

The following summary history of negotiations on the part of the United States for the return of the Somali Islands, anterior to the negotiations now pending, is copied from the Boston Daily Advertiser:

On the 24th of May, 1844, Hon. Daniel Webster, then Secretary of State of the United States, addressed to President Tyler an official communication, stating that there were two subjects connected with the foreign policy of the United States which he considered it his duty to call the attention of the President to. The first, said Mr. Webster, was the return of the Somali Islands, the British Government having been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean.

Mr. Webster stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean. He stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean. He stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean.

Mr. Webster stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean. He stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean. He stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean.

Mr. Webster stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean. He stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean. He stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean.

Mr. Webster stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean. He stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean. He stated that the British Government had been unwilling to pass through the Somali Islands from the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb to the Indian Ocean.

though regarded in the eyes of Great Britain, she will not only continue to send troops from United States vessels passing through the Somali Islands, but that if the treaty is not renewed, she will be obliged to consider them as privileged, and increase the rate of tax to which they have been subjected. A great deal may happen within half a year to modify the views of the Court of Copenhagen; but the respective positions which Denmark and this country now occupy towards each other must inevitably lead to a war, if a favorable turn is not given to negotiations by some act of concession which neither party is at the present moment inclined to make.

It is proper to say, however, that the New School Presbyterian Church, which prevails mostly at the North, has meddled with the question of slavery, and offensively to the South. The Old School Presbyterian Church is guileless of such intermeddling.—Fayetteville Observer.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

which engaged any cause for the separation of the Englishmen, Chinese, or any thing relative to African slavery.

But as the Argus and others have jumped at the inference that we assigned such a cause, we, publish Mr. Baird's letter, to place the Presbyterian Church in its proper attitude before the people.

It is proper to say, however, that the New School Presbyterian Church, which prevails mostly at the North, has meddled with the question of slavery, and offensively to the South. The Old School Presbyterian Church is guileless of such intermeddling.—Fayetteville Observer.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

we killed about seventy. You know they are all dead, and I am sorry that it is almost impossible to say with certainty as to the number killed or wounded. We lost four men killed, four wounded and one missing. They shot remarkably well. We of necessity, killed a good many women and children.

It is proper to say, however, that the New School Presbyterian Church, which prevails mostly at the North, has meddled with the question of slavery, and offensively to the South. The Old School Presbyterian Church is guileless of such intermeddling.—Fayetteville Observer.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

we killed about seventy. You know they are all dead, and I am sorry that it is almost impossible to say with certainty as to the number killed or wounded. We lost four men killed, four wounded and one missing. They shot remarkably well. We of necessity, killed a good many women and children.

It is proper to say, however, that the New School Presbyterian Church, which prevails mostly at the North, has meddled with the question of slavery, and offensively to the South. The Old School Presbyterian Church is guileless of such intermeddling.—Fayetteville Observer.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

we killed about seventy. You know they are all dead, and I am sorry that it is almost impossible to say with certainty as to the number killed or wounded. We lost four men killed, four wounded and one missing. They shot remarkably well. We of necessity, killed a good many women and children.

It is proper to say, however, that the New School Presbyterian Church, which prevails mostly at the North, has meddled with the question of slavery, and offensively to the South. The Old School Presbyterian Church is guileless of such intermeddling.—Fayetteville Observer.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

we killed about seventy. You know they are all dead, and I am sorry that it is almost impossible to say with certainty as to the number killed or wounded. We lost four men killed, four wounded and one missing. They shot remarkably well. We of necessity, killed a good many women and children.

It is proper to say, however, that the New School Presbyterian Church, which prevails mostly at the North, has meddled with the question of slavery, and offensively to the South. The Old School Presbyterian Church is guileless of such intermeddling.—Fayetteville Observer.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Carolina Watchman.

SALISBURY, N. C.

TUESDAY EVENING, OCT. 13, 1855.

Yakia Navigation Company.—The stockholders of this Company will meet at Macksville on Saturday the 20th instant. The great importance of the work, ought to excite general interest, especially throughout the country which will be more immediately benefited by its successful prosecution. The object of the proposed meeting is to elect two Directors on the part of individual stockholders, and to adopt such other measures as may be found necessary for the complete organization of the company, and the commencement of the work.

