

LIFE.

Life has a thousand charms, A thousand dreams of bliss; Hope, friendship, love, the bosom warms A gleam of mercy this; But soon the sunlit hour is past, And hope flies shivering from the blast.

Life has a thousand ills, -A thousand anxious fears; Clouds gather on the sunny hills, And doubts dissolve in tears, But hope comes smiling thro' the storm-A rainbow round her angel form.

Life has a thousand joys, Youth fondly dreams forever; But night draws on-youth droops and sighs,

"Will day return-O never!" Swift as a breath, light breaks the gloom And gladness smiles on sorrow's tomb.

Tis but a change at best Upon life's busy shore,-A little toil, a little rest, And all its cares are o'er. Then seal'd immutable, thy state:-Fix'd-an irrevocable fate! It is a dream! -- But know Death's cold hand breaks that slumber And who shall tell, of bliss or woe Those countless moment's number! It is beyond an angel's ken To pierce the veil that rises then!

Tis thine-but moments past, Nor prayers nor tears recal; E'en while thou readest, light and fast Time's noiscless footsteps fall; And o'er life's golden sands he flies, His path serene as evening skies.

Health basks upon thy brow,-But death's cold victim's see; Soon thou must lie as they do now, And others gaze on thee, When life and hope's gay visions seem To them as bright as once thy dream. From out life's rose-wreath'd power Thou glidest gaily forth, And all is bright, - a sunny hour

On sky, and sea, and earth, But darkness cometh, and the gloom No ray can pierce-a rayless tomb!

MATRIMONY. That man must lead a happy life, Who's free from matrimonial chains; Who is directed by a wife, Is sure to suffer for his pains.

Adam could find no solid peace, When Eve was given for a mate, Until he saw a woman's face, Adam was in a happy state. In all the female face appear.

Hypocrisy, deceit and pride; Truth, darling of a heart sincere, Ne'er's known in women to reside.

What tongue is able to nnfold, The falsehood that in women dwell; The worth in women we behold, Is almost imperceptible.

Cursed be the foolish man I say, Who changes from his singleness; Who will not yield to woman's sway, Is sure of perfect blessedness.

Can it be possible that such a principle is to be found in our Constitution! If it is, if your General Government has this power, it is useless to inquire after any of those limitations in that instrument by which our fathers believed they had carefully guarded our libertics. cated, in a rapid sketch, our sen timents upon a question which now agitates the country. We conviction of its vital importance, and ask for it your most serious attention. We believe that upon a firm and united resistance to the system we have condemned depends the safety and permanence of that Union, to which we all cling with such sincere and patriotic devotion. Nay, more, we believe that upon this resistance depends the preservation of our liberty, a few days ago. Will you not, then, resist by every constitutional means, while these will avail you? Will you, on the occasion which is seen to present itself in the choice of a Vice President, give your suffrages to Mr. Van Buren, one of the authors and supporters of this destructive Tariff system, with whom we can have no community of sentiment? Or will you give some evidence of your determination not to submit, by bestowing your vote on Mr. Barbour, who has been an able defender of our rights, a who is with us in opinion, in interest and in feeling! Holding the tenets which we have professed, belonging to a political church which holds fast to that faith, we could not consistently advise you to select a true believer when we recomwe therefore present him to you for your suffrages.
