Others are leaning on the chains, too drunk of and to support their own weight. These are the masses from the country," " over the heads " of which W. Theodore Parker, (not Harvey) said it would be nemany to convey Simms, the fugitive, in order to remoth him from the city. Every few moments a group these jokies luck arms in the most paternal manner possible, and go maging across the way to sample Harfer Parker's liquors.

Now and then a false alarm of a rescue is given, or great cry, that "here's Simm's," and a corresponding rish of all parties to the spot ensues, succeeded by a reserial guffaw, and a call on Theodore Parker or Chas. Summer for a speech.

If my informant's description be correct, there must be very edifying times in Boston.

I see manifest disposition in presses at a distance to regard these and other loud-mouthed demonstrations of fanatics, as a sample of Boston feeling in general.-Nothing could be more unjust. Narrow necked bottles always make the most noise in emptying their contents, and this is precisely the case with such men as Horace Mann.

Some of our city papers are ornamented with numerans sords, challenges, &c., of the professional pugilists. The bloody prize fight in Baltimore, will lead to others ing. It is refreshing to see how in that gity some of parties to that disgraceful and heastly encounter, ave been punished. Several custom-house officers and sime mechanics have been discharged from employment of account of it. This reflects credit on the condition of Baltimore morals.

Gentlemen of "the Flash and Fancy," are trying hard to get up a big match for Tom Hyer.

I am sometimes asked what has become of Andrew lickson Davis, the clairvoyant celestial Navigator, and "orrespondent of the spiritual knockers?" What is bought of him % Where does he "put up" when he amps down hereson the earth? Is Professor Bush still ha friend and supporter ? &c., &c.

Pachaps the Professor is no longer useful to the clairwyant. It is likely that Davis thinks him no longer necensury to his "science" on the principle (evolved by the Soanjards, I believe.) that "good wine needs no Bush," "not good "spirits" neither. Certainly, I believe that god spirits (ayaa vita and nothin' shorter) are the sorrer of Davis very remarkable " revelations." If he chooses to give the cask the name of a departed hero, it is no business of mine. It is purely a matter of taste. He is now pumping Dr. Franklin. It is to be hoped that he will get a good rapping. These spiritual knocks have knocked him up something material in the shape is engaged in making books that will sell: and a very great "sell" they are. of a very preity place in Hartford, where he resides, and infidel and perished. Nor will a man that ges into those meetings, take upon himself these soletion views to lend a helping hand to a infering object, hears the Bible read, where he is told to "love thy neighb r as thy self." is exhorted to obey that and all its other precepts; ever be found scoffing at religion,- about priesterall and Jonah and the fish ?-Candor goes on to say that effect " deleterious to religion have grown out of them, the where they do good at all only good men are admitted to membership," What is the use of having societies at all if only good men, are to be ad mitted. It more are to be made better there is muse in joining themselves together. What affecuse of the church, if only those that are already Christians join ? And if those that feel themselves singlers and wish to throw around them, a safe guard are not to become members what is the use of having a church ? Christeame meanth to " call the right ous not summers to renatence" if only those that were already christians were to be taken to Heaven. Will she stand umbling in his presence ? Will their little ones shrink, and cowering, flee from the approach of their father ? Keep that man a Son of Temperance a few months and what will be the effects-what will bring back the brightness to the eye of the companion of his home-the wife of his bosom? What will wreathe the smiles around her lip-what will *pread the roses on her cheek; what will cluthe his children and send them with smiles on their happy faces to greet their father as he returns from his daily toil ? ' What will repair their cottage and make it more comfortabl than it has been for many months ! Will the draining of the skine cup, the influence of the boule, the frequenting of the brothel, his evil associates-will these spread light and com fort around his home ? Will these things lead him to the church-teach him the holy influence of religion-the worth of morality?
