Remedy for Hog Cholera.

The hog cholers, we regret to learn, is aking great ravages in some parties of corgin, and it is of vast importants to find a remedy. A friend tells us, (says the exchange) the following has been thoroughly tested in the region of the Altamelia river, are found to be an infaillible cific for, as well as a preventive against this disease.

Wet some shelled corn in a basket with turnentine, and throw a handful of the corn to each hog every two or three days for two or three times. Do not sonk the corn in the spirits - simply wet it and it will immediately dry again, but leave the corn impregnated with the THE RESERVE OF THE STREET WAS AN ADDRESS OF THE STREET

We will the think in the country and hogs are dying rapidly. We have inquired for the best remedy recommended:

Boil corn in ley and feed it to your bogs, or keep ashes in the trough or lot wherever you feed them, and shell corn on it.—
This is said to be a certain preventive and nearly always cures.

Another farmer recommends that pine tope be either kept in the slop or boiled with meal and feed on that.

The remedies are worth trying and we hope to hear good results. - Western N. Carolinian.

To Due Cotton or Wool.

A lady friend sends us the following repe for dyeing cotton or wool brown :

Take the bark of the root of a common wild plum-boil in iron or brass, as most ient until the dye looks almost black. Strain, and add a small quantity of copperss dissolved in a small quantity of the dye. Add the article to be dyed.— Boil an hour or so. Wring out, and dip in strong cold lev. When dry, rinse in cold water. / This gives a genuine, bright brown which is the prettiest contrast for blue; and when checked in together, it makes a dress becoming enough for the proudest Southern dame or belle. Ladies, try it." Western North Ourolinian.

Dog Skin Leather.

A gentleman of this city, of known public spirit; has shown us a pair of shoes made of dog leather, prepared under his direction, which, to all appearance in softness and strength, is equal to calf skin. The sumstance was brouget to our notice for the purpose of drawing public attention to a new source from which leather may be obtained, while at the same time the wool culture may be advanced; for it is an established fact in husbandry, that as the number of dogs is diminished, will the quantity of sheep be increased, furnishing rich staple to clothe our soldiers in winter, and mutton at all seasons for our ta bles. An ordinary dog skin by careful shoes, worth at present prices, not less to Nashville. han five dollars per pair, and in some tistances, double the sum. Without any particular malice against the canine race, re venture to suggest that at least half the dogs now in Georgia can be spared by housekeepers and sportsmen, and their skins made to subserve a valuable purpose. On this scale, a very liberal supply of leather may be had for men, women and children substantial and pleasant in the use .- Milledgeville Southern Recorder.

Chinese Sugar Cane.

. We urged last spring the cultivation of this cane extensively in this State. Many of our people in the upper counties espe-cially, heeded this advice, and the result is cially, heeded this advice, and the result is quite a large quantity of excellent syrup has been made in some sections. There is every probability that sugar and molasses will be many times scarcer this year than last. We therefore urge upon our country readers thus early, the necessity of making preparations for a much larger crop this year. We presume that seed can be obtained in sufficent quantities for example use. Parsons having seed for sale general use. Persons having seed for sale should sell on moderate terms, and ad vertise the people where they can be bought.-Raleigh Stundard.

Habeas Corpus Case

General James Hickman was recently arrested in Huntsville, Ala, by order of Gen. Bragg. The case was brought be fore Judge Scruggs, on a writ of habeas corpus, and the prisoner was discharged, on the ground that the military have no bt to arrest and try citzens, but connected with the army, by military courts.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

We understand that Major Reid Saunders, contrary to advice, purchased a small yacht and left Charleston in it—and that he had a crew who betrayed him.

As soon as he got out of port, the crew tied in and steered for the fleet, and delivered him up to the Yahkees. This accounts for his dispatches not being destroyed.—South Curolinian.

Liquid Blacking.—Mix a quarter of a cound of ivory black, six gills of vinegar, table spoopful of sweet oil, and two large sponfuls of molasses; stir the whole well together, and it will then be fit for A Test for Extentioners.—Who are exten-tioners, has been a question difficult to unswer. The proper test has been at last discovered.— One of Georgia's, brightest jewels, who has scaled his devotion to his country by his blood, said, in a private conversation: "The man who is richer at the end of this war thus at the beginning, is an extertioner." This is the true test. Every true patriot will give his talents and money to the cause of Southern independence. This is no time for making money, especially when it is made by speculating upon the necessaries of the people; and that is the only manner is which it can be done now. Athens Watchman.

Yes, this is a true test. God have mercy on the man who grows rich, or richer, during this war! If he escapes hell, it will be by the skin of his teeth — Wadesboreugh Argus.

ments are moth-eaten.

Your gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. Ye have heaped treasure together for the last days.

The truest test by which to know, either now or hereafter, an enemy of the South is this: He labored to bring on the war, but kept out of it himself. He arged his neighbors and his neighbor's children to go, but he remained, to speculate on the necessities of those whom they left behind. To divert attention from himself, and hide his own shame, he charged those of his neighbors who did not agree with him in political opinion, with being traitors, and en-deavored to deprive them of their liberty by martial law, test oaths, and gag laws. He prospered while his country suffered, and, when the war closed, he was rich, but universally despised.-Ral, Standard.

Joseph E. Johnston no General. - It is painful to have one's confidence in the character or abilities of a distinguished man rudely shaken, or to find one's cherished convictions, delusions though they were, dissipated. But the logic of facts is mexorable, and by that logic we are forced to conclude that the public and ourselves have been deceived in believing tien. Joseph E. Johnston a great Gen- DAY of February Court for fredell County. eral. For see, Gen. Joseph E. Johnston and his staff came down on the train from Maridian this morning, but instead of taking exclusive possession of the ladies' car, stationing sentinels at the entrances, and crowding the passengers men, women and children, civilians and soldiers into box, platform, or any other sorts of cars—as Generals less in rank than he have done—he quietly took his seat in the buggage car, continued in it to Mobile, and-worse than all-even looked after his own baggage when he arrived at the city station, like any common mortal. There, good reader, is it not conclusively shown that Gen. Jeseph E. Johnston is no General? Mobile News.
