NORTH CAROLINA WOOLLENS.

Having heard the " home-made casimeres," at the store of J. & R. Lindsay frequently spoken of the last few days, we called yesterday to see them, and frankly say that the half had not been told us .-They are from Rock Island Manufactory. Mecklenburg county, N. C. For softness, fineness of texture, and elegance of finish. they are " good enough for kings to wear." And in this one particular they are better North, to wit ! they are made at home.

Quietly and steadily to encourage and raise up manufactures of this sort among us-developing our own resources, and employing and rewarding the skill, enterprise and labor of our own people-is infinnely better than to be eternally grumbling and passing indignation resolutions against the North; while we are at the same time pouring all our means into the laps of Northern manufactures, to buy what we can as well make ourselves. It is foolish we are above working for ourselves. Greensboro' Patriot.

GOOD AND TRUE.

Mr. Gorman, of Indiana, in his reply in the House of Representatives to Mr. Clark of N. Y., remarked, when this nation gets into a war, let it be a war against a foreign foe. STATESVILLE-PLANK ROAD-SCHOOLS-PROSPECTS.

Mr. Bruner-Last week was a pleasant week in Statesville. On Tuesday a large and respectable convention of delegates and citizens, met in the Court House, and resolved to build a Plank Road from Charlotte to Taylorsville, through Statesville. Any lover of his country would have been gratified with the public spirit manifested in favor of the enterprise. Every body seemed determined to build it, and the people will build it. It will cost one hundred thousand dollars. No stock will pay better-no country needs such a road more-The people—the farmers, understand their interests, and they will build it. A better day is dawning. On Thursday night, the citizens and a large number of strangers, were entertained at the Female Academy by one of the most recherche and complete examinations, that your correspondent has ever witnessed. The hall was lighted brilliantly, and tastefully decorated with festoons and flowers. The teachers are Mrs. Ayer and daughter. The exercises were so arranged, and performed with so much ease, spirit, and originality, that the visiters were constantly interested. The ease and grace in the action and movement of the pupils-the distinct articulation in pronouncing their pieces, reflected great credit on their teachers. That action is no more important to an orator, than a proper mien and good manners are to a woman, seemed to be well known. The entertainment was concluded by a presentation of Bibles to three of the young ladies. In doing which, Miss Ayer took occasion to deliver a very handsome little address, as beautiful, as finished, as eloquent as the connoiseurs in such things, would care to hear.

The second session of this School commences on the first Monday in November next. Besides this, there are two other good schools in Statesville-a male and a

If these schools should continue to be well patronized, and the Plank Road made through Statesville, that village will look up and prosper.

A THING WHICH THE NEXT LEGIS. LATURE SHOULD REFORM.

The law as it stands at present, requires all Sheriffs previous to selling lands for their tax. es, to advertise them in some Newspaper published in the city of Raleigh for the space of one month, even although the lands may be situated in some county in which not half dozen copies of any Raleigh paper are taken, and a paper of large circulation is published in the county itself. Such a state of things is as a cotemporary observes "an outrage against common sense." Very frequently the advertise. ment is never seen by one man who could attend the sale, and is to all intents and purposes perfectly useless.

In calling attention to this matter, we are acthan any similar quality of goods from the tuated neither by motives of interest, nor of jealousy towards our Raleigh cotemporaries .-Time and again have we been struck with the injustice arising from the operation of this law and the injury which such a system is calculated to inflict upon the owners of land sold for taxes, whose property is virtually unadvertised, and frequently sacrificed in consequence. In connexion with this, the Asheville Dollar News makes a suggestion which, with slight modification, should, we think, receive the favorable attention of the next Legislature. It is to the effect that, " no officer should be allowed to sell valuable property, either real or personal, to talk about Southern independence while without first giving notice of the same through the news papers of the county, or the nearest print." We certainly think that Sheriffs should be required to advertise lands in the paper of the county in which the lands lie, or in case when no paper is published in the county, then in that paper which has the largest circulation within the county, instead of being forced to advertise in Raleigh .- Wilmington Journal.
