

The Stranger on the Hill.

BY T. A. READ.

Between broad fields of wheat and corn,
In the lovely home where I was born...

There is the barn—old, and of years,
I ran over it from the open door...

BE POLITE.

It is said that George M. Duffie of South Carolina was very polite even when a little boy...

George returned, "Good evening, sir,"
with such a polite bow that the gentleman thanked the gentleman for his kindness, and let him take charge of her son...

Every body loves polite children.
Worthy persons will pay attention to such, speak well of their good manners...

When I use the paper, I find my paper
made in a way that it is not only strong, but it is also very clean...

My little brother—whenever I see your brother, I will give him a good scolding for his bad manners...

A School Master "Boarding Round."

Extract from the Journal of a Vermont
paper.

Monday—Went to board at Mr.
B's, had a baked goose for dinner,
suppose from its size, the thickness of its
skin, and other venerable appearances...

Tuesday—Cold, goose and potatoes;
family consisting of the man, good wife,
daughter Peggy, four boys, Pompey, the dog, and a brace of cats—fire built in the square room...

Wednesday—Cold, gander for breakfast,
congealed and some hot cake, the latter some isolation. Dinner—The legs of the gander done up warm—the gander's head and neck done up cold...

Thursday—Cold, gander again; felt very much obliged to see the gander
in half a gander; went visiting for dinner
and supper; and had a good dinner...

Friday—The gander abroad. Dinner—
