FENIAN NEWS.

Eastport, Me., April 14.—The British man-of-war Lyades went to sea very suddenly yesterday afternoon. It is said fifty of her crew mutinied, and were put in irons; hence the departure of the vessel. The men of the other English cruisers have been tampered with, and similar difficulties are expected. Yesterday a party of English soldiers crossed from St. Stephens to Calais, where they got into a dispute with some Fenians. A fight ensued, which resulted in their being driven back over the river which runs between the towns. No lives were lost. The citizens joined the Fenians in the fight. A steamer from Boston this morning brought about two hundred more Fenians. They are quartered in town.

THE DISEASE ON BOARD THE STEAMER ENGLAND.

New York, April 15.—The acting collector here has received a dispatch from the United States Consul at Halifax stating that the medical officer has reported one hundred and seventy deaths on board the steamer England, including the forty who died on the voyage from Liverpool. He reports that the disease is probably a severe form of ship fever, with many of the prominent symptoms of cholera. It amounts to a regular plague. The surviving passengers have been removed—some to Her Majesty's receiving ship Pyramus, and others to tents on shore. The disease is apparently decreasing.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

New York, April 15.—The steamship Saxonia, from Hamburg, via Southampton 4th inst., has arrived. The following is a summary of the GENERAL NEWS. The Times city article says the English funds had advanced in consequence of the less threatening character of the accounts from Germany, occupied with the rumor of mediation in the affairs of Austria and Prussia.

A Vienna letter says such arrangements have been made that Austria could mobilize 480,000 troops within a fortnight.

A Berlin telegram says it is believed that, in reply to a dispatch from the Austrian Ambassador, Prussia will state that she, also, has no intention of following an aggressive policy, but would desire an explanation respecting the movements of Austria.

Florence telegrams announce the formation of a camp of seventy thousand men at Bologna; that the principal generals of the Italian army are summoned to meet there; that an Italian squadron is forming to cruise in the Adriatic, and that military preparations are going on in Venice. On the contrary, a Paris letter denies the rumors of the Italian loan and armaments and also the rumor between Italy and Prussia. Shanghai advices of March 9th state that the Imperial troops gained a complete victory over the rebels in the north of China, and that fifty thousand of the latter had been slaughtered or captured.

The anticipation of war between Austria and Prussia has made a most unfavorable impression on commercial affairs throughout France. The apprehension is that, if these Powers go to war, France cannot, even if she would, maintain neutrality.

It is stated that the attempts to win over the minor German States to Prussia have entirely failed. The States will preserve an armed neutrality.

Telegrams from Vienna mention rumors of the peaceful solution of the Schleswig-Holstein question being prevalent and had produced a most favorable impression.

THE FENIANS.

The vanguard of the Fenian army at Eastport and their fleet in the harbour has fully aroused the New Brunswick authorities, and reinforcements of men and war vessels have been forwarded to the Bay of Fundy and St. Croix river for the defence of Compo, Belle Island, and also to watch the Fenian fleet in the harbour at Eastport; but despite the vigilance of the British vessels, who have established a sort of blockade, a Fenian ship having on board a large number of men managed to escape from the harbour for an unknown destination.

Numbers of American soldiers are joining the Fenian army, and the provincial volunteers are constantly deserting to enlist under the "Green."

The news is quite interesting. Below will be found the most important dispatches received:

First Dispatch.

Eastport, Maine, April 11.—Two large English ships-of-war are now here, with steam constantly up, port-holes open, and every appearance of being ready. There has been a mysterious disappearance of several cannon bought here by unknown parties. Carriages are being manufactured here. The Fenians are now in convention. Fifty Fenians have left in a schooner, destination unknown. A suspicious steamer, showing the American colors, has just passed in to St. Croix river. There are Fenians arriving continually. The British war steamer Rosamund has sailed for St. Andrews.

PERSONAL ITEMS.

Ex-Confederate Generals.—A correspondent of the Memphis Appeal, writing of New Orleans, says there is now in that city a wonderful aggregation of talent, quietly devoted to the interests of commerce that won high distinction on other fields. Not to mention any less prominent names, General Barogard is Superintendent of the Jackson Railroad; General Longstreet is with his old A. A. G., 37 Union street, in the commission business. Your correspondent had the honor and pleasure of an interview with both these gentlemen. They are both looking well, but I observed that General Longstreet used his left hand in writing and shaking hands, his right hand hanging helplessly by his side. Gen. Dick Taylor has leased the new canal running from the city to Lake Ponchartrain.—Gen. Backner is connected with the Daily Crescent, and is also in the commission business. General Hood, A. L. Stewart, Loring, Gardner, Blanchard and Jeff. Thompson are in the commission business; General Humphrey Marshall, Hays and Adams are there in the practice of law. We also had the pleasure of shaking the hand of Major-General D. H. Maury, who told me that he would leave the city in a few days for his turpentine plantation in Mississippi. Thus, these noble men are devoting themselves, with the dignity and energy of a monarch, arts of peace, in such manner as proves them still "the masters of their situations."

A Case Under the Civil Rights Bill.—An Important Decision to be Rendered. Lafayette, Ind., April 11.—A colored man named Barnes brought suit against a prominent citizen this morning to enforce a contract. The defendant, for answer, sets up that the negro came into the State in violation of the 13th article of the Constitution of the State of Indiana, which, under pains and penalties, prohibits negroes from coming into the State, and debars them from all rights to enforce contracts, etc.

The plaintiff demurs to the answer, maintaining that the thirteenth article is void of no effect, because: 1. It is in contravention of the letter and spirit of the Constitution of the United States. 2. It is in direct conflict with the constitutional amendment abolishing slavery. 3. It is void under the first section of the civil rights bill, which gives to all persons born in the United States full right to make and enforce contracts, any law, statute, ordinance, regulation or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.
