

Miscellaneous News.

From the Charleston Daily News.

RADICALISM AND AGRARIANISM.

Napoleon III, the profoundest statesman and most successful politician of our day and generation...

The contest between the North and the South has terminated in giving a final development to theory of blind majorities...

There are other and more dangerous results growing out of the theory that the blind will of the majority is the law of the land...

General Beauregard and the New York Express. BALTIMORE, September 19, 1867. To the Editor of the Baltimore Gazette:

Dear Sirs,—I notice in your paper of yesterday an article copied from the New York Express of the 17th instant...

Being still an "outlaw" in my own native country, I do not feel called upon to publicly uphold its Government...

There are more or less young men in every State, spending their time in idleness, without a dollar in their pockets...

life for the support of one! If the radical theory is correct, there can be no faith in politics; their own party must, as a necessary consequence of their principles, advocate repudiation...

We do not say that we approve of these theories. On the contrary, we believe that common duty, common right and common justice pronounce them false...

Will the American people ever come to this? Will they not reflect long before they adopt the theories which must lead to these results. Labor and capital have clashed before today, and the contest has been bitter and bloody...

General Beauregard and the New York Express. BALTIMORE, September 19, 1867. To the Editor of the Baltimore Gazette:

Dear Sirs,—I notice in your paper of yesterday an article copied from the New York Express of the 17th instant...

Being still an "outlaw" in my own native country, I do not feel called upon to publicly uphold its Government...

There are more or less young men in every State, spending their time in idleness, without a dollar in their pockets...

feel it. To each and all of these classes, we would say, go to work.

If you are not competent to engage in one branch of industry, try another, and keep trying, and the open season will be found, sooner or later.

Go to work, loiterer about the streets waiting for something impracticable to turn up. Go to work, young man; you, we mean, who is a burthen to an over indulgent parent...

Little Things.—It is a great point of wisdom to know how to estimate little things.

The best penance we can do for envying another's merit is to endeavor to surpass it.

Anger.—Anger in many instances arises from a cowardly fear of seeing or being told of our own faults.

There is an instinct in the heart of man which makes him fear a cloudless happiness. It seems to him that he owes to misfortune a title of his life...

Indolence.—There is in all men a proking love of quiet comfort; they are like dogs, who will let themselves be fondled for ever so long before they will get up.

Double Natures.—I do not follow that because a man enacts two distinct and widely different parts in life at the same time, he is therefore a hypocrite.

Enthusiasm for a person has no such grand control of a man as has enthusiasm for an idea.

Little Haters.—It is the little harer, after all who is the meanest of the mean, the vilest of the vile, the crawlingest of the crawlers.

A. T. Stewart, the Merchant Prince of New York, died in that city on the 20th. His property is valued at $70,000,000.

Brick Pomeroy says Judas Iscariot was a Radical. Three young men engaged at the game of base ball, in Troy, New York, recently purchased milk for the purpose of drinking and were very nearly poisoned...

James Brown, of Lawrence, Kansas, found some phosphorus in a drug store, and confiscated a piece. While he was examining his prize it ignited upon his hands, and he very naturally rubbed it, which only increased the difficulty.

A man named White sentenced to be hung at Indianapolis, Ind., Friday, was respected by the Governor until the second week in October.

A little girl was playing in her father's yard at Erie, Pa., the other day, when a rifle ball struck her in the centre of the forehead, penetrating the brain.

Colonel William P. Mansby, late a member of the Democratic Convention in Maryland was taken to the insane asylum week before last.

Governor Orr, of South Carolina, has written a letter endorsing General Sickles' policy in the Carolinas, and expressing regret at his removal.

Fattening Hogs.

The time to begin the process of fattening hogs is in August. In cold weather they eat greedily, but fatten little. Commence with them in August, feeding them liberally through the Fall months...

One hundred and twenty years after the above was written, we find a writer in the Southern Cultivator (September 6, 1866), advocating this plan...

