...

A COINCIDENCE.

How many coincidences, which would each be remarkable, might not be traced between events distant from the other, were we, in the midst of this busy world, at liberty to turn over old records in search of precedent and example...

We dare say, our good President and his Cabinet, if they had ever heard it, had not in their minds, when they took up and acted upon Lady Franklin's Letter, that there was to be found on record an incident with which this late occurrence is really coincident...

CIRCULAR.

To all Captains and Commanders of armed ships acting by commission from the Congress of the United States of America, now in war with Great Britain.

GENTLEMEN: A ship having been fitted out from England, before the commencement of this war, to make discoveries of new countries in unknown seas...

Marking Sheep.—An agriculturist says: I wish to impress it upon every one who keeps a flock, that not more than half a dozen, that Vermilion red is the best thing that I ever saw used to paint mark sheep...

Panama must be a poor place for tailors, glaziers and milliners, to judge from the following facts in a letter from that city to the N. H. Gazette:

The census of Charleston just completed, shows the total population to be 35,451—white 14,187; free colored and slaves, 12,264; which on a comparison with the United States census of 1840, shows a deficit of 2810.

The people of Wilmington are preparing to ward off the cholera. All vessels coming to that port are to anchor out until they obtain a written permission from the Post Physician, and the town is undergoing a thorough cleansing and lighting.

THE NEW YORK RIOT.

The London Times appears quite gratified that the Republicans of the United States have had a riot, as well as the monarchies of Europe. It winds up by saying:

"As for the measures taken by the authorities, though they present a striking contrast to the details of the Montreal riot, and though they manifest a decision and an effect beyond what we have been lately accustomed to witness on the part of standing armies, emperors, and kings, they do not appear to have exceeded the necessity of the crisis. Order was to be restored—liberty, life and property secured—and the good name of the Union established. When these were menaced by a desperate mob, force was to be encountered with force. The troops could not throw paving stones, so they returned the volley with bullets. The consequences of a deadly collision are inevitable, and attach to those who provoke it. We cannot, however, regard the catastrophe without some apprehension.
Already wicked attempts have been made, by incendiary placards, to link the 'aristocrats' of New York and England, and represent Mr.
Macready as establishing a British tyranny in the United States. The idea is too gross even for the 'Bowery boys,' but the excitement, supplied as it is with so much anti-British material, is too likely to be renewed, unless all the good sense of the Union is excited to extinguish it."

The London Daily News animadvert as follows on the article of the Times:

"To the great and unexpected relief of the Times as well as others, a little cloud appeared in the far west. To be sure, it was only a cloud of theatrical dust raised by a theatrical row, between the theatrical partisans of two rival actors. As well might one have sought the elements of a national quarrel between Jenny Lind and Mr. Harris, as a political meaning in the friction between Mr. Macready and Mr.
Forrest. But what of that? Any stick will do to beat a dog; the beating is the thing of importance, not the implement wherewith the chastisement is to be inflicted.
For want of a better, the riot at the New York Opera House must be made to serve a political turn. Some blockhead had been heard (or at all events might have been heard) to utter certain opprobrious or disrespectful, or at least equivocal expressions against the British actor, and to indulge in some national praises, of an invidious nature, of the Yankee tragedian. This was quite enough.
On this peg our aristocratic contemporary has hung a whole column of vituperation against the people of America, the people of France, the people of Germany—all who love the cause of human emancipation, wherever they are to be found, and more especially Mr. Cobden, as the advocate of peace, economy and non-intervention. Really this looks like despair.
Are the monopolists of order beginning to be afraid that self-government is going to win?"

Desperate and fatal Rencontre.—Cassius M. Clay Killed.—We learn from a telegraphic despatch from Louisville, Ky., dated June 16, published in the Baltimore papers, that at a public meeting which took place in Madison county on that day between Cassius M. Clay and Jos. Turner, a quarrel ensued, which resulted in a recontre between the two parties. They first drew pistols, which snapped but did not go off. They then attacked each other most fearfully and fiercely with bowie knives. Mr. Clay was stabbed through the heart and expired immediately.
Mr. Turner was severely wounded in the abdomen and groin, and has since died.

