

PROSPECTUS OF THE CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE And Appendix.

THESE works have been published by us for five years. There are many subscribers for them, probably more than for any other paper published in the United States; certainly more than there are for any other published in this District. This large and increasing subscription is conclusive evidence of their use. They are invaluable to all who are interested in the proceedings of Congress. No other publication gives them so cheaply, nor half so cheap. It is, indeed, the cheapest publication in the United States—cheap in the world. Our position at the seat of Government enables us to print them at so low a rate. We are compelled to publish the proceedings of Congress in detail for our daily paper. To do so, it requires, comparatively, but small additional expense to change them into the form of the Congressional Globe and Appendix. If it were not for these circumstances, we could not publish them for four times the sum charged.

The Congressional Globe is made up of the daily proceedings of the two houses of Congress, and the speeches of the members contained. The year ends on all important subjects are given. It is published weekly, with small exceptions, at six cents a copy.

The Appendix contains the speeches of the members, all lengths, written out by themselves, and is printed in the same form as the Congressional Globe. It is published weekly, with small exceptions, at six cents a copy. There are more numbers printed in a session than there are weeks in it. Each of these works is complete in itself. It is desirable for every subscriber to have both; because, if there should be any ambiguity in the synopsis of a speech in the Congressional Globe, or any error in its correctness, it may be removed by referring to the speech in the Appendix.

Indexes to both are sent to subscribers, as soon as they can be prepared. The last session of Congress being a very important one, we printed about five hundred extra copies of the Congressional Globe and Appendix, calculating upon our ability to dispose of them to persons who are not regular subscribers. The Appendix makes 150, and the latter upwards of 200 royal quarto pages. As the main part of the Appendix has been postponed until the next session, they will be ready, we may say necessary, for those who subscribe for the next session; and should therefore reserve them for those subscribers who desire them, and shall not subscribe for them. Though not so voluminous as the proceedings of ordinary sessions, these volumes are not less valuable than any which have been, or may hereafter be, printed. Every subscriber for the next session, who intends to file the papers, should procure copies of the last.

TERMS.
For the Congressional Globe for the session which commenced on the 4th September, 1837, $1 00
For the Appendix for the same session, 1 00
For the Congressional Globe for the session which is to commence on the 4th day of December next, 1 00
For the Appendix for the same session, 1 00

Any person sending us the money for the copies of either of the above publications will be entitled to a copy. Payments may be transmitted by mail, or made at our office. The notes of any incorporated bank in the United States current in the section of country where a subscriber resides, will be received. But when subscribers can procure the notes of banks in the Northern and Middle States, they will please send them. To insure all the numbers, the subscription should be here by the 15th of December next.

No attention will be paid to any order unless the money accompany it, or unless some responsible person, known to us to be so, shall agree to pay it before the session expires.

NECCI Chinese Mulberry.

THE subscriber has for disposal several hundred rooted trees and cuttings of the noted Morus Multicaulis, or New Chinese Mulberry; Found doubly advantageous for silk culture; and one of the most beautiful ornamental trees, of moderate size, the eye can rest upon. Of the ease of propagating this tree and its rapid growth the public may judge when informed that from a small rooted plant, for which a dollar was paid at Baltimore about four years since, the subscriber has disposed of a large number, and has yet as above stated, and that his first propagated trees are near twenty feet high and beautifully proportioned. The leaf is a dark green color and often 16 inches long and 11 broad. The price, (now reduced) is 20 cents each for plants upwards of 5 feet high, and proportionate for those of a smaller size & when a number are taken at a time.
