From the Fayetteville Observer, MR. MANGUM'S SPEECH IN FAVOR OF GEN. SCOTT.

The constituents of Seaator Mangum will learn with regret, if not with surprise, that he has delivered in the Senate a labored speech in favor of Gen. Scott as the Whig candidate for the next Presilency.

The speech not having yet come to us in full, we copy the following notice of it from the National Intelligencer :---

" Mr. Mangum claimed the indulgence of the Senate to make a personal explanation, placing bimself in his true position, which he contended had been misunstood and misrepresented.

The consent of the Senate having been given-

* Mr. M. spoke for near an hour, in the course of which he said he should probably stand prepared to support the nominee of the Whig Convention, but avowed a strong individual preference for Gen. Scott, maintaining that he was' the firm friend of the Union and the compromise measures, and expressing his belief that he was the only Whig in the country that could be elected.

"Mr. Dawson claimed a like indulgence, and made a brief speech, defining his position, declaring that he would vote for no man that would not support the compromise measures, and that he would not unite with any party that would endeavor, directly or directly, to open these questions, or agitate them even, for the purpose of securing votes at the ensuing Presidential election; nor would he combine to elect any man whose opinions are not beyond doubt or cavil on the finality of the compromise.

" Mr. Gwin made inquiry of Mr. Mangum as to whether he spoke from authority in what he had said of General Scott's views of the compromise?

"Mr. Mangum spoke from his knowledge of Gen. Scott's character. He had no communication with him on political questions since December last.

Mark of Ill Breeding .- There is no better test of ill breeding than the practice of interrupting another in conversation by speaking, or commencing a remark before another has fully closed. No well bred person ever does it, nor continues conversation long with one who does --The latter often finds interesting conversation abruptly waived, closed, or declined by the former, without sus pecting the cause. A well bred person will not even interrupt one who is in all respects greatly inferior. If you wish to judge the goodbreeding of a person with whom you are but little acquainted observe him or her in this respect, and you will not be deceived. However intelligent, fluent, or easy she may appear, this grace proves the absence of true politeness. It is often amusing to see persons priding themselves on the gentility of their manners, and putting forth all their efforts to appear to advantage in many other respects, so readily betray all in this paticular.

A HAPPY HOME,

The first year of married life is a most important era in the history of man and wile. Generally, as it is spent, so is almost all subsequent existence. The wife and the husband then assimilate their views and their desires, or else, conjuring up their dislikes, they add fuel to their prejudices and animosities forever afterwards.

"I have somewhere read," says Rev. Mr. Wise, in his Bridal Greetings, "of a bridegroom who gloried in his eccentricities. He requested his bride to accompany him into the garden, a day or two after their wedding. He then threw a line over the roof of their cottage. Giving his wife one end of it, he retreated to the other side, and exclaimed-"Pull the line."

She pulled it, at his request, as far as she could. He cried,

A Curious Suit .- In the Marine Court by Mr. Mangum's effort to prevent the of N. York the assignces of Louis Emanuel sued the uncle of a Miss Levy for the dorsing the Compromise, in the Whig recovery of a lot of furniture. Emanuel and the lady were engaged to be married. and in anticipation of that event Miss L. bought the furniture, Emanuel providing the funds to pay for it. The parties were to be married according to agreement. about the middle of next May ; but Emanuel not long since gave the fair one not tice that he could not marry her, pleading poverty as a reason. She took this notice as a breach of promise, and when the for- if desired. niture was claimed, she refused to give it up, and suit was brought to compel her uncle, who is her guardian, to restore the chattles. The jury found a verdict for the defendant! So Miss L. remains in possession.

"The subject was then dropped." In the report for the Baltimore Patriot we find the following additional particulars:

lic life. He was no candidate, and did band held to the opposite end. But when As to a preference for the Presidency, he differed with his constituents. His first choice was Gen. Winfield Scott.

"Mr. Mangum stated at length his reasons for prefering General Scott. He eulogized him as the hero of Chepultepec thought it unnecessary to bring up that all connection with the abolitionists. He was, said Mr. M., national as any other candidate in his politics. As to his availability, he was the only man who could be elected-the only Whig in the country who could get half votes enough to elect him.'

