

FROM SUFFOLK.

(Correspondence of the Petersburg Express)

Suffolk, Va., July 5, 1861.

Dear Express:—Last night we had a heavy fall of rain, and this morning the air is cool and refreshing.

There is nothing new or exciting about town to day. I learn that measles are rapidly spreading in the city and the

Some of the companies below, were seen yesterday making their way around Suffolk and aiming for Petersburg.

Two men, supposed to be deserters from some of the companies below, were seen yesterday making their way around Suffolk and aiming for Petersburg.

This is like almost every other community in the South. There is a constant threat in the public mind for something new.

Clearly Done.—Our readers (says the N. C. Bulletin) will remember that a few days ago the schooner Hope from Swatow, was captured off the bar by the U. S. man-of-war Brooklyn.

One Indian, One Kentucky—One Indian, Two Ohio.—The sight of a company of hardy Kentuckians, on the Capitol Square last Wednesday evening, brought to my mind an incident of the war of 1812.

A Succession.—A merchant, writing from Gordonsville, Va., makes the following suggestion: that "all the Southern country merchants send in their orders at once to the city wholesale merchants.

The real traitors who are responsible for the disruption of the American Union

The real traitors who are responsible for the disruption of the American Union are those who have sold their souls for a few dollars.

Incapacity of Queen Victoria.—The Gazette de France says that Dr. Steinhilber has been sent for to London to attend to a consultation of French and German physicians on the state of the Queen's health.

It would seem that the old ladies of the North are to be compelled to contribute the funds that Lincoln finds necessary to carry on his raid against the South.

Mr. T. F. CHRISTMAN, of Salem, N. C., has invented a gun which throws 144 balls at a fire, and 1,000 in a minute.

After a severe drought of several weeks, almost destroying our gardens, though doing but small injury to the growing crop of corn.

Anti-Suffragist for Intermittent Fever.—Substitute for Quinine.—Dr. D. B. Phillips, late of the United States Navy, now of the Confederate States Navy, says:

Daily Papers.—M. A. Smith, Postmaster at this place, has arrangements for receiving extra copies of the Richmond Dispatch and Examiner, Petersburg Express and Charlotte Bulletin.

A Field for Ladies.—The ladies of Columbia, S. C., have organized for the purpose of collecting and forwarding supplies for the sick rooms of the volunteers in Virginia.

There ought also, to be a number of female nurses accompany each of our Regiments. One woman is worth a dozen men for the sick room.

Not with us.—That man at Raleigh who refused either to lend, hire or sell the State a rolling mill for the purpose of preparing copper for percussion caps.

Brilliant Feat of the Floridians.—The schooner Penny Bessie and Three Brothers, of New Orleans, and the Olive Branch of Mobile, all recently captured by Lincoln's cruisers.

Capt. H. C. JONES, Jr., who has been busily engaged in this county, for two or three weeks, raising a Company for the war, will leave to-morrow with 35 men.

A Southern Flag on the Alleghany Mountains.—A beautiful Southern flag was raised in the vicinity of the Alleghany Springs a few days since.

A Scare.—Says the Louisville Courier, of the 28th ult: Lincoln's troops at Evansville were frightened almost out of their wits.

The Telegraph was on the York River Railroad (says the Richmond Examiner) will be put up and the line in operation by the 10th of this month.

Quinine.—See the letter of Morris E. Lewis Esq. of Baseaux, for a rich account of his old party quarrel about Raleigh.

FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

Richmond, July 3.

Passengers from Fredericksburg report that the cargo of ice recently captured was sold for $4000. Also, that heavy firing was heard on Tuesday, about Mathias Point.

Passengers from Manassas and the neighborhood of Winchester report that the Confederates, under Johnson, repulsed Patterson and Cadwallader's columns three times.

Passengers just arrived from Winchester per Central Railroad, contradict previous reports of Patterson's retreat across the Potomac.

By order of Abe Lincoln, the Congress of the late United States assembled here to-day. The Senate organized, Emerson Etheridge, a traitor from Tennessee, was rewarded with the Clerkship.

The Hon. John C. Breckinridge and Lorenzo Powell, of Ky.; James Falk, of Mo.; the disabled agent, A. Lee Johnson, of Tenn.; and Messrs. Kennedy and Brown, of Md., were all in the room recently vacated by the fifty-heading address who were quartered in the Senate Chamber.

Wilson, of Mass., will introduce a bill to-morrow, to confirm all the unconstitutional acts of his baloon master A. A. Lincoln.

The venerable Ashbury Dickens finding that the gentlemen who once occupied the Senate Chamber were all absent, resigned the Secretaryship.

One hundred and fifty members answered to their names. Colfax, of Indiana, withdrew his name from the Speakership list.

The second ballot resulted as follows: Groves, 98, Blair, 11, Crittenden, 12.

The New York World publishes a letter from Fort Pickens, confirming the capture of the English barque Ena, with ribbed cannon for the Confederates.

The Sun confirms the occupation of Baltimore, and the seizure of the Board of Police Commissioners; General Banks states in a proclamation that he receives orders to do so from Washington.

Agas, the Washington correspondent of the Sun, says that between fifty and one hundred thousand troops are in the neighborhood of Washington.

Joseph Ledley, an eminent chemist, formerly a druggist, had his head and arms awfully mangled to-day, by the explosion of a lot of fulminating powder in a percussion cap manufactory in this city.