Forney's Chronicle for several days has had long articles denouncing the Maryland militia law as treasonable, rebellious, &c.

A terrific flood, or veritable deluge, has recently been experienced in New South Wales. Very heavy rains, combined with continued severe gales...

At the fall book trade, which closed at New York on Monday, 900,000 volumes were sold for about $300,000.

The Hoboken ferry company has accumulated twenty-five barrels of pennies that they cannot dispose of.

Reports from the northwest part of Wisconsin say the corn crop has been considerably injured by the frost.

The first dramatized version of Beecher's Norway was brought out at Buffalo, N. Y., last week, and failed.

The man who pays more for his shop rent than his advertising don't know his business.—Greely.

The proportion of northern men who recover from yellow fever in New Orleans is very large.

Patience apostrophizes the convention of "loyal apostrophizers" "Even if ye do nothing, do it tremendously!"

Innate Democratic-Meeting at Defiance Ohio—Speech of Mr. Vallandigham on the National Debt, National Banks and Equality of Taxation.

A dispatch from Defiance, Northwest Ohio, dated the 20th, to the New York Herald, gives the following account of an enthusiastic Democratic meeting at that place:

From early morning till now wagons of all shapes and sizes, delegations with bands, devices, Union flags and hickory bushes, have been pouring into this town to the Democratic mass meeting...

Just after sending the above, a sudden change took place in the weather and clouds and rain were substituted for the bright sunshine of the morning.

After much delay, resulting from the unfortunate efforts of a number of persons to shake hands with Mr. Vallandigham, Mr. Edgerton called the assemblage to order and introduced the apostle of peace principles.

General Ord orders that as the negroes are taxed, they must be provided for as paupers in his district. All the taxes they pay would provide for very few paupers.

Several local celebrities followed, after which the large meeting dispersed cheerfully, and in the best of humor with themselves.

SERENADE OF PRESIDENT JOHNSON. After the serenade to Gen. Hancock, in Washington, on Tuesday night, the vast crowd called at the White House and paid the same compliment to the President.

Fellow Citizens.—In appearing before you this evening it is not for the purpose of making an address, but simply to tender you my thanks for this kind manifestation of respect and regard and especially so on the present occasion.

Bismarck is said to have offered to back up Italy if it would only knock that chip off Napoleon's shoulder.

The authorities at Palermo sapiently detained in quarantine the physicians sent to attend the cholera patients in that city.

Two North Carolina freedmen fought a duel about a woman. Weapons, axes Result, one voter split open.

One of the best illustrations of avarice we ever heard of is that contained in a caricature which represents Old Nick carrying a Dutchman down to his regions, and while on the way, the Hollander is making propositions to supply him with his coat.

duty to redeem and to save it from the peril in which it is involved.

I have another single utterance, and that utterance is, let every one here tonight have a conscience and a conviction in reference to the preservation of the Constitution of the country, and all will be safe.

The President then retired, the crowd cheering loudly. As the President was making his last bow some excited individual just in front of him proposed "Three cheers for the President who wasn't afraid of being shot."

The fruit trade is about closed here, and has amounted, together with the berry product, to $75,000.

BANK FAILURES. The Financial Chronicle, in referring to the two recent failures, mentions the fact that out of the 1,600 national banks, less than a score have failed during the last three years.

PARTIES AND PRINCIPLES. "Anything in the nature of a calm analysis of that on which we have been accustomed to feel much more than to think, cannot be useful to us.

POWER. The powerful will always be unjust and vindictive. The Duc de Vendome said pleasantly on this subject that, when troops were on the march, he had examined the quarrels between the mules and their drivers.

PROPERTIES OF MILK. Milk affords an interesting subject of study, from its being the first aliment on which all have, or ought to have, fed.

A Radical journal says the regard manifested for the Constitution by Conservatives as a "species of fetish worship."