We have omitted to mention, heretofore, that Peter W. Harrison, James L. Kerr and H. C. Jones, Esq., have been appointed Directors on the part of the State.

The side-walks of our town are nearly blocked up with boxes. If we judge by these, and by the heavy and lustrous in the stores, a very large quantity of goods have been brought in this Fall and heavy operations calculated on by our Merchants.

We are sorry, for their own sakes, that so few of them deem their business of sufficient importance as to go before the public with their own advertisements. We can speak of this matter with less of personal interest than formerly, for there are two other newspapers in the place besides ours. We are quite sure that one of us will be successful in this great business system, as well as a boon to individuals. "Keep it before the people," say politicians, when there is some important political measure to be carried out. And why not "keep it before the people" that you are still in business—our trade with stocks in its hands—accommodate customers and not "keep it before the people" that Salisbury is a place—landed of industrious and thrifty mechanics and business men, and that trading people cannot go on in coming here. This ought to be done by every business man in the place would find his interest well written and related to his own.

It would cost him something and he might not be willing to pay it for the result it would do both the well and the bad. We are not sure but our "party fathers" would not see a valuable service to the town if they would give an influence regarding every business in the place to a select committee of from three to five worth gentlemen. It would be the business of the place, and that there many whose working business has a long, give impetus to building, and end in making Salisbury the great point in Western North Carolina, and to our merchants and business men the bright part of our life in this part of the State. Gentlemen, you are shutting down the Road gates of fortune when you neglect to advertise—helping and ruin your sales, and reducing your own sales. The fact is, however, that we fear you only mean to make a profit to your own selves. Remember, a ball once put in motion down hill requires no force to keep it moving, but needs to arrest it. It is better, the widest spread of our catch the most will find who of you are not at home to "run the road."

We were in attendance at Judge Bailey's court last week, Judge Bailey, presiding, and we were very much interested in the case of a slave, who was brought before the court by a man named A. G. Carter, Esq., who was the attorney for the plaintiff. The case was a very important one, and we were very much interested in the result. The court decided in favor of the plaintiff, and we were very much pleased with the result.

It is a very interesting case, and we were very much interested in the result. The court decided in favor of the plaintiff, and we were very much pleased with the result. The case was a very important one, and we were very much interested in the result. The court decided in favor of the plaintiff, and we were very much pleased with the result.

The case was a very important one, and we were very much interested in the result. The court decided in favor of the plaintiff, and we were very much pleased with the result. The case was a very important one, and we were very much interested in the result. The court decided in favor of the plaintiff, and we were very much pleased with the result.

we killed about seventy. You know they are all dead, and I am sorry that it is almost impossible to say with certainty as to the number killed or wounded. We lost four men killed, four wounded and one missing. They shot remarkably well. We of necessity, killed a good many women and children.

It is proper to say, however, that the New School Presbyterian Church, which prevails mostly at the North, has meddled with the question of slavery, and offensively to the South. The Old School Presbyterian Church is guileless of such intermeddling.—Fayetteville Observer.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

we killed about seventy. You know they are all dead, and I am sorry that it is almost impossible to say with certainty as to the number killed or wounded. We lost four men killed, four wounded and one missing. They shot remarkably well. We of necessity, killed a good many women and children.

It is proper to say, however, that the New School Presbyterian Church, which prevails mostly at the North, has meddled with the question of slavery, and offensively to the South. The Old School Presbyterian Church is guileless of such intermeddling.—Fayetteville Observer.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

we killed about seventy. You know they are all dead, and I am sorry that it is almost impossible to say with certainty as to the number killed or wounded. We lost four men killed, four wounded and one missing. They shot remarkably well. We of necessity, killed a good many women and children.

It is proper to say, however, that the New School Presbyterian Church, which prevails mostly at the North, has meddled with the question of slavery, and offensively to the South. The Old School Presbyterian Church is guileless of such intermeddling.—Fayetteville Observer.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.

Dr. Baker was killed by a bullet in the neck, and his horse met with a severe injury, having broken down from the traces, that he had been thrown out; but there was no harm done to the body, except very slight ones on the face and hand.