SALISBURY, N.-C.

TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 16, 1861.

Rev. Jno. N. Andrews, Pastor of Brainerd's Bethel at Wilmington, N. C., will lecture at the Presbyterian Church on Tuesday the 16th inst., at 7½ o'clock, P. M. All are invited to attend.

THE WAR COMMENCED.

It will be seen by reference to another column, that the war was commenced by an attack on Fort Sumter last week, and that the Fort was taken. It is remarkable that this should have been done without the loss of life on either side, as far as we have been able to learn.

The secessionists, in this place, have made this event the subject of rejoicing by the firing of cannon. We rejoice with them—that no lives were lost on either side, and sincerely hope that all their vic tories may be as bloodless.

It is greatly to be deplored that President Lincoln is proving himself to be utterly unfit for the place he occupies, or else his Cabinet is distracted by dissensions to such an extent as to disqualify it for wise action in the present critical condition of the country. He allowed it to go forth to the world that Fort Sumter was to be evacuated; but it was delayed from day to day, and finally it was announced that it would be provisioned and re enforced. If he had desired to restrain the warlike ire of the Southern people, there could have been no surer way to do it than by evacuating all the Forts in the Southern States. If, however, he desires to promote a general war between the two sections, his double dealing and secret policy is well chosen for that purpose.

LOVE OF COUNTRY.

Man's next love, after his religion and his fa[mily], is for his country. The history of the world abounds with evidence of the unconquerable nature of this principle of the human heart. It has equally displayed itself in the ice-bound regions of the North and in the burning sand plains of the South—amongst savages as well as among civilized and enlightened men.—The Red Men of America perished in their devotion to it, often keeping up the unequal conflict after their men had been reduced by the sword to the merest handful. Beaten from one field, they would retire and rest for a while, until refreshed and strengthened, and then renew the contest on another. Individual cases are numerous in which parents of the Indian tribes have exhibited the possession of this principle to a remarkable degree, expressing itself not only in words of thrilling eloquence and touching pathos, but in deeds of high daring and fearlessness of danger, unsurpassed in the annals of the world. Love of country!—we call it a principle—a natural principle of the human mind. It cannot be lost, for unlike passion, it is rarely, if ever, subject to change; and is indestructable.

Upon the existence of this great God given principle, we have never yet heard the secessionists that they could not permanently destroy the nationality of the United States—America, as we all are in the habit of calling our country! The present inhabitants—all the native born citizens—have never known any other than the United States as their country. Their affections have fastened upon it as a whole; and all the cherished attachments which in any other country bind its people to the soil, have bound us to all the States as our country. Our national pride has not been bound by the limits of State lines. Nothing less than the whole has filled our minds and our hearts. The patriotic literature of the country, its civil, social, political and religious history, all bear the impress of our nationality, and are interwoven with it, and they are all found in the deep, deep heart of the people. How can you destroy all these deep things!—things against which the sword may flash in vain. It would be easier to destroy thirty millions of people than to destroy their love of country—we therefore verily believe that it is impossible permanently to destroy the nationality of the United States. Its glory and renown may be tarnished. Its strength may be temporarily frittered away into sublime pal fanticism of sectional leaders; but the love of country will ultimately burst out and rise above these and assert itself with an ardor which will bury beneath it all its enemies—every thing in its way.

But, in the present dissentions of our country, working its dismemberment, and for the time obscuring our nationality, there is lacking an important element to secure more than a temporary alienation of its parts. There is no sufficient cause for so extreme a measure; nor relief in it, for the evils complained of. But there is in it an excess of passion, and consequent lawlessness, of which the people will become ashamed, and will ere long turn from it with repentance and abhorrence.

It will be seen in the editorial next paragraph, the feeling of contempt in foreign countries which already begins to find expression towards us as a people. The loss of national respectability may appear small to some unreflecting minds, but to a people so well educated and refined as those of the United States, it must prove such a cause of pain and mortification as to provoke them to struggle for a recovery of their lost ground.

RAY DOMPSON.—We have received, says the Baltimore Exchange, from a correspondent lately returned from San Domingo, the following, containing some interesting information as to the supposed designs of the Spanish Government upon that Island:—

The rumors current in the United States concerning the supposed schemes of Spain, in regard to the Island of St. Domingo, are well founded. Since the contraction of the loan by Santana, some years ago the Spanish Government has been vigilantly watching its opportunity to make this indebtedness a pretext for making itself master of the Republic of Dominica. Once established there, Jeffrard, who has no control of means, and who can command no forces, the people having become rapidly demoralized since the withdrawal of the whites, would be unable to offer any resistance. The whole island would then be in the hands of the Spaniards.

