no ear to hear the touching words save His who teaches us in the text the duty of the christian—"to visit the fatherless and the widows in their affliction." Come then and let us consider this duty. This word visit is to be taken in its full meaning. It is your duty to visit the afflicted. You must visit them though they do not belong to your social circle. Too frequently are personal considerations and social distinctions adopted as your guide to the total violation or disregard of the word of God. If a family that is numbered among those with whom you interchange the civilities and favors of social life, be afflicted, you are very prompt and lavish in your sympathies and attentions; but if a poor obscure family be bereaved or distressed, the idea does not occur to you that you should visit them. Hence generally where your sympathies and liberality are most needed they are never known. I insist upon this duty of visiting. Your very presence will bestow much of life and solace and cheer. It will tell them that there is kindness and friendship for them still in the world. It will impart relief and blessing to them that nothing else can purchase while it will give a new value to whatever else you may give or do to relieve and console them.—You must also show to them that you bring with you a true christian's heart.—Evince a kindly interest in them. It is hard sometimes to bear the burden of our griefs when many faithful friends are helping us, but to be alone in one's sorrows—to be friendless in the hour of woe, is too much to ask of any human heart. It is not always easy to feel as you should for the afflicted. You must hear the tale of their sorrows—and hear it in the shadows of the home that is made desolate by the hand of the destroyer. You must calmly, seriously consider the touching rehearsal. Fancy yourself that heartbroken widow—that pale cheeked daughter, and fancy those helpless orphans your children or your poor friendless brothers and sisters. Ask yourself if that were your home what you would expect and desire in the night of your tears from those who lived near you and were more fortunate. Thus you may learn to feel for them and with them.—And as you listen and sympathise the angel of mercy says to your heart in a language that is felt and obeyed "weep with those who weep"—and the tears which wash your cheek are sweet to your own spirit—are a balm and blessing to your sorrowing sister and are gems of beauty and piety to the Eye that never slumbers—the Eye of Him who hath said "Blessed are the merciful for they shall obtain mercy."

But you must prove your sympathy by your words. Tell them that though they are unfortunate—they are not and shall not be forsaken. Speak words of consolation to them—such as their circumstances may suggest—and give them encouragement—give them hope. When the current of hope and joy is congealed by the pangs of misfortunes and woe, kind words fall upon the heart like sunbeams on the icebound brook—tender words melt it—cheering words give it life and motion and song once more. Such words may be unwritten on earth but they live in the heart they have blessed and are treasured in Heaven. They may not be heard by any mortal ear save that on which they fell as angel music, but they are caught and loved by the hearts of the holy in the Land of the Immortal and we shall one day learn that such words are what Heaven calls Eloquence.

But your Sympathy must be further proved by gifts suited to the wants of the afflicted. It should be your generous purpose to discover their wants without harshness or violence to their feelings. You must not expect them to ask you for your charities. Nor should you conclude that because they do not ask you they do not need. It is a very difficult task for those who have never known want, to ask alms of a friend. Some will weep bitterly in private first—some will suffer long and keenly first. If you will show sympathy, speak kindly and thus open their hearts—they will let you know their necessities. If you desire to relieve them—a few questions will give you all the knowledge you need. There'll be no difficulty this winter in finding worthy objects of your pity and generosity. You must not fail to give because you cannot give as much as others. Give what you can—do what you can—God demands it—your religion promises it. Cast about you! See if there be not something you can bestow in charity. Have you no clothing for the poor? Can you not spare some of your children's garments for the orphan children that will be compelled to expose themselves during the severities of the cold season? Can you give no shoes—not even old shoes?—you know it is impossible for them to buy them. Can you not furnish the widow with a load of wood? Can you not now and then fill the basket at the market or contribute something from your own bountiful table? Think faithfully and kindly! Is there nothing you can spare? Remember that he who giveth to the poor leadeth to the Lord! God will pay you for your christian charities. Oh, may He touch your hearts and though the afflictions which are now bleeding the hearts of our people may He prompt you in mercy to visit as an angel of sympathy the hapless and distressed who are around you! May he stimulate each one to do what he can, be it ever so little—for then much suffering will be relieved—much prevented. Remember—this is the test of your religion, but believe me merely but before God! If we are not more merciful what will become of us! I fear that many will forfeit God's mercy and be damned forever with the unhearted extortioners and distillers who are ruining our enemies by ruining our friends—who are making themselves devils by feasting on the murder of the hopes and hearts of the innocent and helpless.

