Goldsmoro', July 23d, 1863.
MR. BRUNER: Our combsent is again breath-ing freely and the people engaging in their reg-ular business. The raiders have found it an easy and profitable undertaking to get out of Newbern, but exceedingly difficult and hazard-ous to get back. Many negroes have been re-captured from them and are expected here—to be returned to their masters. The Yankees themselves have suffered severely—to what ex-tent has not yet transpired. They were cut off in every direction—by the faithful efforts of citizens and soldiers. I never saw a communi-ty more determined, yet more cool than this was, when we expected that they might return by this route on Tuesday night. The oldest citizens we have, were out with their muskets—one of the oldest complaining lastly yester-day that he was not called upon—and fresh rumors arriving yesterday, I saw him walking bravely down street with his gun in hand, hur-rying to the rendezvous. Their conduct was very brave in their raid on Rocky Mount and Rocky Tarboro'—stealing money—breaking into show-cases, taking horses, &c. I saw a gen-tleman from Tarboro', who was met by them while trying to escape. They took his horses and carriage and turned him loose. When ac-cused so meekly, they would say, "I know this is hard, but your troops did so in Pennsylvania,"—which, you know, is false—so far as our Generals could restrain. Amid their "scoundrel-ism," they sometimes show a tinge of re-maining humanity, as in the case of a gentle-man near Kernansville, whose daughter was re-leased. He met them in the yard and asked them not to go in on that account and they re-spected his request. The people generally have resolved to stay at home and snip them back when they give us a call. This, I think, many others ought to have done—for many of the refugees have found it a questionable sacri-fice in leaving their homes. Your neighbor, Dr. J. F. Ford, acted nobly in sending down 10 barrels of flour, some days since, to be dis-tributed to the poor refugees from Newbern. I notice the Doctor's munificent contributions to other worthy purposes—and am thankful when I see such a man prospering in business. The frequent and heavy rains have inundated large portions of the rich low grounds in this section of the State. One of the heaviest rains since the flood fell here last Saturday. Your humble servant was caught down street and found his way, (on trying to return) won-derfully blocked by the almost unprecedented pond which flooded the streets. Notwithstanding the troubles and losses and threats from Yan-kees and overflows, however, the people seem to be reviving from their Vicksburg gloom and meeting their severe fortune firmly and cheer-fully. There is sadness though in some because of the disheartening tendency of certain of the Raleigh papers. One of them if not both, seems to herald with delight everything that is depressing to us. They are certainly losing in-fluence and popularity in consequence. By the blessing of Heaven, we expect to be free. There is so much love of money, so much wearing, so much recklessness and various wickedness in the land, that we think they will greatly postpone the day of the merciful inter-cession of God in calving this strife and giving us peace—but to that day, however distant, we look with the hope and resolve which our rights and God's promises to us should inspire.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE ARMY.
SOMETHING FOR OUR OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS TO STUDY.
Gen Washington on the vices of the Camp—The value of the Christian Religion.
The following extracts are compiled from Sparks' and Irving's biographies. It may be hoped that any officer or private in our Confederate armies, who has any regard for the memory of the "Father of his Country," will pay some reverence to these solemn expressions of his sentiments. The second paragraph on profane swear-ing, and the closing one of these quota-tions, deserve to be especially pondered by our military men:

DIVINE WORSHIP.
"As a chaplain is allowed to every reg-iment, see that the men regularly attend divine worship."
Instructions to Brig. General, May 26th, 1777.—"While he was investing Boston, Washington had prayers morning and evening, and was regular in his at-tendance at the church, of which he was a communicant. On one occasion, for want of a clergyman, the Episcopal service was read by Col. Wm. Zalfrey, one of Wash-ington's aides-de-camp, who substituted a prayer of his own composing in place of the one formerly offered up for the king."

GAMBLING.
Early in the war (20th Feb.) in general orders, all playing at cards and other games of chance was prohibited.
And May 26, 1777, (Instructions to Brigadier Generals) he says: "Gambling of every kind is expressly forbidden as the foundation of evil and the cause of the ruin of many a brave and gallant officer."

PROFANITY.
In general orders (contained in his or-derly book) to the commander at Camp-bird, "Col. Washington has observed that the men of his regiment are very profane and irreprobate. He takes this opportu-nity to inform them of his greatest displeas-ure at such practices, and to assure them that if they do not leave them off they shall be severely punished. The officers are desired, if they hear any man swear or make use of an oath or execration, to order the offender to lash himself immediately, with-out court martial. For the second offence he is to be more severely punished."
Again orderly book, Aug. 4, 1776. "The General is sorry to be informed that the foolish and wicked practice of profane swearing—a vice heretofore little known in an American army—is growing into fashion. He hopes the officers will, by ex-ample and influence, endeavor to check it, and both they and the men will reflect that we can have little hope of the blessing of Heaven on our arms if we insult it by impiety and folly. Added to this, it is a vice so mean and low, without any tem-pation, that every man of sense and char-acter detests and despises it."

