

THE USEFUL AND THE BEAUTIFUL.

The tomb of Moses is unknown, but the traveler stakes his thirst at the well of Jacob. The gorgeous palace of the wisest of Monarchs, and the cedar, and gold, and ivory, and even the Temple of Jerusalem, followed by the visible glory of the Deity himself, are gone; but Solomon's reservoirs are as perfect as ever. Of the ancient architecture of the holy city, not one stone is left upon another; but the pool of Bethesda commands the pilgrim's reverence to the present day. The columns of temples are mouldering into the dust; but its eastern and aqueducts remain to challenge our admiration. The golden house of Nero is a mass of ruins; but the Aqua Claudia still pours its waters into the Tiber. The Temple of the Sun, at Tivoli, in the wilderness, has fallen; its fountains sparkle as freely in its ruins, as when thousands of worshippers thronged its lofty colonnades. It may be that London will share the fate of Babylon; nothing will remain to mark its site, but the Thames will continue to do as of old does now. And if any work of art or skill still rise after the deep-seated ruins, we may well believe that it will be rather palace or temple, but not a city of glory. And if the light of knowledge should still flash through the mist of an age, it will probably be that of the men who, in the future, sought their progress of knowledge rather than glory, and looked after the common good rather than the glory which outlives all other, and shines with undying lustre from generation to generation; imparting to its work something of its own immortality, and in some degree resembling thereby the ordinary monuments of historical civilization more magnificence.

HUGHES' PRINTING TELEGRAPH.

We learn from New York that this wonderful invention has at last received the finishing touch, and will be immediately placed upon the new line between that city and Philadelphia. We are also informed that the machines so far it has been possible to test them through a long run of wire, and in the 12th, have realized the most successful results. The invention, he called a printing press, and the group is intended to be used for printing messages on Roman capitals with perfect accuracy, and at an almost incredible rate of speed, extending to the ordinary use of a business man, from 25 to 2500 letters per hour.

Mr. Fuller was once engaged in a case in a neighboring county, where the opposing counsel had obtained great aid with the jury, but it was hopeless, his wonder, gravity, and real or assumed conscientiousness and solemnity. On the occasion referred to, he had closed (metaphorically in a flood of tears, plainly intimating to the jury that it was all idle to think of living unless they found for his client. Mr. Fuller says that with the jury in the fifth state of mind, as was lost. So rising to reply, in a low and measured way, and pointing out each and every known pitfall, he said: "We will be these solemn ceremonies. Before he could proceed further the judge of the whole thing was again interrupted; the court, jury, and audience were convulsed with laughter, and the charm broken.

AN AMERICAN YIELDING.

The American States have made the first step towards yielding to the European powers, by the signing of the Convention of Washington, which is a concession to the European powers, and a recognition of their claims to the right of navigation on the Mississippi river. This is a great step, and one which will have far-reaching consequences. It is a concession to the European powers, and a recognition of their claims to the right of navigation on the Mississippi river. This is a great step, and one which will have far-reaching consequences.

THE WASHINGTON HERALD.

The book trade of the United States has grown to be an important industry. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly.

THE WASHINGTON HERALD.

The book trade of the United States has grown to be an important industry. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly.

Mr. W. had been in the habit of supplying the Navy Yard with iron for several years. This contract was taken from him by the Secretary of the Navy and given to a Roman Catholic Mr. W. is one of the most respectable citizens of Washington, and universally esteemed.

While good Americans are thus proscribed by the administration, it pains us to state that supporters of the same administration are rewarded with lucrative offices in the House of Representatives.

A HARD CASE.—The Parkersburg Gazette, alluding to the difficulty experienced by the Locomotives in finding grounds for opposing Mr. Fillmore, remarks:

The truth is, Mr. Fillmore, we must confess, is rather a hard case. Almost any other man has some vulnerable point, personally or politically, which might be successfully assailed. But Mr. Fillmore's private character, his unblemished integrity, and his consistent, patriotic and national course, while President of the United States, are familiar to the country, and the scurrilous and abusive mode of warfare usually resorted to by anti-Americanism will prove unavailing.