Upon this strong point of vantage, a large army [illegible] be concentrated, equipped and prepared, to take the advantage of any movement likely to result in the subjugation of Mexico and Central America, the preoccupation of this portion of the American continent having long been a favorite scheme of the Spaniards. The repeated failures of the attempts to form a stable government in these countries has served to invest this plan in their hopeful minds with a considerable promise of success. As the American government which formed the chief obstacle in their way is, in their view, now falling to pieces and powerless, they talk openly of the speedy realization of this scheme. Their army is about four times as large as ours, and well equipped, and their navy far superior to ours. There [illegible] them more than once laughing at the idea of the government of the United States, which is unable to keep in subjection a few rebels at home, attempting to restrain a nation of such vast power abroad. The idea is quite an attractive one, and could it be carried out and a stable government be secured to these countries, Spain would be speedily enriched by profits of the large colonial commerce which would rapidly be developed, and would once again take her position among the powers of the earth. Our government bearer of despatches, lately from Havana, was in St. Domingo, a short time before his return. A complete detail of the subject have been given by him to the government. No decided notice of it has ever, has, strange to say, yet been taken.

OUR CONGRESSIONAL REPRESENTATIVE.

In August next the people of North Carolina, according to law, will be privileged to elect Representatives to represent each Congressional District in Congress.

That election will be a very important one in North Carolina, for then the people will, in every Congressional District, have a favorable opportunity, if not before, to give an expression through the ballot box, in a legal and conservative manner, what are their preferences, and in which Congress they prefer to be represented.

We suggest, most respectfully, that the voters of the Seventh Congressional District organize promptly under the Southern Rights Banner and bring forward the name of a good and true man, the Hon. Burton Craige, if he will consent,—or any other, several of whom can easily be found,—to represent them in the Southern Congress. Those who prefer a representation in the Black Republican Congress a right to elect a person whose sympathies are enlisted in that direction; but it is to be expected that no true Southern Rights man will allow himself to be his confidence to be used in behalf of the LINCOLN Congress.

We know these suggestions will be approved of by the Southern Rights party in the Seventh District, and we hope they will be weighed by our brethren in the other Districts and if approved of by them, immediate steps will be taken for a thorough organization to secure the election of Representatives in the Southern instead of the Northern Congress.

We have not learned what position will be occupied by the Hon. Burton Craige, and without consulting him or his immediate personal friends, we suggest him as the suitable Representative for this District in the Southern Congress. But should he decline, which we hope will not be the case if the people invite him to serve them another can easily be found well qualified, in every respect, to become the standard bearer of the Southern Rights party of the Seventh Congressional District.

We solicit a free and full expression of opinion on this subject, through our columns, by the Southern Rights men of the District.—Charlotte Bulletin.

Let the conservative men of the 7th Congressional District profit by the suggestions contained in the above article. Of course they do not design voting for any man who professes going to the congress of the Southern Confederacy, because such a representative would likely do them more harm than good. If Mr. Craige intends to be a candidate, we presume he will distinctly announce himself as for the Montgomery Congress. He is a Southern Confederacy man, and of course would not accept a re-election to his old seat in the United States Congress, for the reason that he could not conscientiously hold it.

We nominate H. W. Guion, Esq., of Lincolnton, as the candidate of the conservative men of the 7th District. He has been the first choice of a large portion of our people for several years, and we know of no one who would command a more hearty support.

The Battle has Begun!

FORT SUMTER ASSAULTED!!

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 12, 1861, 5 o'clock, P. M.

Editor Bulletin:

The bombardment of Fort Sumter commenced this morning at 4:30.

The Iron Battery on Cummings' Point and the Floating Battery, placed in position on Wednesday, are doing admirable service.

Shells are pouring into Fort Sumter.

As far as heard from, no lives have yet been reported as lost.—Courier.

The annexed dispatch is from a private source addressed to a gentleman in Charlotte, who has kindly placed it at our disposal:

CHARLESTON, April 12—6 p. m.

Brisk firing progressing on both sides.

No breach yet made in Sumter's walls.

All our Batteries are doing well.

No report of killed or wounded yet received.

STILL LATER.

CHARLESTON, April 12—10:45 p. m.

Editor Bulletin:—The firing commenced about 4 o'clock this morning and was continued throughout the day. State troops acted nobly, and but two men slightly wounded.

The fire will be renewed at daylight to-morrow, unless an attempt is made to reinforce, when all the batteries will open on the enemy. Sumter much injured—actual extent unknown. The Pawnee, Harriet Lane and a third steamer are off the bar. Troops are arriving daily. Our soldiers expect hot work to-morrow.

WM. LADDER.

GREAT SHAM FIGHT

Between the Troops of State Land and the great Rail Splitter!!!

NOBODY KILLED!!!!

The following message from the Bulletin of a most extraordinarily hostile interest this appalling fracas at Charleston will take every body by surprise. After the policy assumed on each side, we had supposed that no fighting was to be begun on either side, but that Fort Sumter, in particular, would be surrendered. The Confederate President, especially, had given out that he would not "begin the fray," and yet, we find he did begin it, and that without any more cause or provocation. They may have this great performance who list. We did not like it as it stood, nor as it stands.

