FROM FORREST.

[We are indebted to the politeness of Lieutenant General Taylor for the copy of the following dispatch.—Eds. R. & A.]

CHEROKEE, Oct. 10.—Generals Roseau and Thomas are following me with about 12,000 men, and attempting to cross below here.

I have still 500 men on the North side of the river, who have gone to the hills. I think them safe.

Three gunboats and four transports came up the river to day, as far as Eastport, and landed 2,000 men and three pieces of artillery.

Lieut. Col. Kelley, with Forrest's old regiment and the 12th Tennessee, attacked and drove them back, capturing the three pieces of artillery and horses, and setting one transport on fire.

Washburne is reported in command of the river expedition.

I am moving my command to * * *
N. B. FORREST,
Major General.

FROM THE NORTH.

RICHMOND, Oct. 17.—The Richmond Whig has received the New York Herald of the 15th inst., which says that the returns which were received last night continue to show democratic gains in Pennsylvania, which show a majority of 5000.

The returns from Ohio show a democratic gain for Congressmen, over the first report—Ashley, in the 10th, and Deland, in the 13th districts, both republicans, were defeated. The democrats elected fifty out of twelve districts.

Maryland gives 3,000 home majority against the constitution.

The Herald says that Mosby got over $200,000 in greenbacks at Duffields Station.

The Herald also thinks that the steamer Roanoke has been captured by the Alabama and Chesapeake, now commanded by one of Jeff Davis' naval officers.

There is nothing from Sherman or Sheridan.

Price is at Boonsville, Mo., with a portion of his force.

Price made a speech at Boonsville, stating he came to redeem the people, and the just is now being made in their behalf. If they would rally to his standard all would be well, and he could remain with them, if not, the Confederacy would not again offer them opportunities of redemption from their woe.

MOBILE, Oct. 17.—A special dispatch to the Register, via Senatobia 16th, says the St. Louis Republican of the 11th & 12th, says Price retired without attacking Jefferson City, and went westward to the neighborhood of Boonsville. Two thousand of his men crossed the Missouri river, and supposed to operate on Marshall and Joseph's railroad. Price was making a clean sweep of the Pacific road, burning splendid bridges over Lamoine river. Also two bridges east of California. The invasion is by a formidable force, estimated at 15 to 25,000. The condition of affairs is considerably worse for the Federals than at any time since the beginning of the war. The same papers are advising the abandonment of Arkansas to save Missouri. Sanborn is skirmishing with Price's rear. The Confederates are reported clad in new clothes—abandoning worn out horses for new ones—men and horses loaded with plunder. Railroad trains and bridges burnt near California.

He has torn up some fifteen miles of the road from Resaca north, but the injury will be repaired without difficulty. The interruption will cause no inconvenience to Sherman's army as stores and supplies south of the break, as well as north are ample. Hood retreated towards the South-west, his rear left Dalton in haste Sunday morning.

If the people deliberately decide to have immediate peace, even at the loss of their country and their liberties, he knew not the power, nor the right to resist them. A Thoroughly Yankee Calculation.—A writer in the Jefferson County (New York) Union, who has been making calculations relative to the number of men killed thus far in this war, gives the following results: "There have been enough already slain to encircle our State, if their dead bodies were laid in one continuous line. If they were placed in coffins and corded, they would count thirty-nine thousand cords.—If laid in a wall twenty-five feet thick and thirty feet high, it would be over a mile and a quarter in length. If five feet thick and ten feet high, the pile would reach across the State. If piled up in a ten acre lot, they would be nearly two hundred feet high. And if laid upon the ground, they would cover every foot of soil in Jefferson county. Seventy-five thousand tons of human blood have been spilled in Dixie's soil—enough to turn every spindle in Lowell, and if the tears were added to the flood, it would turn the machinery of the continent, and the unavailing sighs would fill every ocean sail. The one-half has not yet been told. The millions of wounded and maimed for life must be taken into account in summing up the grand total of evils incident to this bloody and fanatical war."

The following are the losses of the negro regiments in the assault on Petersburg: 23d regiment, colored—15 officers and 400 men killed, wounded and missing. 28th regiment, colored—11 officers and 150 men killed, wounded and missing. 31st regiment, colored—7 officers and 200 men killed, wounded and missing. 43d regiment, colored—6 officers and a large number of men killed, wounded and missing. 39th regiment, colored—several officers and 250 men killed, wounded and missing.—New York Paper.