The Locomotives also believe that Mr. Fillmore will not accept the nomination. Let us not say that drifting question is decided; for as certain as the sun will rise to-morrow, Mr. Fillmore will be the standard-bearer to the American party in the coming contest.

Mr. Fillmore is a hard "case" in another respect; he is not electable, and will not be chosen for the office. He thinks the office should seek the man, and not the man the office. It is unavailing, therefore, in this respect. He is content to let the public do as they think best. If they desire his services, he is ready to serve them at their call; but they prefer a fourth or fifth rate man, some one who will run the country, resorting and cajoling them, and promising offices to those trading politicians and unprincipled demagogues who are ready to support the greatest rascal and most unprincipled aspirant upon a promise of a good share of the spoils. They can go; he will say nothing further on the subject. He has no more to say than that the President-elect is Mr. Fillmore.

ANOTHER VETO.

The President of the United States, yesterday, vetoed a bill which would have authorized the construction of a canal between the Potomac and the Chesapeake bays. This is the second veto of the President in this respect. The bill would have authorized the construction of a canal between the Potomac and the Chesapeake bays. This is the second veto of the President in this respect.

EXEMPLARY PUNISHMENT.

One of the members of the House of Representatives, Mr. H. H. H., was punished for an indiscretion which was committed during an absence from the House. He was punished for an indiscretion which was committed during an absence from the House.

THE WASHINGTON HERALD.

The book trade of the United States has grown to be an important industry. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly.

THE WASHINGTON HERALD.

The book trade of the United States has grown to be an important industry. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly.

Mr. W. had been in the habit of supplying the Navy Yard with iron for several years. This contract was taken from him by the Secretary of the Navy and given to a Roman Catholic Mr. W. is one of the most respectable citizens of Washington, and universally esteemed.

While good Americans are thus proscribed by the administration, it pains us to state that supporters of the same administration are rewarded with lucrative offices in the House of Representatives.

A HARD CASE.—The Parkersburg Gazette, alluding to the difficulty experienced by the Locomotives in finding grounds for opposing Mr. Fillmore, remarks:

The truth is, Mr. Fillmore, we must confess, is rather a hard case. Almost any other man has some vulnerable point, personally or politically, which might be successfully assailed. But Mr. Fillmore's private character, his unblemished integrity, and his consistent, patriotic and national course, while President of the United States, are familiar to the country, and the scurrilous and abusive mode of warfare usually resorted to by anti-Americanism will prove unavailing.

The Locomotives also believe that Mr. Fillmore will not accept the nomination. Let us not say that drifting question is decided; for as certain as the sun will rise to-morrow, Mr. Fillmore will be the standard-bearer to the American party in the coming contest.

Mr. Fillmore is a hard "case" in another respect; he is not electable, and will not be chosen for the office. He thinks the office should seek the man, and not the man the office. It is unavailing, therefore, in this respect. He is content to let the public do as they think best. If they desire his services, he is ready to serve them at their call; but they prefer a fourth or fifth rate man, some one who will run the country, resorting and cajoling them, and promising offices to those trading politicians and unprincipled demagogues who are ready to support the greatest rascal and most unprincipled aspirant upon a promise of a good share of the spoils. They can go; he will say nothing further on the subject. He has no more to say than that the President-elect is Mr. Fillmore.

ANOTHER VETO.

The President of the United States, yesterday, vetoed a bill which would have authorized the construction of a canal between the Potomac and the Chesapeake bays. This is the second veto of the President in this respect. The bill would have authorized the construction of a canal between the Potomac and the Chesapeake bays. This is the second veto of the President in this respect.

EXEMPLARY PUNISHMENT.

One of the members of the House of Representatives, Mr. H. H. H., was punished for an indiscretion which was committed during an absence from the House. He was punished for an indiscretion which was committed during an absence from the House.