ROWAN WAY-SIDE HOSPITAL.

The number of sick and wounded soldiers who have stopped at this Hospital for the month ending on the 14th instant, has been 187, from the following Counties, to wit:

One from Louisiana, five from South Carolina, one from Virginia, and one from Major White's battalion.

Donations in money, to the amount $89 50, have been contributed by persons in the following Counties, viz:

Caldwell.—Gen. Patterson $10.00.

Catawba.—S. h of Children of Newton, proceeds of Tableaux 24 00

Rowan.—A. Clark $5; Tobias Brown $2; Joseph R. Todd $2; John Barger $2; Mrs. E. Long 50 cts; Mrs. F. Owens $1; Mrs E. Anderson 50 cts; C. Smith $3; Jesse Lyerly $2; Daniel Menus $1; M. A. Bost $1; Thomas Todd $2; T. W. Haynes $10; Mrs. William R. Wilson $10; Mrs. John D. Brown $5; David Lentz $2 and W. A. Lentz 50cts;— 49 50

Miss Mary McCoy, of Maryland; 5 00

Besides this amount in money, the Chairman gratefully acknowledges the receipt of the following donations in provisions &c.

Aid Society of Catawba.—Two bed comforts.

Rowan.—Rev. S. Scherer 50 lbs flour; Mr. Ratts one bushel meal; Mrs. Jacob Brown one bushel beans; Mrs. L. C. Haynes 3 bottles blackberry wine, one blanket and lot of red pepper; Benjamin F. Fraley one load wood; D. A. Davis one load wood; Martin Eschwine one load wood; Dr. Litteton W. Coleman two loads wood; Rowan Slater dozen boxes matches; David Peeler half bushel Irish potatoes; David Barringer 5 lbs butter, bushel Irish potatoes and lot of cabbages.

From the foregoing reports, it will be seen that the arrival of sick and wounded soldiers has been much larger than any previous month, and it requires a larger outlay to minister to the comfort and necessities of these brave but unfortunate men, but it is hoped that the contributions from citizens in the different Counties will continue to keep this Hospital in successful operation. Let us not "falter in a work which appeals alike to our humanity and to our patriotism and in which those who are dearest to us have so deep an interest."

The Hospital is in great need of bed clothes, and it is hoped that the wants will be supplied with as little delay as possible.

Respectfully submitted.

J. C. SMYTH Chairman.

THE DRAFT IN THE NORTH.

The draft is causing considerable trouble in the North, and no progress is being made in its enforcement. The N. York Times, in an article on the subject, says:

Our military authorities are always getting ready to draft, but the draft never comes. First, one expedient to ward it off is tried; then, another. When the draft is ordered at last, the enrollment is not perfected, and one or two postponements on that account must be made. But in time, all obstacles are removed. The Government calls, the enrollment is finished, the day for drafting is fixed, bounties are proclaimed to be offered no longer. But at the eleventh hour another proclamation comes, opening the recruiting stations for volunteers for nine months men. All this whole precious time is lost, and the regiments in the field reduced to skeletons of one hundred men.

The Right Spirit.—Ma. A. McIntyre, a tanner of Chatham County in a note to us, says that he is perfectly willing to sell leather to his neighbors or to the Government at the prices paid by the Confederate Government, viz: $1 per pound for sole leather, $1.25 for harness leather, and $1.50 for upper leather.—Why cannot other tanners imitate his example? We have heard of a few other tanners who do not charge the exorbitant prices demanded by some, but we have not their names. The war must either be terminated quickly by our arms, or the speculators will end it in the ruin of the South in six months.—Ral. Standard.

