THE HOUR GLASS. BY JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. ALAS! how swift the moments fly ! How flash the years along ! Scarce here, yet gone already by, The burden of a song. See childhood, youth and manhood pass, And age with furrowed brow ; Time was,-Time shall be-drain the glass-But where is Time is now ? Time is the measure but of change ; No present hour is found ; The past, the future, fill the range, Of Time's unceasing round. When then is now ? In realms above, With God's atoning Lamb, In regions of eternal love, Where sits, enthroned, I AM. Then pilgrim, let thy joys and tears On time no longer lean ; But henceforth all thy hopes and fears From earth's affection ween : To God let votive accents tise ; With truth, with virtue live ; So all the bliss that Time denies Eternity shall give.

From the New York Tribune. A STICK OF TYPE. A STICK of Type | what shot or shell From War's grim camp hath half the power A Stick of Type ! with this one thought, That Freedom's Man's God-given dower . That Stick of Type hath more of might Than warrior hosts or fortress walls, And it shall batter towers to dust That laugh at siege or cannon balls. That stick of Type ! I see it break The eldest of the blood built thrones, And life the yoke from millions, bowed O'er dead slave-millions' bleaching bones. That Stick of Type ! Careering fleets Before it idly flap their wings, And bannered armies pass like chaff. Grown hideous 'mong remembered things. That Stick of Type ! God bless the Faust, Who wrought it in his conquering brain'; That Stick of Type! God bless the Hoe, Who scatters it abroad like rain. The Type ! the Press ! the living thought ! By steam and lightning sped abroad, Shall conquer yet, and bring to man The Freedom, Love and Truth of God ! C. D. STUART.

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION.

We are pleased to notice that Governor Fish recommends the passage of a Home stead Exemption Law. His message el oquently and truthfully says :---

"While it is admittedly a primary duty of the Legislature to enact laws for the punishment of vice, it is no less its duty to remove the causes which frequently lead to the commission of crime. The impression made upon the youthful mind by the gentle force of parental apthority and example, and by the associations of the family circle, and among the most active and enduring of the influences which control the conduct of after life. Much of the vice that we are called upon to deplore, may be traced to the early removal of its subject from the reach of that authority and example, and from the innocent, but wholesome associations of a home, however humble. The cause of morality, no less than the dictates of humanity, demand the preservation of the family circle, and the maintenance of the family home, as efficient preventives of vice, and sure and permanent contributors to individual virtue and happiness, and to public prosperity and order."

This principle has already been incorporated into the code of several of the States, and although in this instance, as in many others involving a reform in the condition of ancient laws, there may be much opposition in the outset, it will eventually be generally adopted. It is a subject requiring the enactment of many and well considered guards against the practice of fraud, but some such securities we believe can be devised, and if found insufficient, experience would suggest the remedy. We are aware of the hostility which the subject encounters in many minds. There are some men who. perceiving the relation of debtor and creditor to exist between two persons, cannot conceive of any just and right law which would interpose to mitigate or modify that relation by legal restraint .- With them the support and education of families, however numerous, young or helpless, is swallowed up in the consideration that a been very confused and contradictory .-debt is owed and must be paid, drawing 5th. That he had had large fires at his no distinction between those who have become reduced by the delingnency of others, and, those who have wasted their substance in extravagance and dissipation. Shylock was just such a man. He would have exacted the "pound of flesh" in all cases, and repelled the idea of a non im prisonment law, an insolvent law, or that of exemption of anything from execution. It is obligatory on every man to pay his just debts as fast as his means will enable him to do so. It is equally obligatory that women and children should be fed and clothed, reared and educated. Consistent provisions should be made for both objects as far as possible.

Dr. Webster's Trial at Boston, is exciting the most intense interest. The Attorney General, Mr. Clifford, after stating that he should confine his remarks to facts, proposed to prove two things, 1st, that-Dr. Parkman was murdered, and 2d, that he was murdered by Dr. Webster. He then recounted the history of the disappearance of Dr Parkman on Friday, the 231 of November and of his last being seen at 2 o'clock of that day, entering the Medical College.