War News from Charleston.

CHARLESTON, April 13—midnight.

Editor Charlotte Bulletin:

All last night the mortar batteries continued throwing shell into Fort Sumter, and this, P. M., the gun batteries re-opened fire to which Anderson replied vigorously at 7 o'clock.

At 9 o'clock, P. M., smoke was seen issuing from the parapet roof of Sumpter's Barracks, not on fire by hot shot or shells. During the five hours explosions of combustibles occurred in the Fort. About 1 o'clock the U. S. flag-staff was shot away. Wigfall approached from Morris' Island, with a white flag, entered and stated he was aid of Beauregard—that moving his (Anderson's) distress, he claimed in the name of his chief a surrender.

In reply to the inquiry—"what terms would be granted?" he stated that Beauregard was a soldier and a gentleman and knew how to treat a gallant enemy. But Anderson could not make his own terms and must leave details to Beauregard. Anderson agreed to surrender to Beauregard in the of the Confederate States, and hauled down the flag which he had again lifted accompanied by a white flag. The batteries then ceased firing and Wigfall reported to Beauregard.

The following are the terms of capitulation:

All proper facilities will be afforded for the removal of Anderson and his command with their company arms, company property and private property. The flag which he has upheld so long under the most trying circumstances may be saluted by him on hauling it down.

Maj. Anderson will be allowed to fix the hour of his surrender on Sunday. He proceeding into Fort Sumter to the fleet now lying off the bar.

A detachment of the regular Army from Sullivans Island will be transferred to Fort Sumter.

No one has been killed or wounded on our side. A few of the garrison at Fort Sumter were slightly wounded.

FROM MORRIS' ISLAND.

This evening a boat was sent in from the fleet of war vessels off the bar, which was brought to by a shot from the batteries. The boat contained Lieut. Maroey, of the Powhatan, bearing a flag of truce announcing a cessation of hostilities until morning.

It is rumored that Lieut. Maroey demands that Anderson and his men be allowed to join the fleet.

The following vessels are now lying off the bar: Baltic, Illinois, Powhattan, Harriet Lane and Pawnee.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, April 14.

Ed. Bulletin:

Lincoln will to-morrow issue a proclamation calling forth the militia, aggregate 75,000 men, in order to suppress the combinations of the seceded States and to cause the laws to be duly enforced. The first service will probably be to repossess the forts, places and property, which have been seized from the Union.

The proclamation also convenes Congress on the 4th July. The War Department is very busy to-day in preparations. The details have been communicated to the several State authorities. An additional number of Federal troops arrived to-day by special trains.

W. E. J.

THE WAR HAS COMMENCED.

In our news department will be found a telegraphic dispatch from Charleston, S. C., for which we are indebted to the Editors of the Charleston Courier, conveying the gratifying intelligence that the war in defence of Southern Rights, Southern Institutions and our homes and firesides, has at last begun in good earnest.—Charlotte Bulletin.

"Gratifying Intelligence!" It is then, "gratifying intelligence" to the secessionists to see civil war in our country—the most terrible form of war known to the human race. War, in which brother against brother, father against son, and neighbor against neighbor, are brought to meet each other in deadly strife! What think ye, christian people, of this "gratifying intelligence!"

MASS MEETING

On Saturday, 4th May.

The Union men of Rowan are requested to attend a Mass Meeting at Murphy's Hall, in Salisbury, on the first Saturday in May. SEVERAL UNION MEN.

April 15, 1861.

THE GREAT DRAWBACK to persons emigrating to the extreme south and western country, is the fear they have of the Fever and Ague—the most direful of all diseases. Every day we hear of persons attacked by this disease, and made helpless in a short time, without any means of affording relief. In view of the great demand for a remedy Dr. Hostetter has presented his CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, whose curative powers for all diseases of the stomach have been universally acknowledged. The Bitters, prepared after a long experience and deep study, have received the commendation of the most eminent physicians, as well as all classes from every part of our country. To those who doubt their many virtues, all we can say is to try them, and judge for themselves respectively.

Sold by druggists and dealers generally everywhere.

THE FIRST NUMBER of this new Literary Candidate for popular favor, will be issued in June. The Societies of Trinity College are determined to furnish the public a Magazine of real ability and refined Literature; they intend that the execution, both mental and mechanical, shall compare favorably with the best works of a similar character.

The rank of Trinity College among the Institutions of the South, the zeal and culture to be found in her halls, and the spirited spirit of the Old North State, will reasonably support our claim to a representation in the LITERATURE OF THE DAY.

The utility of such a work, if properly conducted, cannot be questioned. A monthly publication of fine thought, clothed in the forms of refined and elegant speech, will do much to elevate the taste of society—can increase the appreciation and love of the FINE ARTS, and so promote our advancing civilization.

We think we can profit our Literary Societies, and do some good for the public. Influenced by these considerations, the two
