

J. J. BRUNER, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR. Letter from Gen. Walker to President Beckham. Washington, January 4.

Carolina Watchman.

Devoted to Politics, News, Agriculture, Internal Improvements, Commerce, the Arts and Sciences, Morality, and the Family Circle.

VOL. XIV. SALISBURY, N. C., JANUARY 19, 1858. NUMBER 34 of any United States authority; for even if we were admitted belligerents against a power with which the United States was at peace, the owners of the neutral vessel had clear right to carry warlike persons as well as contraband of war...

But permit me to conclude by adding that in all events, and under all circumstances, there are duties and responsibilities from which I and the officers and men I represent will not, dare not shrink. No extreme of illegal interference...

of 15, and other girls of the same age, found there—deprived in a similar way—had been handed over to their parents, demoralized and ruined for life.

Madame's counsel first endeavored to procure a removal of the trial to London on the theory that an impartial jury could not be found to give the case a fair trial in Liverpool, but without success.

was sojourning for a short time in the city of Richmond, on my way to the University. Being a young lady, she would not put the question in the usual form...

It was now Miss Jenie's turn to test her fate. Being a young lady, she would not put the question in the usual form, but merely inquired what should be her future fate.

Having witnessed his gigantic labors, I thought suggested itself that I should assist in providing the company. Accordingly, a wasp which found its way in at the window was struck down...

At a recent meeting in England, Colonel Coke said: "I have read nothing in history—nothing in romance—nor even in the most vividly imaginative pages of Scott—comparable in thrilling interest to the advance of Havelock's column upon Cawnpore and Lucknow. There were incidents connected with it so touching and so sublime, that the brain of man could never have ventured to conceive them, and I do earnestly trust that that heroic and good man may yet be spared to narrate, in his own simple language, those fearful scenes of which he formed so great a part."

THE BRIDE OF AN EVENING.

BY EMMA D. K. N. SOUTHWORTH.

CHAPTER I.

THE ASTROLOGER'S PREDICTION.

Reading, a few weeks since, one of De Quincy's papers—"The Moralists' Murders,"—recalled to my mind the strange circumstances of one of the most mysterious domestic dramas that ever taxed the ingenuity of man...

CHAPTER II.

THE SYBIL'S CIRCLE.

The next day, Honora informed her grandmother, Madame Andrey, of Godfrey's presence in the neighborhood, and the old lady sent her only brother, Colonel Stannum, to fetch him to Piedmont.

CHAPTER III.

THE SYBIL'S CIRCLE.

The above is the commencement of Mrs. Southworth's great story, which is now being published in the New York Ledger. We give this as a sample; but it is only the beginning of this most interesting, fascinating, and beautiful tale...

THE SPIDER IN HIS WORKING. The common eye has of late been catching the garden spider at the commencement of his operations, says the author of "The Spinet Curious." They watch either in the night or very early in the morning...