This dreadful tragedy has caused great excitement and much sorrow among the friends of both parties. Another despatch from Louisville, dated June 18, says:—"It seems that Cassius M. Clay had been invited to address an Emancipation meeting in Madison county, Ky. After he had commenced speaking, Mr. Turner, being present, took exceptions to some portions of his remarks and called him a liar before the whole audience, from which insult arose the difficulty resulting so fatally to both."—Pet.

Loss of One Hundred and Eleven Emigrants.— The Quebec papers report the loss of the ship Maria from Limerick, with one hundred and eleven emigrants. She foundered among the ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and only five of the crew were saved.

John A. Matson, of Franklin county, has been nominated by a Whig State Convention as their candidate for the office of Governor of Indiana at the ensuing election.

Among the cases disposed of during the late term of the Superior Court for this county, is that of Mr. McPhail's George, charged with arson. He was acquitted; but is to stand a trial for burglary at the next term.—Communicator

A SINGULAR PHENOMENON.

The New York Courier says:

A gentleman who has resided a long time in San Antonio, and who witnessed the late epidemic in that place, states that the water of the San Antonio river, which is celebrated for its purity, and could at any other time be used after standing several days, was unfit for use during the prevalence of the cholera, when kept a few hours. In less than half a day a vessel filled with water from the stream emitted an offensive smell, similar to bilge water. The rain water, too, that collected in pools in the street would be covered with a green scum the day after it fell.
In addition to this singular phenomenon, the same gentleman states that the air was filled with a light substance similar to the down of a thistle, which could easily be discerned with the naked eye by looking towards the sun. The particles, when examined, disclosed minute green specks, covered, like the seeds of some plants, with a substance that gives them buoyancy. These facts, however strange they may appear, are from reliable authority; and however, effectually the animalcule doctrine may have exploded, there is, in this instance, a seeming connexion between the cholera and the phenomenon alluded to, which merits investigation.

An Affecting Incident.—It is long since a funeral in New Orleans has occasioned more sincere and general sympathy than did that of the lamented Gaines on Thursday.
Many a heart felt the secret pangs of grief, and bled with unaffected sorrow, all unknown to the outward world—unnoticed by the vulgar gaze! An incident of an affecting character occurred while the body was being taken to the lake, going to demonstrate that under the rough exterior the finest feelings of our nature lie concealed. When the coffin, with its sable drapery, was placed on one of the cars, an old man approached it, and laying his hand upon it, exclaimed, with much emotion: "Farewell, old friend! I was with you at Fort Erie! and, turning away, wept like a child. This example was followed by one who wore the habiliments of the laborer in humble life. Laying his brawny hand upon the coffin, he, too, with feeling said: "Farewell, old friend!" while the tears of grief coursed down his sun-burned cheek. Who can tell what these hearts felt!—N. O. Pic.

J. R. Underwood, Whig U. S. Senator from Kentucky, addressed a meeting in favor of emancipation, at Bowling Green, on the 18th ultimo, in which he said it had been intimated that he and Mr. Clay would be instructed by the next Legislature to resign their seats in the Senate on account of their advocacy of emancipa-tion. "But," said he, "I will do my duty, let the consequences be as they may."
Mr. Underwood's speech, which occupied two hours in the delivery, is spoken of as very able.

Dr. AVERETT, the Democratic candidate for Congress in the third district of Virginia, has received the official return, two of the Sheriffs declining to sign it. Mr.
Flournoy was at the meeting of the Sheriffs, and protested against this award, as the polls in one county were kept open three days for the convenience of the Democratic candidate, while they were closed after the first day in all the other counties of the district.

A neighboring Locofoco print, in the course of some billingsgate against the Administration, says: "We are Democrats from necessity."

We do not doubt it. Necessity is the only apology for a great deal of disreputable work which we see daily performed.—Nat. Int.
