Greensboro', Sept. 13th, 1856.

Sirs of Watchman: A forged has landed in your paper of the 9th inst., charging me with attempting to murder Mr. Robinson, Editor of the Tribune, and stating that I had been committed to jail, and that the indignation of the community was strongly aroused against me, on account of the manner in which the attack was made. In all which you are totally mistaken, except that I did shoot him, (he going armed with a revolver for me) for the purpose of chastising and not killing him, for publishing gross libels on me—and there are not half a dozen men in Wayne County who believe I either desired or attempted to kill him. I have not been committed to jail nor been in danger of being committed, and the public sentiment here instead of being against me, is decidedly the other way. You will do me the justice to publish this in the next No. of your paper, and the kindness to copy from the Standard an article which will appear next week, over my signature, giving the particulars of the difficulty.

Yours, &c.

WM. T. DORTCH.

A Good Joke.—A dabbler in literature and the fine arts, who prided himself on his language, came upon a youngster a few days since sitting upon the bank of a river, angling for gudgeons and thus addressed him:

"Adolescee, art thou not endeavoring to entice the finny tribe to engulph into their denticulated mouths a barbed hook, upon whose point is affixed a day allurement?"

"No," said the boy, "I'm a fishing."

She Wasn't Out.—"Oh, I met such a beautiful girl in the street to-day," said a gentleman to a lady friend to whom he was doing the agreeable, not many evenings since; "she was dressed in deep mourning; I think I have never seen a sweeter face." "Who could it have been!" said his listener, smoothing down her bombazine dress and glancing at the crape folds to see if they were properly adjusted; "pretty, you say! who could it have been? I was not out!"

COOL SHOOTING.

Under this heading, the Crockett, (Texas) Printer, of the 20th inst., has the following:

Two men named Rigsby and Robbins, at a whiskey stand, in the northeastern portion of Grimes county, got to quarreling; both had rifles; Rigsby up with his and shot Robbins, who fell mortally wounded; but as Rigsby turned off cursing him, Robbins took aim as he lay dying on the ground, and shot Rigsby through the heart.—Both died almost immediately revenged even in death.

Walking on the Water.—An immense crowd was assembled on Tuesday afternoon on the bridges and quays of the Seine to witness the movements of a well-dressed man who was walking on the river between the Point du Carousal and the lock of the Mint, apparently with the greatest ease. He had each foot in a small triangular box securely fastened with straps round his legs, and in his hands he carried a long balancing pole, similar to those used by rope dancers, except that at each end was attached a large bladder. When getting off his balance he dipped the end of the pole, and the resistance caused by the bladder touching the water restored him to his equilibrium.—Galignani's Messenger.

Eloquent.—A young lady of 17 or 18 years of age, recently eloped from Atlanta, with a married man, the father of four children, who left his wife and took with him his off-spring. The wife came to Savannah in search of her children, and yesterday found three of them, girls, at the institution of the Sisters of Mercy, where they had been placed to board by their father. The other child, a boy, is no doubt with him, but no clue has as yet been had of his whereabouts.—We prefer to suppress the names of the parties until further information reaches us. Efforts are making to return the boy to its mother, which we hope may prove successful.—Savannah Republican 20th.

Beautiful Extract.—The velvet moss grows on sterile rocks; the mistleto flourishes on the naked branches; the ivy clings to the mouldering ruins; the pine and cedar remain fresh and fadeless amid the mediation of the receding year—and, Heaven be praised, something green and beautiful to see, and grateful to the soul, will, in the darkest hour of fate, still twine its tendrils around the crumbling altars and broken arches of the desolate temple of the human heart.

STAFFORD, DIXON & CO'S

PREMIUM HORSE POWERS, AND

ARE so well known, that description is unnecessary. For the past ten or fifteen years their superiority over other Machines has been fully tested by hundreds of the most intelligent and enterprising Farmers of the State, and their popularity may be known from the fact that we have never been able to supply the steadily increasing demand. But having recently refitted our shop, and increased our working force, we trust in future to be able to keep pace with the orders that a discriminating public may favor us with.

These Machines were on exhibition at the State Fair in 1854 and '55, in competition with Machines manufactured in this State, as well as a number from other States, and took a DIPLOMA and the HIGHEST PREMIUM, over all others. We also manufacture, at short notice, Grist and Saw Mill Irons, Factory Gear, Circular Saw Mills, Wool-carding Machines, Straw and Stalk Cutters, just the thing that farmers need this dry season; and all kinds of castings in common use in the country.
