THE PRESIDENT AT BUFFALO.

We extract the following, from the account of the proceedings on the arrival of President Van Buren at Buffalo, N. Y. as given in the Buffalo Republican of the 4th inst.

Your exalted services in your native State in support of the patriotic Tompkins, during the last war, in the convention to amend the constitution, and in your endeavors to secure to the people a sound circulating medium by the safety fund banking system, are fresh in recollection, and will always be held in grateful remembrance.

In the National Government you have regulated your measures by such an unswerving adherence to correct principles, that you have sustained the peace of the country with foreign nations, have vindicated its honor, preserved the Constitution, and maintained the supremacy of the laws.

To this address, the President made the following reply, which was received with cheers from the multitude who were thronged around the court-house:

These friendly and honorary greetings, sir, from my fellow citizens in Buffalo on the occasion of my arrival among them, have, by their earnestness, their cordiality, and the numbers who participate in them, excited in my breast feelings of gratitude and reciprocal respect, of which I can never become unmindful.

the magnanimity to express their confidence in the integrity of his intentions.

You could not, sir, as far as my personal feelings are concerned, have selected a subject of commendation more acceptable to myself than the disposition with which I have endeavored to conduct the political contests in which I have, by opinions sincerely entertained, and a sense of public duty, been from time to time involved.

The prominent events in my political career while in the service of the State, which have been selected by my fellow citizens of Buffalo for a particular expression of their opinions, were second to none other in which I have participated either in their general importance or in their effects upon the interests of the inhabitants of the State.

The Gunpowder Plot.—The Whig press has made much noise about a statement made by A. J. Pleasanton to the committee of the last Pennsylvania Legislature, that a plan was laid by Col. McElwee, and two or three others (during the Harrisburg tumult of last winter) to tear up the rails on a portion of the Philadelphia and Harrisburg road, and in addition to this to lay a mine beneath.

The Late Gale—Gallant Conduct.—We learn from the Newbern Spectator that 14 vessels were driven ashore at the bar near that place, during the late gale.

We cannot close our brief notice of the events of the gale without paying a well merited tribute of admiration and applause to Mr. Amasa Styron, for his noble daring in behalf of his suffering fellow citizens.

got on board, and were rescued from a watery grave.

The intrepid Styron next succeeded in boarding the Alabama, and taking off her exhausted and exposed crew, whom he landed on Portsmouth.

With a perseverance which does him everlasting honour, the dauntless Styron again put to sea in his boat determined to save the crew of the William Gray, or perish in the attempt.

At this time a strong ebb tide prevented their return to Portsmouth. Mr. Styron landed them, through the breakers, on the seaward side of Dry Shoal point, where all remained till the flood tide made, when they launched the boat, re-passed the breakers, and reached Portsmouth about 11 o'clock at night, almost exhausted with fatigue and exposure.

The Gale again.—At Portsmouth Island, Ocracoke, N. C., some of the effects of the gale of the 20th ult. are thus described by a correspondent of the Journal of Commerce.

One store was swept from its foundation, and floating some distance erect, was checked by a strong fence, and when the tide fell, was found without any damage to the building, or goods on the shelves.

Rev. Dr. Fay.—The newspapers of the day contain another revolting exposure of the criminality of a clergyman in Charlestown, Massachusetts, with some of the members of his society and others.

Case of the Rev. Dr. Fay.—The case of this gentleman is one of those which sometimes occur as it were to prove to the world how little reliance is to be placed upon professions of goodness, outward appearance, sanctity of demeanor, title, station, position and standing in society.

In the Circuit Superior Court, sitting at Fredericksburg, Virginia, last week, the jury found a verdict of murder in the second degree in the case of Elizabeth Richardson, tried for the murder of her one son.

Singular Circumstance.—On Thursday the 29th, a Mrs. Stone, in Louisville, left her child playing upon the floor, while she went a few steps for a bucket of water.

eight months old, and was entirely within the door when seized by the hog.

Mortality in Horses.—The Salem, New Jersey Banner says—"Mr. Isaac Weiberly, of Mannington, lost four valuable horses within two weeks past.

Newspaper Publishing.—E. W. Chester, Esq., who has been the publisher and editor of the Christian Journal at Cincinnati, has returned to his original profession, the law.

We have not had one old fashion good rain for upwards of a year. The perpetual complaints of the drouth have caused, we apprehend, fears on the part of our farmers, of the great scarcity of provisions, judging from the excessive prices of some articles in market.

A late London Spectator gives the annexed appalling description of popular feeling in England:—

State of the Country.—Ever newspaper one opens is full of the symptoms of a feverish state of the country. If a civil war raged in the land, we could hardly expect to receive from the seat of hostilities more alarming accounts than such as the newspapers daily supply from disturbed districts in the North of England.

An easy, quick, and economical way to cure Bacon.—Take a hoghead of the size that may be necessary, say one hundred and twenty or thirty gallons.

Cramp.—Tie a ribbon or a garter about an inch broad, just above the calf of the leg on going to bed, and we will warrant a quiet sleep.

Retort Courteous.—One of those tin pedlers with which New England is so much infested, called recently at a certain house, and made the usual inquiry, whether any tin ware was wanted?
