

ELBOTORS FOR THE STATE AT LARGE.

HON. GEO. E. BAIDNER, of Wake.
DR. R. K. REED, of Pasquotank.

- Disunion.
- In District: J. W. HINTON, of Pasquotank.
C. H. CLARK, of Craven.
O. H. DOCKER, of Richmond.
L. C. EDWARDS, of Granville.
A. G. FORTER, of Randolph.
HENRY WALKER, of Davidson.
WM. P. HYNUM, of Lincoln.
DR. B. S. GAITHER, of Burke.

TELLING THE TRUTH.

Joseph Lane, session candidate for the Vice Presidency, had in his piece in the Senate on the 25th of May last:

"It is the fault of the Democratic party, in dodging the Constitution itself, that has brought the trouble upon the country and the party, that is experienced today." - Asheville Spectator.

New York City, Oct. 17, 1860.
Ms. J. F. BURNES.

Dear Sir: In accordance with your request, I give you a few items in regard to affairs in the Empire State, as gathered from what I can see and hear. Since the Prince took his leave on the 15th, the all important topic is the irrepressible conflict. The opinion has narrowed down to that, and the most important election that has ever been held in this State will be the coming Presidential one. The friends of Lincoln are using every means in their power to enter the State, and an instance of their power is the Police department of this city, numbering 1700 men—all Black Republicans—from Albany and other parts of the State, are required by their leaders to give their unqualified support to Lincoln, to give them no other aid than if they can find any pretext to prevent him. The work of the lawless Legislature will fall heavily in the city against the republican cause, and those who profess to know, claim that the Union ticket will go down from this city, and the towns on the Hudson, Albany, with a majority of 80,000 votes, which cannot possibly be overcome by the Western and Northern part of the State. On the 23d there is to be a grand Union procession here of the Union men, and no less than one hundred and twenty clubs will be represented in the affair, by delegations of from one to five hundred. The election in Pennsylvania is here regarded as no less of a Republican victory in that State, as the true issue there was upon the tariff—Lincoln himself saying that any man voting for him as a Black Republican was a traitor. That he was not running on that question at all. This being so, many thousands of the Bull and Everett men supported him who will be found standing square up in opposition to Lincoln.

The cause here is now looked upon as a race between Bell and Everett and Lincoln and Himelin, and we wish that there could be that fraternal feeling displayed in the Old North State that there is seen among Whigs and Democrats. There are many thousands of men who are in favor of the great question of North-right and who are even willing to "abandon their muscles" in favor of those rights, North and South, but they deplore the idea of marching for the purpose of securing those rights. Last night in conversation with a Northern gentleman, we remarked that the feeling of secession was much stronger South than it had ever been before; and that if the last time there would be found but one voice there, if our rights were trampled upon too far. He replied that "if the South fight for her rights, let it be in the Union, and thousands upon thousands of Northern men will be found in their ranks, dying bravely for their common country. This may, in the true sense of affairs; and for coming election, will show many men in the States are in favor of what is just and right in regard to national affairs."

Roll on the Bell and Everett ball and let North Carolina be backward in expressing her disapprobation of Disunionists, North and South.
L. P. E.

For the Watchman.
CLINTON, Sampson Co., Oct. 23, 1860.

Ms. J. F. BURNES.

Dear Sir: Thinking that a little news from this part of the State, would not be unacceptable, I take my seat for the purpose of giving you some facts with regard to the great Breckinridge and Lane meeting in this place.

Last Friday was the day appointed for this grand ball, and owing to the inclemency of the weather it was postponed till the next day. It would merely remark that the great flag on which was inscribed the name of "Breckinridge and Lane" is glowing captain, was split under by the force of the storm, this foreboding (in a bystander remarked) the severing of the states in the event of their election. A large history play was erected in the public square, after having been broken several times, in their attempt to raise it; in fact it was crooked and broken and ugly that some one very quickly remarked that was just like the Democratic party—broken all to pieces.

The Democrats were highly entertained by a speech from Gov. Winslow, which consisted of bitter invectives against the Black Republicans—the Douglas men and the Bell and Everett men, and appeals to the prejudices of Southern men.

We labored to show that Hon. W. L. Yancy was not a disunionist, but a true Union-loving man. This was the only speech they had until night when they had an enormous crowd-fight procession, with probably fifty persons engaged in the glorious cause.

They first called on E. G. Hayward, who had been sick, and unable to speak during the day. He spoke about half an hour, and appeared to give strength from the dispersion of the cause which he was pleading. He said that a great many persons opposed the Breckinridge and Lane disunionists because they were found in disunionist papers. Mr. Yancy of Alabama was addressing the Breckinridge and Lane, that he did not come here for the purpose of fighting Yancy's battles—that he was very glad that Yancy was advancing the election of Breckinridge and Lane, and that he would be very glad if a good many Black Republicans would do the same thing; and that he would company with any day.

Thus, you perceive, he actually acknowledged that Mr. Yancy was "bad company" and did not attempt to show that he was not a disunionist, but took it as a matter of course that every body knew he was. It would have done very good to have seen the inscription on their troupe banners: "We Union this strength." They know, I suppose, that it is very different with them since they have been divided. "2000 cheers for Maryland!" "Vote with us!" "Southern rights!" &c., &c. They say that they are not divided—that Douglas is "no whar"—that they are the only hope in this distracted country. One of the orators said there was no hope of saving the Union except by the election of Breckinridge and Lane. Oh! the consistency of democracy.

Secular in Trappers' Repudiating Yancy. - Gov. Andy Johnson, of Tennessee, makes queer Breckinridge speeches. No wonder the Seculars denounce and abuse him worse than they abuse Douglas. The Nashville Democrat, a Douglas organ, has the following account of the speech made in this city last week by Gov. Johnson, while the Union and American handlets it as it would best:

"It is the leaders, said the Governor, who have brought the evil upon us, and upon their heads let the people plant the seal of their disapprobation. I wash my hands of all responsibility." That is just what we have all along said that the leaders have brought on the Democracy its own destruction. And the Governor was content, when he said that the people would take this matter on hand, and take from those corrupt leaders, and again re-endorse the Democratic party in its former evil and harmful course, the people know very well where their leaders are, and they intend nothing to do with them. They are—without a word of exception—the honest supporters of Breckinridge and Lane. Therefore, we, the Democracy, in the exercise of our elective franchise, will vote in such a manner as to show our disapprobation of those leaders who have brought upon the Democracy its own destruction. We will vote for Stephen A. Douglas and Frederick V. Johnson, the true Democrats and the only representatives of the people, and we intend to be counted on by the people.

LATER FROM EUROPE.
Arrival of the City of Baltimore.

Bloody Battles Between the Garibaldiists and Neapolitans—Defeat of the latter, with 2,000 Killed and 5,000 Prisoners—Garibaldi to be Inaugurated by Sicilians.

St. James, Oct. 24.

The City of Baltimore, from Liverpool on the 10th inst., via Queenstown on the 11th, passed Cape Hazard yesterday. A bloody engagement had been fought between the Garibaldiists and Neapolitans in Volturno, of which the details are published. The Garibaldiists were successful, but at the expense of 1,200 men placed hors de combat. The Neapolitan loss is estimated at 2,000 killed and wounded, besides 5,000 prisoners. They also had severe losses in guns, ammunition, and stores, and were compelled to retreat in great disorder on Capua. The battle was hotly contested, and lasted several hours.