VICE IN GENERAL.
Instructions to Brigadier General, May, 1777.—"Let vice and immorality of ev-ery kind be discouraged as much as pos-sible in your Brigade."
At a previous date he wrote: "At this time of public distress men may find enough in the service of God and their country, without abandoning themselves to vice and immorality. It is a noble cause we are engaged in; it is the cause of vir-tue and mankind; every advantage and comfort to us and our posterity depends upon the vigor of our exertions; in short, freedom or slavery must be the result of our conduct; there can, therefore, be no greater inducement to men to behave well."

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.
The Yankee Raid in N. C.
Richmond, July 22.—The Petersburg Ex-press gives an account of the Yankee raid in the State. The gang numbered from four to six hundred, and came from Washington. At Rocky Mount they burned the depot, five thousand bales of cotton, a large cotton factory owned by Wm. S. Battle, and captured a train on the Tarboro' branch of the Washington road, containing two carloads of ammunition, and thirty thousand pounds of bacon, and destroyed the bridge over Tar river, a short distance from Rocky Mount. The track was torn up for a mile or two.

From Charleston—Great Slaughter of Yankees.
Richmond, July 22.—An official dispatch from Gen. Beauregard, dated the 22d says: "The enemy re-commenced shelling yester-day, with few casualties on our side. In the battle of the 18th we had 150 killed and wounded. The enemy including prisoners, lost about 2,000, eight hundred were buried under a flag of truce."
Col. Putnam, acting Brigadier, and Col. Shaw, commanding the negro regiment, were killed.

The Yankee Raid in N. C.
Goldsmoro', July 22.—Details of the Yan-kee depredations, commencing last Monday at Rocky Mount, come in slowly and confusedly. While 300 of their cavalry proceeded to Rocky Mount, 200 remained to depredate around Tarboro'. These latter were attacked, whipped and routed on Monday evening by three companies of our cavalry numbering about one hundred men, Maj. Kennedy com-manding, near Daniel's Schothouse, two and a-half miles from Tarboro', south of Tar River. They left six dead and fifteen wounded on the field, eight dead horses, besides forty horses and accoutrements were captured by our boys. Our loss was three wounded, among whom was Capt. Thompson. A ball passed through his right wrist. He arrived in town this morning. The Yankees it is said have carried off about five hundred negroes, besides horses and other property. They camped last night at Grimes' Meeting house, three and a half miles from Snow Hill. The bridges, we learn, have been burnt. Col. Claiborne and others are on their track. All sorts of rumors as to their whereabouts are afloat. Nothing definite outside of military circles.

GOOD NEWS FROM SOUTHWEST-ERN VIRGINIA.
LYNCHBURG, July 21.—Passengers by the Tennessee train report that the Wytheville Yankee raiders were captured on Monday, at East River Mountain, Mercer county, by the command of Colonel McCausland. A number of negroes and horses, captured by the Yan-kees, were recaptured. About twenty horses were burned in Wytheville, among them the office of the dispatch newspaper, with materi-al, fixtures, &c.
DESTRUCTION OF A YANKEE GUN-BOAT BY A TORPEDO.
A telegram from Commander L. N. Brown was received at the Navy Department yester-day, announcing the destruction of the Yankee gunboat DeKalb, in the Yazoo river, means of a torpedo. The DeKalb carried thirteen guns. No particulars were communique in the dis-patch.

Dispatches from Paris, received in Vienna on the 2d of July, state that Napoleon had "irre-vo-cably" determined to recognize the rebel confederacy, even without the cooperation of England. An invitation will be made to the Cabinet in Washington to agree to an armistice. This will be in such a "decisive form" that it must be either rejected or accepted. If re-jected, the recognition, it is said, will follow. The Emperor, however, hopes that England would aid France, at least so far as to the proposal of the armistice.

State Educational Association OF NORTH CAROLINA.
The Annual Meeting of the State Educa-tional Association, of North Carolina, will be held in Lexington; the session to commence at eight o'clock on the evening of Tuesday the 18th day of August next.
This Annual Meeting is called at an earlier day in the year than usual, in order that it may precede the meeting of the National Educational Association to be held in Atlan-ta, Georgia, in the month of September; and it is to be hoped that the members of the body will consider it a duty to attend, if pos-sible.

The Association has, by the blessings of Providence, been kept alive during this try-ing crisis, and has been made a means of great good to the State; and through its agency teachers and friends of education can do much for the independence and prosperity of the country.
This class of persons should set an example of unflinching efforts in behalf of moral progress; and the accumulation of trials and difficulties should only stir them up to nobler strivings.
The delegates to the Association will be carried by the Rail Roads at half the usual fare, and will be entertained by the people of Lexington free of charge.
