

Improvement in Saddles.—Mr. George Fisher has invented a very excellent improvement on riding saddles, which will enable the equestrian to ride the "flying courser," with a great deal more ease and pleasure than with the old kind of saddles, and it will also be easier for the animal. The improvement consists in having the seat of the saddle portable, or capable of being detached from the pad, (the old ones are fastened,) and by constructing the inside of the seat on both sides, and the surface of the pad, in such a way that coiled or elliptical springs may be placed between the seat and pad thus preventing jolting and jarring, by graduating the irregularity of action, and enabling the rider to sit and enjoy a gentle and easy motion on horseback.

The Standard of the 22d inst. says: We clip the above from Wilson's Weekly Dispatch. Mr. Fisher is a resident of this city, and is a most worthy and industrious mechanic. We hope his invention will prove profitable to him.

This improved saddle, which we have examined in Mr. Fisher's shop in this city, is well described, with plates, in the last number of the Scientific American. Its chief advantages are, that it affords the easiest possible riding on horseback, and protects the back of the animal, by letting in a constant current of air, from being over-heated or galled. It appears to us that it must come into general use.

EX-PRESIDENT TYLER.

This distinguished gentleman, for some time past retired beyond the public notice, has been drawn out by Hon. H. S. Foote, in a long letter, on the subject of the plan of compromise now under consideration in the Senate of the United States. We extract from his letter the following paragraph:

"I see, therefore, no insuperable objection to taking the bill as it is, with such amendments as may be shown to be necessary, unless Mr. Berrien's objection to the two representatives be well founded. Whether it is or not, depends upon facts which are before you, and of which I am ignorant. In coming to your decision upon this subject, there is much due to those noble and patriotic spirits from the non-slaveholding States who have come up to the rescue. Shall they be turned over to the tender mercies of the Free-Soilers? I would pursue, of course, were I in Congress, which give to the leaders of Free-soilism a lease of life to endure beyond the present session."

The Standard of last week learns, says the Greensboro' Patriot, from notices in the New York Express of the late anniversary proceedings of certain anti-slavery associations in that city, that the Wesleyan Methodist Convention has anti-slavery Missions in Virginia and North Carolina—one of the reports stating that three of their ministers "are laboring with great success" in these States, &c. The Standard is also informed that "one of these Missionaries has been at work during the past year, in Guilford, Stokes, and other counties in the upper part of the State," and recommends, if the law will not reach him, that the people take him in hand, in open day, and compel him to leave the country."

It is a proper occasion to say, we understand that bills of indictment were found against two of the Wesleyan connection, at the late term of the Superior Court in Forsyth County, for circulating an incendiary publication, and that one or both have been arrested and bound over. Thus, the law, we presume, will be found sufficient to preserve the rights and peace of all concerned, without the last resort suggested by the Standard, which scarcely any circumstances could justify, and which would give these "missionaries" what they probably desire, to wit: the notoriety and eclat of popular persecutions.

PROSPECTS OF THE COMPROMISE. The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Patriot, May 22d, says: "Mr. Downs, of Louisiana, to-day made a very excellent speech, which will doubtless have the effect of silencing the Southern opposition. He deprecated excitement in Congress, and said that the Union loving people of the South were perfectly calm and cool, notwithstanding all that had taken place. I understand that a number of letters have been recently received by Southern Senators and Members from constituents, urging an immediate settlement upon some reasonable plan and deprecating agitation and ultraism in the strongest terms."

"Mr. Downs' speech was the most conciliating of the session. It is but a short time since he was one of the most uncompromising. This sudden and material change fully corroborates what I have mentioned. The South have always been eminently loyal, with the exception of S. Carolina, and this may be taken as an exhibition of her true sentiment."

"The fate of the compromise it is totally impossible to conjecture."

"X," the Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, in his letter of the 24th inst., says: "Things look certainly better for the compromise, as the chances now are that the bill will pass both Houses without encountering any serious obstacle. I do not believe that the bills will be separated.—Southern ultras may oppose it; but not to the extent of committing suicide. I think we shall begin to whistle, seeing our way clear out of the woods and wool. Old 'Hal' has done wonders by his late speech."

Candidates in Davie.—The candidates for the Commons in Davie county, announced themselves last week. We published Mr. Douthitt's announcement in our last paper, but omitted to mention the fact that he has opposition in the person of Marshall Clemeq, Esq. a democrat. The Whigs of Davie, appeared highly pleased with their candidate, and we predict will go into the contest with fine spirits.

Public Scales at Lincolnton.—The Courier says: "At a meeting of the Stockholders on Saturday last, it was—

Resolved, That the citizens be requested to use their influence in bringing about the purchase and sale of Oats, Fodder, Hay, &c., by weight, as the fairest for all parties.

We have public scales here, but we have not heard that very much use has been made of them.

