S. WILLIAMSON, Prest. Dec. 31, 1850.

TAYLORSVILLE, N. C., Jan. 3, 1851. Mr. Bruner :- You are aware that we have the Small Pox here. It was brought here by W P. Chidwell, on the first day of December last, who says, that he caught it in Charlotte. No one knew what was the matter with him for esteral days, and when Dr. Carson announced that it was Small Pox, many of the villagers deserted their homes; the stores were closed and the people living in the country were forbid coming near. Mr. Boyd's family were next attacked Mr. Boyd, his wife, and two children and a servant girl all took it; Mr. Sprinkle took il and Mr. Bess-making in all eight guages. Educated at the University of Virginia. cases. Two of the cases were very light .-They are all recovering except the last named. who took the disease so recently, that it is impossible to tell what course it will take. Some of the cases were of the real confluent type, but the most of them were of the simple type. There has been but one case reported within the last two weeks. 'It is hoped that it will N.C., ten miles above Wadesboro', near Tyson's minesoon stop.

The citizens were fortunate in procuring a man from Wilkes and a woman from Iredell. both of whom had had the Small Pox, to wait on the sick. They are also fortunate in having a physician, Dr. Carson, who is capable of managing the disease. It is the want of attention on the part of the physician, and of good nursing, that makes Small Pox so generally fatal. And those who have had that loathsome disease here can never forget the assiduous attention and strict watching of Dr. Carson. I cannot see how the Physicians of Charlotte could have mistaken the disease so long. Mr. Bethune brought it there in September. and at the November Court the Physicians and citizens denied that Small Pox was there. A heavy responsibility rests upon their heads .-The Judge was permitted to hold Court-Lawvers, clients, witnesses, jurors and a large concourse of strangers, were permitted to at tend, and take their chances of catching a most loathsome and hideous disease, and one, which is more easily caught, perhaps, than any other contagion.

I understand that some of the Physicians there still contend that it is not Small Pox. It seems to me, that if any man of common sense who had ever seen a Pox marked man were to look upon one of the cases here, when the pustules are full, he could tell at a glance that it was Small Pox. I understand that Dr. Gibbon, Jr., pronounced it Small Pox from the first, but being a young man, was overpowered, and not listened to. If this be true, his discrimination ought to be rewarded, by the patronage of that intelligent community. Let the Physicians of Charlotte call the disease what they will-there is nothing in the name-they had a disease there for two months, smoothing it over with soft names, such as turkey pox. chicken pox. &c., which disease, in reality; was as contagious, as loathsome, and as fatal as Small Pox. I say again, a heavy responsibility rests upon them. My language may be too strong, but my only excuse is the wounded feelings of one who has suffered.

As "Doctors disagree," I will give the main symptoms of the cases here, and ask you to shew them to the Physicians of your Town .-The incipient fever, which is accompanied at first with pain in the head, back, and pit of the stomoch, lasts about three days; as it goes off, pustules appear, and continue to increase, flatten and filluntil the eighth day, when a second ary fever ensues, which fills the pustules with puss by the tenth day, which day is the crisis generally. About the third or tourth day the throat gets sore, and spitting, as in salivation commences, and continues for two or three days-about the seventh or eighth day, in simple cases, and third or fourth, in cases of confluent type, the face commences swelling, which increases until the tenth day-about the twelfth day the pustules begin to burst, or dry up. In simple cases I notice that nearly all dry up into a scab and fall off; but in the confluent, all of them burst on the body and those only on the face dry up. The patient gets bet. ter as the pustules burst or dry. These are the general features, and vary only slightly. Now I ask your Physicians what disease it is. Yours respectfully,

MARKELLE ID.

In this Town on the 4th instant, Mrs. LOUISA CHRISTINA RANDOLPH, wife of Mr. William C. Randolph, aged 28 years, 7 months and 21 days-leaving a devoted husband, affectionate father and brother, and many friends, to mourn a loss which can never be repaired; to experience a void which can never be fill-, ed. Who can know it as they who have lived in the sunlight of her kind and cheerful society ! The empty chair-the deserted mansion-the kind offices of love and friendship, and the happy voice-no longer filled, felt, and heard, must whelm with sadness for years, the bereaved. Hut they mourn not as those without hope. The patient forbearance and christian resignation with which the deceased bore her long and painful illness, joined with her many virtues while in health, and her consistent walk as a disciple of the blessed Jesus, give deemer's kingdom.
