Clay has hoped that the Senate would come to a final vote on the bill on Thursday next, so that the country will know its fate.

I have no doubt that, upon a vote, if one would be forced, there would be a majority of three or four for the bill : but the bill has lukewarm friends, as well as open opponents, all of whom are willing that action upon it shall be procrastinated. Verily, the previous question is a valuable parliamentary instrument. The House expects to hear from the Senate next week, and knnw their decision. Should they continue to delay action, the House will make a serious effort to press through the California bill by itself.

all danger in the House. If any one doubt it, let him watch the long faces of following preamble and resolutions were unanimously the free soilers and a few of the impracticable Southern ultras, and he will be satisfied that the Union is safe.

I arrived in New York on Friday last, at noon, took the cars for Boston at 3 o'clock, and arrived here at 11 P. M., the ame evening, distance 236 miles! You will doubtless think this fast travelling, and to tell you the truth, I felt that it was "tolerably pert." Baston, the Literary Emporium of the Wes.

Its surface as seen from the top of Bunker Hill Monument is quite uneven, swelling into three principal aminences called Cobb's Fort, and Beacon Hills. It used to be called Tri-mountain, and received its present name in honor of Rev. John Cotton, who was an emigrant from Boston in England. Its population is about one hundred and fifty thousand. There are one hundred Newspapers and Magazines printed in the city, contains about one hundred and twen. charity and literary societies, eight hundred treets and avenues and one hundred and six.

Since my arrival, I have been about the city a good deal, and have made a few observations. I find the city very irregularly built, the streets narrow, and winding about in every direction. la no city of this Union, and I suppose I may add on the face of the earth, will you find as much difficulty with the streets as in this selfsame city of Boston. This however, is an adto hire calls to conduct them from place to place, and I would respectfully recommend this fea. ture of the city to all interested in building towns or cities.

had supposed them. The men are spare made with large but disproportionate features, and generally of a lean and hungry look. The ladies are not handsome, have but little grace in with but little taste. The fact is, that these things to which we attach so much importance. and which so often excite our admiration, are here almost entirely disregarded. To be pretly. To move gracefully, to dress with taste, &c., all this to them is mere "sylabub." Notwithstanding this indifference to beauty, grace, &c., the Bostonians are a great people, -great in industry, economy, wealth, and intelligence. The industrial, economical habits of the people are seen in almost every thing which meets the eye of the observer, and as to wealth, why this city alone has capital enough to buy at least three such States as North Carolina. The state of public morals in this city is not supassed by any city in the world; I have not about the city, nor have I heard a single oath. CHAEL C. MOORE. A very high regard for propriety and religion seems to pervade nearly all ranks. It is composed of Granite from the hells of this State, and is 221 feet in height. The corner stone was laid on the 17th of June, 1825, by the illustrious Lafayette, but for want of funds the structure was not completed until is raised during the year by this means, and as I am informed, it is spent in beautifying the grounds which surround it. After gaining admission into the Monument, I ascended 295 steps, which brought me to the top, from whence I beheld, as it seemed to me at the time, almost the whole of creation, but the guide informed me that I saw nothing but the city of of North Carolina. PUBLIC MEETING IN IREDELL.

On the 15th inst., a large and respectable meeting of the citizens of the district of the 89th Regiment, N. C. Militia, assembled at Williamsburg, Iredell County, for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent this part of the County of Iredell, in the next General Assembly of North Carolina. On motion, Col. Chas. R. The other says: The bill is now out of Jones was called to the Chair, and R. H. Parks, appointed Secretary. The Chairman, in an appropriate speech, explained the object of the meeting, when the

Whereas, The citizens of this County will in a short time be called upon to say at the ballot box, who shall represent them in our next General Assembly, and we, a portion of the people of Old Iredell, in this meeting assembled, are anxious to maintain our time-honored principles; and whereas, we believe the same may be done by united and harmonious action, and in order more effectually to preserve the same, be it therefore

Resolved, That in the coming contest, we will zealously advocate our republican principles, which we believe to be the safe-guard of the nation; and that we will support no man who will not earnestly and honestly maintain the same.

Resolved, That we will stand by the constitution always, and our motto shall be, the union of the States now and forever." Resolved, That (we see with sorrow and regret that the Congress of the U. States has not yet been able to settle the great question now agitating the whole country,) the thanks of this meeting are due to Senator's two tracts of Land, viz: Webster, Clay, and all other Senators and Representatives in Congress, who are disposed to do justice to the South. May heaven's choicest blessings smile upon their efforts, and we would say to them, God speed you, go on, cease not your efforts until this dangerous question of slavery is settled forever according to the true spirit of the constitution.

Resolved, That this glorious Union, established by the sufferings and blood of our gallant fathers, may stand firm and unimpaired as long as time shall last; and may the names of all those who lay down party spirit and devote their energies and influence to an honorable adjustment of this disgraceful question, be handed down to posterity as bright examples, worthy of imitation, and may their names be loved and cherished by millions vet unborn, while those who continue to agitate and endeavor to create a sectional feeling in regard to this matter, and who labor to prevent a settlement of this quesion, be they northern or southern men, may sink into oblivion, "unwept, unhonored and unsung."

Resolved, That we respect the President of these U States for the able and firm manner in which he discharges the duties of his office. On motion, the following gentlemen, from various portions of this district, were appointed a committee to select a suitable person to represent this portion of Iredell County, viz: Greenbury Gaither, Pierce Campbell, Jr., J. PATRICK SULPHUR SPRING.

HIS Spring is situated in Patrick County, Virginia, among the spurs of the Blue Ridge, and in as healthy a section as there is in the world. The water is strongly chalybeate, and of incalculable value in restoring a debilitated system, in dyspepsia and disordered stomach, in diseases of the kidneys, &c., &c. I by saying that the National Division Sons of have made and am now making numerous substantial improvements for the accommodation of visiters, and flatter myself that the annoyances of last year, consequent upon the dilapidated condition of the property, will all be removed. The rent of cabins will range from $3 to $3 75 per week-none rented for a shorter term than four weeks in the commencement of the season. Boarding and lodging $5 per week; $7 50 for man and horse, or $7 if a servant to attend the horse be found.

A small stock of Groceries, Liquors and Confectionary will be kept for sale to occupants of cabins and others, at small profits; but every exertion used to prevent dissipation and disorder about the place.

CERTIFICATE. - For the last six years I have been well acquainted with the Patrick Springs, and the therapeutical effects of the water and hesitate not to pronounce the water, one of the strongest chalybeates in the State of Virginia, and highly adapted to every case of debility and particularly so in cases of debility following attacks of intermittent and remittent fevers, and would advise all such to make a trial of it, assuring them that they need not fear disappointment.