THE WASHINGTON HERALD.

The book trade of the United States has grown to be an important industry. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly.

THE WASHINGTON HERALD.

The book trade of the United States has grown to be an important industry. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly. It is estimated that the book trade of the United States is worth $10,000,000 annually. This is a great industry, and one which is growing rapidly.

NEW GOODS. Mills, Moore & Co. Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Boots and Shoes.

THE IRON MARKET PRICES. To Farmers. NEW BOOKS.

G. A. MILLER, ATTORNEY AT LAW. RICHMOND, VA.

NEW SPRING SUMMER GOODS. COWAN'S VEGETABLE LITHONTRIPIC.

A MARVELLOUS REMEDY. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

LAND FOR SALE. 375 ACRES OF LAND FOR SALE.

WALTON HOTEL. SALISBURY, N.C.

NEW BOOKS. THE WASHINGTON HERALD.

DR. W. F. BASON, DENTIST. GREENSBOROUGH MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY.

Valuable Land for Sale! Commission Merchants.

DR. S. REEVES. JOB PRINTING.

NEW GOODS. Mills, Moore & Co. Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Boots and Shoes.

THE IRON MARKET PRICES. To Farmers. NEW BOOKS.

G. A. MILLER, ATTORNEY AT LAW. RICHMOND, VA.

NEW SPRING SUMMER GOODS. COWAN'S VEGETABLE LITHONTRIPIC.

A MARVELLOUS REMEDY. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

LAND FOR SALE. 375 ACRES OF LAND FOR SALE.

WALTON HOTEL. SALISBURY, N.C.

NEW BOOKS. THE WASHINGTON HERALD.

DR. W. F. BASON, DENTIST. GREENSBOROUGH MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY.

Valuable Land for Sale! Commission Merchants.

DR. S. REEVES. JOB PRINTING.

W.P. ELLIOTT. GENERAL COMMISSION AND FORWARDING MERCHANT, WILMINGTON, N.C.

Tremendous Excitement ABOUT THE Western Extension!

READY MADE CLOTHING. Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods.

ANDERSON & REYNOLDS, CROCCERS, AND Commission Merchants.

CUMMING & STYRON, COMMISSION AND Forwarding Merchants, WILMINGTON, N.C.

PETER W. HILTON, COMMISSION MERCHANT, TOWN POINTE, WILMINGTON, N.C.

RODAN HOUSE. H.L. ROBARDS, SALISBURY, N.C.

A MARVELLOUS REMEDY. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

LAND FOR SALE. 375 ACRES OF LAND FOR SALE.

WALTON HOTEL. SALISBURY, N.C.

NEW BOOKS. THE WASHINGTON HERALD.

DR. W. F. BASON, DENTIST. GREENSBOROUGH MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY.

Valuable Land for Sale! Commission Merchants.

DR. S. REEVES. JOB PRINTING.

EAGLE CITY. THE SUBSCRIBER has the pleasure to announce to the world...

READY MADE CLOTHING. Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods.

ANDERSON & REYNOLDS, CROCCERS, AND Commission Merchants.

CUMMING & STYRON, COMMISSION AND Forwarding Merchants, WILMINGTON, N.C.

PETER W. HILTON, COMMISSION MERCHANT, TOWN POINTE, WILMINGTON, N.C.

RODAN HOUSE. H.L. ROBARDS, SALISBURY, N.C.

A MARVELLOUS REMEDY. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

LAND FOR SALE. 375 ACRES OF LAND FOR SALE.

WALTON HOTEL. SALISBURY, N.C.

NEW BOOKS. THE WASHINGTON HERALD.

DR. W. F. BASON, DENTIST. GREENSBOROUGH MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY.

Valuable Land for Sale! Commission Merchants.

DR. S. REEVES. JOB PRINTING.

DR. S. REEVES. JOB PRINTING.

DR. S. REEVES. JOB PRINTING.

DR. S. REEVES. JOB PRINTING.