Another dreadful fire occurred at Charleston, S. C., on Wednesday the 29th May. The whole loss is estimated at from three hundred and fifty, to four hundred thousand dollars. Nearly all the property destroyed was covered by insurance. It is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

Telegraphed for the Charleston Courier.

NEW ORLEANS, May 27th.

To-day, 4000 bales Cotton were disposed of, mostly for the English market, at an eighth of a cent decline on previous prices—midding quoted at 11½ to 11½.—Sugar is advancing, and fair now commands 5½. Whiskey 21½.

THE CROPS.

We believe it is certainly conceded on all hands, says the Eufaula Shield, that the prospect of the crops at this time are more unfavorable than they were even at this time last year. The cause of this is attributed to the almost unprecedented lateness of the Spring. We have heard of intelligent and observing planters remark, that the cotton plant is much more backward and less promising than it was last year which was planted after the frost. It seems to have had almost every difficulty to contend against—cold, heavy, washing rains, and slight frosts all the Spring; and now we hear complaints of lice and grasshoppers which are said to be injuring it much, before it has scarcely had time to grow large enough to be thinned out to a proper stand.—Ala. Journal.

DISTRESSING CASUALTY.

In the afternoon of the 29th ult., JAMES F. FRAYLE, son of the late David Frayle, came to an untimely death by drowning. He had gone, in company with his younger brother, to Carter's pond, on Dutch second Creek, for the purpose of fishing, and having occasion for bathing, he went into the pond, swam across and was washing back again, the pond not being deep except in the channel of the creek, which at the place was not above six feet wide; and coming unexpectedly to the channel he made a mistep and sank beneath the water, and either became strangled or was struck with a cramp from the coldness of the water in the main current, so as to be disabled from helping himself. His brother, a lad of about sixteen years of age, seeing his danger, stripped off his clothes and waded in to relieve him, and had come so near him, as he said, that he thought at one time he had touched him, when the water became too deep to proceed any further. After rising to the surface of the water some three or four times he sank to the bottom, where he remained about two hours before he was taken up. At one time when he came up, his brother saw his body as far down as his waist, from which it is supposed that he had got footing on the bank, but slipped again. When he was taken out, he was extinct beyond the power of resuscitation by any human effort. His lifeless remains were interred in the cemetery of the Reformed Church known as Grace Church, where a funeral discourse was delivered by the Rev. Samuel Rothrock to a large circle of friends and acquaintances who mourn his loss.

It is but just to the memory of the deceased to state that he was a young man who did fair to become a useful member of society, being exemplary in his life and deportment. He was an affectionate and dutiful son; and to his bereaved and widowed mother, his loss is severely felt, as it was to him, under God, that she looked to be her solace in her declining years, and to take the care of her worldly interests. But her prospects have thus been suddenly blasted, and all her expectations from him, so far as the present life is concerned, entirely cut off. Though he was unexpectedly called away his friends have the consolation to hope that he was prepared to meet the sudden change that awaited him. He had been brought up in a christian-like manner and from a child had been a very regular attendant at the Sanctuary; and previous to his death he had determined to enter into full communion of the Church of Jesus Christ, and with this view, was in attendance on a course of religious instruction preparatory to his full connection with the Church. His pastor, from the views he entertained of the doctrines of salvation, and the impression they made upon his life, was encouraged to hope that the good seed of God's word were becoming precious seed unto life eternal. His intention of entering the Church, had he lived to the period assigned for that purpose, would doubtless have been carried into effect. But Providence, whose ways are in the dark, has called him away, it is hoped, to join the Church triumphant with the privilege of being formally connected with the Church militant. Let not his afflicted friends, therefore, sorrow as those who have no hope, but as those who wait for the blessed resurrection of the saints to immortality and glory. (Con.)

WE CAME, WE SAW, WE CONQUERED!

This is the cry and watchword of the thousands and tens of thousands of those whom the Prize Kings of America, PFFER & CO. Lottery Brokers, have elevated some from poverty and others from moderate circumstances to that of affluence of the highest order, within the past few years. They have distributed more prize money, scattering it over every section of the Union, than the value of the combined estates of those Millions of America, Girard and Astor. In fact, the unprecedented success of this "Citadel of Prizes" the present year is the obsolescence of the word Lottery—a liberal investment with the world renowned House of Pffer & Co. is certain to yield a harvest of Gold, for they are always ready to cash all their prizes in this coin.

The month of May which should have been by all human calculation, bright, clear, beautiful and smiling, has played fantastic tricks with her bleak, wet and stormy days, proving that the seasons themselves are fickle but Pffer & Co. are always at home, cheerful and glad-gladly in the hearts of their friends! Whilst May has been all frowns they have been all smiles, from the reflection of the daily amount of Prizes sold, which foots a quarter of a million of dollars! Yes, 250,000 in one month! And from the splendid schemes of June, we have every right to expect that over $300,000 Dollars will find the pockets of those who will "risk a little to gain much" at the "Citadel of Prizes," No. 1, Light Street, Baltimore, Md.
