True it is that cloud and mist Blot the clear blue weather; True the lips that once have kissed, Come no more together.

True that when we would do good, Evil often follows; True that green leaves quit the wood, Summers lose their swallows.

True that we must live alone, Dwell with pale dejections; True that we must often moura Over crushed affections.

True that man his queen awaits, True that, sad and lonely, Woman, through her prison gates, Sees her tyrant only.

True the rich despise the poor, And the poor desire Pood still from the rich man's door, Fuel from his fire.

True the plaint-but, if more true, I would not deplore it; If an Eden fade from view, Time may yet restore it.

Evil comes and evil goes, But it moves me never! For the god d-the good it grows, Bads and blossoms ever.

Winter still succeeds to spring, But fresh springs are coming; Other birds are on the wing, Other bees are humming.

I have loved with right good will, Mourned my hopes departed, Dreamed my golden dream, and still Am not broken hearted.

What if cherished creeds must fade, Faith will never leave us; God perserves what God has made, Nor can truth deceive us.

Let in light-the holy light! Brothers fear it never, Darkness smiles, and wrongs grow right-Let in light forever!

Let in light! When this shall be Safe and pleasant duty, Men in common things shall see Goodness, truth and beauty.

From the Star Spangled Banner. VERY CURIOUS ADVENTURE. BY PAUL CREYTON.

I nevar attended but one temperance lecture,? said our friend B ---- with a peculiar smile, 'and I don't think I shall ever attend another." 'You probably found it dry ?'

"Well-yes-but that isn'Lit. The lecture was well enough, but I got into such an awful scrape after it was over, that I never think of temperance meetings, without a shudder. I'll tell you about it. It was in Jersey city, where I was something of a stranger; and the night was one of the worst of the season. Boreas! how it blew! It was enough to take your breath away. Well, sir, the lecture was over. and making out with the crowd, I lingered in the doorway, contemplating the awful scene when somebody took my arm.'

·Have you your key ?. she asked. 'My key,' I stammered, 'there must be some mistake.'

O. I have one.

And she opened the door. I stood waiting to bid her good night, or to have some explan ation, when turning quickly, she said,

Well aware that it would not do to remain in the closet, and convinced of the danger of meeting a man who might fall into the vulgar weakness of being jealous, I was trying to collect my scattered senses in the dark recess, when the lady rushed to me, whispered in a wild manner-"What shall I do! A PROPOSAL UNDER PECULIAR CIR. CUMSTANCES.

I heard of a curious proposal the other day. Among some two hundred bathers were a lady and gentleman, who had shown a slight partiality for each other's society. An immense wave unhappily carried the lady off her feet, and burried her for an instant in four feet water .-The gentleman hurried to her rescue, and on pulling her out, she exclaimed, with a mouth full of salt water—(the water is very salt here) Oh, Augustus-dear take me-I perish-Lord-have-mercy take me, Augustus, and -oh-oh-oh take me!

'Thanks, dearest,' exclaimed Augustus, 'you 300 DOLLARS REWARD. Boot & Shoe Frimmings generally. Those about to engage have made me very happy.' 'Thanks? for what, sir? coldly exclaimed the lady taking a long breath. · For your favorable answer to my proposal,' said Augustus. 'Proposal! I heard none.'

'Oh, yes, but you did, my dear-I made it when you where under water, and you said yes, and told me to take you and I mean to take you at your word.

'Ah-well-dear me ask pa-and'-Of course,' said Augustus. The pair will be happy in the Fall.
