MR. EDITOR-A certain animal we are told on a certain occasion placed on his recreant limbs a Lion's robe, and sallied forth to astonish and terrify the nations .-The trick, however, was soon discovered, and his solemn and august majesty instead of fear and trembling, was saluted with reproachful bisses and peals of laughter. Such will ever be the fate of pretenders, who affect a wisdom and a power above what is written; and by Miller, the prophet, and such the fate of Jo. Smith, the Mormon, and White, the fanatic, and such would have been the fate of Sobriety, if he had followed the tracks of his first foot-prints, and had not partly covered himself with the regalia of the true Order-the Church.

It is true D is no Gæsar, or Napoleon, neither is Sobriety a Brutus, or a Wellington; they both wielded to govern, that in aspiring to be a god, he sunk below the swords : Sobriety snatches up that mightier instrument dignity of a man. of mightier men, a trusty goose quill, plucked from his own soaring pinions, and goes forth a reformer, to war the purchaser may enjoy the advantages of a with the world, the flesh and the "devil," with king Alcohol at the head :-

And hopes to kill more in one brief campaign, Than heaven's own bolts through centuries have slain. He comes like a second Martin Luther, to turn the the world upside down, and blow out with a single breath the fires of the "engines of hell," as has been eloquently expressed by one of your temperance correspodents. Martin held the Bible in his hand, and struck at the Pa pal supremacy, and made Rome shake to the centre .--Sobriety holds the Constitution and By-Laws of the Orparty may appoint any pupil, he or they may think der in his hand, and by a side lick strikes at Protestantism ; and nobody shakes but himself. / Martin freed the Church from the corruptions and interpolations of man, Sobriety believes that the Order "is auxiliary to the Church," or in other words, that the discoveries of man should be added to the revelations of God, and have equal, if not superior efficacy. The one said he would appear at Worms, if opposed by as many devils as there was tiles on the houses: the other has been checked in his career by one, who he only imagines a "devil."-The one when he reached Worms demanded the Diet to try his opinions by the Word of God, the other castigat que audit, and with brotherly affection denounces as anti-christian all who do not regulate their conduct by his standard. The one liberated the human mindthe other permits you to think as you please, always provided you think like him ! - The one thought that Truth and Piety was sufficiently "imposing and attractive" to regenerate a wicked world, the other thinks appeals through the senses to the imagination, even if he cost should not exceed " venty five or fifty cents each" is vastly more nice and overpowering. The one pointed to a " house not made with hands eternal in the Heavens," the other cants about a "vast temperance palace." the workmanship of his own hands, where the selected inmates recline on silken couches, and the redeemed are fanned by odorous sweets, where the food is ambrosia and the drink ice water. Such is a slight contrast between the great reformer of 1851 and 1518, the immortal Luther, and the mortal Sobriety !!

His eulogist, like the eulogist of another great original, will say of him: He sat upon a throne in a " vast temperance palace " wrapped in the solitude of his own originality." Let him take care that vaulting originality overleaps not itself, that a " barren sceptre be not in his gripe"; and that it be not written in the chronicles of the Order: no "Son of his reigned in his slead," for D.

r wish and design to render the Institution, whose rests are committed to their care, in the highest deges of moral and intellectual culture. It is their furer desire that these advantages shall have the widest fision, and be placed on the most lasting foundation. a details of the scheme and its natural operation;

The first resolution indicates the extent to which it is ion of the community. The interest on One Hunof Thousand Doffars is not more than is necessary to nish, in the outset, the necessary buildings, library liciently numerous for the purposes of complete inction. It is observed, however, that the plan goes effect when four hundred scholarships are sold, for the cause of blend and religious education, will so the College on high ground, and give promise of mater usefulness if the progress of time.

Bathe advantages of this plan-of endowment, we siready said, are most valuable to the community. mty years of instruction at this Institution are now ed for the sum of our hundred dollars. | This amount enefit was made definite to secure a proper undering between the Prustees and their patrons, and the best arrangement practicable for families the effected. There are five college terms in the ad of twenty years stand it is narely the case that to are more than five sons in one family to whom the intages of education are to be given. At the same it is admissable to have two pupils at the Institube enjoyed. Greater indulgence than this, would I probability, have growded the Institution inconently, and less would not have been advantageous miles in which it often happens that two brothers matheir education fogether in the same classes ough their College course. It is, however, very rare more than two members of the same family are at sime time members of one literary Institution. At sofour hierary Institutions, the price of tuition is bilars per annum at Davidson College at this the annual charge for instruction is thirty dollars ; havy the plan proposed, the purchaser of a scholpolitains for one hundred dollars what at present whim six hundred at Davidson College, and one and dollars at most Colleges of the country. It g be remarked that it is no part of the design of this to lower the standard of instruction, nor can it have mately any such effect. On the contrary with ining means, and impre enlarged facilities, the object be to elevate instruction, and to render it more thoshy and comprehensive. If to instruction thus pened, be added the consideration that the College taated in the midst of a most productive agricultur-

It is incapacitated from earning a livelihood, or who has no visible means of support." Here is a distinction which Sobriety has not even attempted to justify, a cruel severity which is as far removed from an enlightened phie efficient in its government, and ample in its advan- lanthropy as from the example and precepts of Christ. Why did not Sobriety " face this music," and show its harmony with the Gospel. The tune selected I suppose would grate harsh thunder on his refined taste even if aconfidently believed that all these objects may be hear Subriety chant in hoarse gutterals the language of warbled by the Swedish nightingale ! It is written: "Why do ye eat and drink with publisened to carry this plan if it should meet the appro- cans and sinners?" Jesus answered: "They that are whole need no physician : but they that are sick." The Order says: the whole need the physic, but the sick must find it elsewhere, and when cured, we are apparatus, and command the services of a Faculty es of number six, or perhaps the modern Sangrado's then prepared to administer a few sweats or a few dosmay fill the stornach with cold, instead of warm water. whatever thy soul lusteth after, for oxen, for sheep, for wine, or for strong drink "; the Order says, you shall not make, buy, sell, or use, as a beverage, any spirituous or malt liquors, wine or cider." The Bible says: "Wine maketh glad the heart of man, and wine cheereth God and man." Christ turned water into wine at the marriage in Cana of Galilee. St. Luke says: "the Son of man is come eating and drinking, and ye say, behold a a at the same time, which will, of course, limit in the gluttonous man and a wine bibber, a friend of publicans Henderson, formerly of Raleigh, N. C. The decased and sinners." St. Philip-or Sobriety would probably make the same exclamation if Christ was now on earth engaged in his mission of love and mercy. "Their noses would become quite indignant if the friend of publicans and sinners should pass between the wind and their nobility. I have not time to set forth, in full, all the similar passages of Scripture, but would refer Sobriety to 2 Sam. 5, 17, 19, 16, 2. 1 Chron. 12, 39, 40; Neff. 5, 18; Esth. 1, 7, 8; Prov. 31, 6, 7; Eccl. 9, 7; Isa. 62, 8, 9; Eph. 5, 18; Eccl. 2, 24, 3, 13, 8-15; Amos 9, 14. Sobriety says: "We believe our principles accord with the teachings of the Old and New Testament ": if so, why on his own principles should he desire any other way. Christ says, "I am the way, the truth, and the life : no man cometh unto the father, but by me."