THE LATEST NEWS.

Great Battle in Kentucky, and a great Confederate Victory.

We have had various telegraphic reports for some days, of a great battle in Kentucky, and it is now becoming settled that Gen Bragg has whipped Buell pretty badly. We copy the following dispatches on the subject, as reliable.

The following official dispatch was received yesterday afternoon:

KNOXVILLE, TENN. Oct. 16.

To Gen. S. COOPER:

A wounded officer arrived here this morning, says that the fight in Kentucky continued three days; the 7th, 8th and 9th Gen. Bragg was successful each day, capturing many guns and over ten thousand prisoners, killing and wounding many. I have heard of no General officers killed on our side. The Commanding officer at Cumberland Gap writes to day, that the reports are all very favourable, but vague. A telegram, just received from Gen. Forrest, says there is a strong rumour of the evacuation of Nashville. All the reports from Kentucky are still favourable. Nothing official from Gen. Bragg. (Signed) SAMUEL JONES.

Major General.

THE LATEST FROM KENTUCKY—NOTHING DIRECT FROM GENERAL BRAGG—YANKEE ACCOUNTS OF THE SITUATION.

CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 17.—The Rebel has the following dispatch from Lavergne, to-day:

All is uncertainty. I believe Yankees are leaving Nashville. In addition to the above, I am satisfied there is something on hand. Letters from Bragg's army say that Buell's army is the worst whipped and most badly cut up army of the war. There is no doubt but that we gained a glorious victory

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 17.—A special dispatch to the Advertiser and Register, from Senatobia says:

Dispatches dated the 12th, from Indianapolis to the Chicago Times, say that intense excitement prevails there, caused by dispatches from Gen. Bragg was in rear of Buell, marching on Louisville. He urges Gov Morton to send him reinforcements, as there were only two thousand troops in Louisville. The impression prevails at Louisville that Buell was badly whipped. The excitement in the city was intense. The Cincinnati Commercial of the 13th, claims a victory, but the dispatches are very conflicting

GLORIOUS NEWS.

Buel's Aarmy Routed Their Flight across the River. Bragg in hot Pursuit.

KNOXVILLE, Oct. 16

The fight in Kentucky has been confirmed by an arrival of two couriers, who state that the fight commenced at Perryville, in Boyle county, on Monday morning the 6th inst., Gen. Hardee commanding the left. Gen. Buckner the centre, and Gens. Marshall and Morgan the right.

The result of the first day's fight, was, Hardee captured 1,500 prisoners with very heavy slaughter of the enemy.

On Wednesday the fight was renewed and attended with still greater slaughter of the enemy, Hardee capturing four thousand prisoners, Marshall and Morgan capturing thirty two hundred of the enemy, driving them back twelve miles with tremendous slaughter.

Our loss in the whole engagement was very small.

We are not posted to who were in command of the Yankee forces, except Gen. Thomas who encountered General Hardee.

We captured forty pieces of cannon.

SALTS.

I will continue as heretofore to give out salt to families of soldiers at my House in Salisbury every Tuesday; and hereafter I will also give out at my mill, 2½ miles from Salisbury, on Brinkle's Ferry road every Wednesday. As there seems to be some misunderstanding about the time of drawing, I will state that we have got in all but three lots of salt, and when a lot comes, we make a calculation and see how much it will give to each member of the soldiers families, and when every family makes this draw, they have drawn their share out of that lot; therefore, all the old volunteers that went into the service before the May Court, and have had three draws, have drawn all until we can get more for them, and the new volunteers and Conscripts that went in about July that have drawn two lots have had all until I can get again. I hope to be able to get a large supply by the time to salt pork. Present price $5, per bushel J. S. McCUBBINS.