And in the N. Y. Express and Rich mond Whig we find the following telegraphic despatch from Washington :

"Judge Mangum's speech in favor of Scott produces great sensation among politicians. Scott's nomination is now considered certain."

double announcement in the Senate that he is in favor of Gen. Scott for the Presidency, whilst his constituents prefer Mr. Fillmore, and that he expects soon to retire from public life. He is an old soldier in the field, and having served the Whig party long and well, his opinions will be likely to have much weight, not only in North Carolina, but elsewhere. It is certain, however, that the Whigs of the Old North State in all their primary meetings, we believe, and in all the Whig presses of the State, have expressed a preference for Mr Fillmore."

No one we pressume, certainly not we, will deny to Mr. Mangum the right to entertain, and to express on all proper occasions, his own opinions and wishes on this or any other subject. But we are very far from believing that he is right in using the official position for which he is indebted to the Whigs of North Carolina, for the purpose of thwarting their well settled. well known, unanimous, opinions and wishes. Mr. Mangum knows and admits that his constituents differ from him. He knows that they are unprecedentedly unanimous in that difference. And yet at the very moment of all others when his opposition to their will can be most effectively exerted, has he stepped forward to oppose them. What " weight" his speech may have "elsewhere," we know not; but we think we can safely assure the Express, that its only weight in North Carolina will be a depressing one upon its his Baltimore letter. It is a curious fact in this author, especially should it have the marvellous effect anticipated, to make Gen. Scott's nomination "certain." The opin- the Bank, without a dissenting vote, and it is ions of the people of this State have been said that Mr. Buchanan's name may be found too deliberately formed, and are too firmly based upon principle, to be affected by Mr. Mangum's speech, or course. The people of the South owe too deep's debt of gratitude to Mr. Fillmore, for his broad national administration of the government, for his faithful execution of the Law, to allow any other name to come in success ful competition with his for their confidence and support. Let the friends of Mr. Fillmore, every where, North and Nonth, stand firm, with the full and perfect assurance, that nothing can change the purpose of the Whigs in this State. They go for Fillmore. And they will go sires to see Mr. Ciay again before he leaves, for no man who occupies an equivocal and made an attempt to effect it to-day, but was you see how hard and ineffectual was our labor when we pulled in opposition to each other; but how easy and pleasant it was when we both pulled together !-and Churubusco. He considered him in It will be so with us, my dear through favor of the compromise measures, but life! If we oppose each other, it will be hard work; if we act together it will be question now. He exculpated him from pleasant to live. Let us always pull together."

> In this illustration, homely as it may be, there is sound philosophy. Husband and wife must mutually bear and concede, if they wish to make home a retreat of joy and bliss. One alone cannot make home happy. There needs unison of action, sweetness of spirit and great forbearance and in both husband and wife, to secure the great end of happiness in the domestic circle.-Ladies' Repository.

The Mysterious Rappings.-The cause of the mysterious breaking of windows in a house on Vine street, in the Northern Liberties, (Phil adelphia,) has been discovered, and the evil "Mr. Mangum, of N. C., has made the removed. Instead of the windows breaking, as was presumed to be the case, by some unknown hand, it has been found that a little bound girl in the family, aged about twelve years, created the excitement in the house and occasioned the destruction. The manner in which she operated was certainly very adroit; and not until she coplessed to the act was it known how the damage was done, notwithstanding Lieut. Nutt and several of his officers, and some of the friends of the family, were watching the house, inside and out. The little girl stated after being closely interrogated, that she had thrown stones, potatoes, onions, and clothes hooks thro' the windows, from within and without. The reason she broke the windows she alleged she did not know. On one occasion during the week the family accused the little girl of doing the mischief, but she strongly denied the accusation and wept bitterly. From her statements it was then thought the missiles came from another quarter, and she went to the kitchen, where another servant girl was at work, with another person in the same room. Here she continued crying : and at a moment when the others were not watching her, she threw a stone and broke a window in the kitchen. This added more to the mystery, and of course the inwhole number of panes of glass broken were sixty eight. On Saturday the little girl was taken to the almshouse, from whence she came three years ago, to be bound to the family referred to .- Ledger.

A CURIOUS FACT.

Mr. Buchanan, among the issues on which he says the Whig party has been thoroughly beaten, mentions the United States Bank in connexion that the Pennsylvania Legislature passed Resolutions praying for a re-charter of on record to the same effect. Whatever odium may be attached to the establishment of a Bank the Democratic party is entitled to a large share. Even Gen. Jackson would have continued a U. S.
