

It is a moment and a parenthesis, to sum up that the recent difficulties in and about Lawrence were occasioned by my considerable number of home Kansas settlers from the free States. We have expressed, says the District Free Press, the confidence of a man that the collision at Lawrence was predetermined by the northern Abolition Presidential operators—that the resistance to the execution of legislation was rearranged for the sole and express purpose of procuring the very result over which so much excitement is sought to be raised. The plan was so comprehensively set to influence the manner and the means of spreading the exaggerated accounts of the affair brought us by telegraph. If proof other than that which the whole transaction wears upon its face, was wanting to convince every one skeptical that we did not express a mistaken opinion, A. S. to be found in the subjunctive interdicted letter addressed to Gov. Robinson by one of the Lawrence rebels. It bears date, "Lawrence, May 13, 3 p.m." and was sent after Robinson, who had left for the East:

Governor Robinson: The leader of this is one of us. We have, since you left, in addition to the forces, five hundred and eighty men, Indians, all well armed, and will, if the border call us, kill, whenever and wherever we find them. But be sure and go more of rifles, powder, and ball. We must have two more pieces of canon to plant on the north-east corner of the fort. In the morning we intend to send our women and children to different parts of the Territory. Before this reaches you, you will hear of a slaughter among the proslavery men and Indians unless he cannot see you immediately.

We want more men if you can prevail on them in Ohio, Massachusetts and New York to come immediately. Call on Greeley, Sewall, Banks, Campbell, Beecher, etc. It is not called Fillmore's friends; if you do, we may be betrayed before the election comes off. See Breckinridge, self, and have the prayers of all the churches in behalf of liberty, freedom and the other smaller Union of the rebels of the Southern States. While writing, news has just come of one hundred and fifty men, armed, making up all two thousand seven hundred and sixty men, armed and well drilled in an, well equipped and ready officers. This is still evidence. They think he has left the place. Write as soon as you make the right impression on the section people. I think we can hold out three or four months with provisions, we except powder and balls. By order of the Committee.

Be sure and take care of this. Don't let it men in Lexington get this.

The address upon this letter was "Gov. Robinson, Independent, N. Lexington, Jefferson City." It is not a precious document. It was not thrown a field of light upon the "free State" operations in Kansas. It remained out of its greatness.

—NATE HILL UNDER THE HILL.—

The difficulty between Spain and Mexico, is to be a cause. The amount of gold in Spanish banks incurred in Spanish subjects among the state of Mexico for independence is very large. Mexico has called for cessation of hostilities, urging that some of the Spanish troops retuned to Mexico, and Mexico has vowed to ensure it by compelling the Spanish to do so. The address upon this letter was "Gov. Robinson, Independent, N. Lexington, Jefferson City." It is not a precious document. It was not thrown a field of light upon the "free State" operations in Kansas. It remained out of its greatness.

The Meeting in New-York.—The New-York Day Book gives the following comments upon the latest summer meeting in New-York:

In regard to the meeting last night, we will simply say to our countrymen, that Mr. Donald-Lord was the only speaker there who is not an active worker and speaker in the "mugger" working-class cause. They are all what is called "old stage," men who have been engaged for the last twenty-five years in every movement that has offered a hope of political success and progress. Not a single old conservative "Union living" man was there.

The town was at the height of its infamy, notoriety. Almost its only inhabitants were gamblers, prostitutes, and prostitutes. It was hardly considered safe for a strong, courageous, unaccustomed to the teeth and accustomed to be passed of the day. Bitterness and accusations were of daily—almost hourly—occurrence. Many of the river captains were in league with the dealers who ruled, whose others were held in the most scathing fear.

A different man, however, was Captain L. H. French, another man not the devil. His boat was one of the largest and the most handsomely decorated, and was known as the "handsome boat" on the Mississippi. He was, however, honest, and notorious to whom he came, whether boat or cabin, and all on board under his patronage and protection. Was, it passenger cubed, as gave him his most unite money was restored, or the flood defied. Did a blocking come aboard, he was put ashore the moment he evaded that condition.

During a downing up the boat of Captain L. —— had occasion to touch at "Naylor under the Hill" to take on some freight. One of the passengers, who brought into notice the bells in the immediate vicinity of the steamer, was robbed of a large sum of money. The moment he discovered his loss, he hastened to the captain and told his story. The latter apparently paid no attention, but waited until the freight had been all transferred. He then suddenly walked up to the door of the "hill" above, and announced the discovery of the stolen money. On coming his demand was disregarded, and, notwithstanding his protestation, he was threatened with a punishment if he did not go about his business. Arising on board his boat, he ordered all hands to turn them over, and to confess. At the same time he showed an immense cable chain, used for anchoring and other purposes, to be carried ashore, and cautioned the master that his demand was disregarded, and that he would be compelled to pay him back his loss.

"I will tell thee; thou must go home, and read thy Bible, and pray to the Lord for a new heart."

"But, sir," said the boy, "what if I should die before I get home, then what would become of me?"

"True, true," said the old gentleman, "but never mind, we'll turn the boy into a soldier, and he will be a good soldier."

"I'll do it, said Jim, and Dumbeth, and they parted in the best of spirits.

An hour after dark, on the following evening, Joe made his appearance, decked in a nice new black suit, ready looking very comely. The old man bustled out to the barn with him, helping to lasso young Morgan to the new phase

Carolina Watchman.

Devoted to Politics, News, Agriculture, Industrial Improvements, Commerce, the Arts and Sciences, Morality, and the Family Circle.

VOL. XIII.

SALISBURY, N. C., JUNE 17, 1856.

NUMBER III.

AMERICANISM THE ALLY OF SLAVERY.

The Southern anti-American press and operators, in spite of the strongest proof to the contrary, persist in charging that the American party is friendless in its practices. The Chicago Democrat thinks differently. It says:

"We have never been able to comprehend how any true opponent of slave extension could be a Know Nothing, and especially since the nomination of Fillmore and Donelson and the 12th section in their platform.

As between Fillmore and Donelson, and the Douglas took every consistent Democratic Anti-Nebraska man, would have to prefer the latter. It appears that Donelson wanted to make a Slave State of California.

That will do pretty well. Mr. Fillmore is a better man for the South than Douglas, and Douglas a better man for the North. The Democrat takes the view of the old. Democratic Buccaneer, that these are elements at work in that party, that will strike the fitters from the limbs of the slave, and inaugurate in one vast brotherhood all of the different races of the earth. Here is what the Democrat thinks of the Democracy, as understood in the West:

"There is nothing like tenacity in the democracy of Jefferson, Madison and Jackson, that opposed stringent laws, all persecution of men for their birth place or religion, and an extension of the scourge of the age, human slavery."

—The Difficulties of Spain's Return.—

The difficulty between Spain and Mexico, is to be a cause. The amount of gold in Spanish banks incurred in Spanish subjects among the state of Mexico for independence is very large.

—Spanish Gold.—

Captain L. —— when touched at "Naylor under the Hill" after that, but the blacks always give him a wide berth.

—The Runaway Match.

A great many years since, when bright-eyed and fair-haired lasses were not so plenty in New England as they are now, there dwelt in the town of P——, a prettily village, distant there, some five and twenty miles from Market Town, a pell-mell, comely and graceful maiden, who had a peculiar, ugly, full cross-grained, but wondrous wild flavor.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to be worth ten thousand dollars, at that period a very handsome fortune.

Marian was Dunforth's only, and a poor soul said that she would be his sole legitimate. The old man was a sturdy old farmer, and was esteemed to