The other points of the Attorney were: 1st. That after the most diligent search, aided by the police and large rewards, in every direction, no other probable traces of Dr. Parkman, as either alive or dead. had been discovered. 2d. That on the 30th of November, in the vault of a privy connected with the chemical laboratory occupied by the prisoner, a portion of a human body was found, and with it certain towels, marked with the name of the prisoner. There were found also, in the grate of the furnace, pressed into cinders; certain bones, parts of mineral teeth and pieces of gold. Subsequently, there was found in a remote corper of that laborato ry, a tea chest, in which was imbedded in tan, the thorax and chest of a human body, with a hunter's knite, and a piece of twine. These remains were submitted to competent medical and scientific gentlemen, and tound to correspond in every particular with the budy of Dr. George Parkman, so far as they were parts of a body. The teeth wore he proved to be his by Dr. Keep, who had made a set for him, preserving the mould 3d. That the pecuniary relations of Drs. Parkman and Webster, were such as to create a motive on the part of Webster, All his personal property was mortgaged to Dr. Parkman, who in consequence of an offer Dr. W. had made to Robert G. Shaw, to mortgage its effects a second time, regarded him as a dishonest man, and who conse quently had often urgently solicited Webster for the payment of his debt, which tably with any stock in the market in style, quality and had greatly incited Webster against him. 4th. #### To the People of North Carolina.

The history of our Revolutionary struggle in North Carolina is fertile in events both tragic and romantic and in many instances the two are so connected as to be inseparable. Writers have been found in several portions of the Union, who have undertaken to rescue from oblivion the Revolutionary incidents of their respective localities; but as yet North Carolina has found no one to undertake the task for her. Unworthy and incompetent as I am to do justice to the subject, and unprepared as I am to devote that time and attention to it which fis importance demands, yet I am willing to lend my feeble aid in bringing up from the abyss of forget-fulness, the deeds and transactions of our Revolutionary sires, the events of a by-gone generation that lived in " the times that tried men's souls," and at a period (as is now apparent) when the world began to throw off the shackles of tyranny, and to emerge from the darkness of oppression, ignorance, and superstition, into the light of liberty, knowledge, and true religion.

It is my design to collect and arrange, in the form of sketches, tales, and legendary romance, the Revolutionary incidents of the State; and I shall feel thankful to any person informed of any event or incident worthy of note, to communicate the same to me. Will the people of the State aid me in my undertaking ? To doubt their co-operation and assistance would be to impeach the patriotic character which they have so long and so justly maintained. Address,

FRANK. I. WILSON, Rutherfordton, N. C.

IP The naval force of the United States, including sailing and steam vessels of all sizes, in and out of commission, consists of 75 vessels, mounting 2,048 guns .-The naval force of England in commission consists of 61 sailing vessels, mounting 2,047 guns, and 78 steamers of 16,626 horse power. Reserved force, 36 sailing vessels, ships of the line and frigates, and 43 steamers. The French navy consists of 55 sailing vessels in commission, mounting 2,100 guns, and 64 steamers of 12,and 22 steamers. The Russian navy is next that of France and close upon it in strength, that of Anstria ranks next, and the navies of Turkey and Denmark follow. The navy of Spain, once the most formidable on the ocean, is now reduced to 55 vessels, of which but two are ships of the line, the whole mounting only 721 guns. It will be seen that the navies of England and France are most nearly balanced, England only having the advantage in the larger number of steam vessels, a fact which proves her readier appreciatian of a steam navy than any other nation. Considering the commercial and territorial position of the United States, our steam navy is totally inadequate to our wants and means.

The Destruction of the Solar System -Prof. Nichol. which however subtle tends to diminish the centrifugal force and add to the attraction of the sun. However slowly it may approach we may yet contemplate the day when this present system shall pass away; not, however, into a vast ruin, but in its own beautiful and majestic order, just like a flower, which having adorned falls back obediently upon its mother's bosom."

SICKNESS AND MORTALITY IN CALIFORNIA.

A letter written by Mr. Edward E. Powers, an intelligent gentleman who was formerly employed as a compositor in the New York Tribune office, and is now engaged on the Placer Times, at Sacramento city, Jan. 11, says:

"The population of this town, in No vember last, was supposed to be from five to seven thousand, though much less at present ; Dr. Hazzard tells me that the graves that have been dug and filled within the year, in the various burying grounds' near the town, number full five thousand. You may be under the impression, from statements published in the California papers and elsewhere that the climate of this country is of a very superior order: 870 horse power. Reserved force, 25 line of battleships but the very reverse is the fact: You. I believe, have never suffered from a visi tation of the California fever, and you have been lucky in that respect. Take my word for it, any man that is in any thing like comfortable circumstances at home, doing a fair business, and enjoying reasonable health, is an unfortunate man to allow himself to be wheedled into the opinion that he may render himself better off in life by leaving the comforts of civilization, and inflicting upon himself the various horrors of this detestable country,
