The Pictorial History

OF THE

AMERICAN REVOLUTION,

WITH AN ACCOUNT OF THE EARLY

History of the Country,

The Constitution of the United States, and a Chronological Index;

Illustrated with several hundred

ENGRAVINGS!

It is the determination of the publisher to spare neither pains nor expense to make this work perfectly acceptable to every family throughout the entire country. It will be found the most attractive and cheapest ever presented to the patronage of the American people. The preparation of the work has been attended with great labor and expense. History requires a distant eminence, from which to take an impartial view of the character of the transactions which submit themselves to the recording pen; but more than half a century has now elapsed since the colonists first asserted their independence; and the generation, whose arduous struggles achieved so glorious a result has passed away to the silent tomb.

Through the whole work, the editor has aimed to do justice without asperity; to applaud patriotism, but not to justify its excesses; to condemn tyranny, but not to overlook the virtues of many of its instruments; and to exhibit the kindly prospect of the future more strongly than the irritating aspect of the past. The great interest that the bare mention of such a work is calculated to excite, has encouraged the editor to make it every way worthy of a liberal patronage. An extensive sale can only enable the publisher to offer it at the low price proposed. Postmasters and others wishing to act as Agents, will receive all necessary information by addressing, post paid,

ROBERT SEARS,

POETRY.

[SELECTED.]

STANZAS.

Why are springs enthroned so high,
Where the mountains kiss the sky?
'Tis that thence their streams may flow,
Fertilizing all below.

Why have clouds such lofty flight,
Basking in the golden light?
'Tis to send down genial showers
On this lower world of ours.

Why does God exalt the great?
'Tis that they may prop the state:
So that toil its sweets may yield,
And the sower reap the field.

Riches why doth He confer?
That the rich may minister,
In the hour of their distress,
To the poor and fatherless.

Does He light a Newton's mind?
'Tis to shine on all mankind.
Does He give to virtue birth?
'Tis the salt of this poor earth.

Reader, whose'er thou art,
What thy God hath given, impart;
Hide it not within the ground:
Send the cup of blessing round.

Hast thou power?—the weak defend:
Light—give light; thy knowledge lend:
Rich?—remember Him who gave:
Free?—be brother to the slave.

Called a blessing to inherit,
Bless, and richer blessings merit;
Give, and more shall yet be given;
Love, and serve—and look for heaven!

ON DITS IN SPORTING CIRCLES. —BOSTON IN THE FIELD AGAIN!

Challenge for $10,000, with five Matches of $5,000 each, and $10,000 on the Odd Match!

We will run a Stallion that has made a season Spring of 1845, Four mile heats, this Fall, over the New market Course, Petersburg Va., in the month of November next, for $10,000, half forfeit to be satisfactorily secured on both sides agreeably to the rules of the Course, against any Stallion in America.

We will run two of his get the same Fall, 3 years old, against the get of any horse in America, for $5,000, half forfeit, two mile heats each race, over the same course, and the same week.

And we will match one of his get, two years old (the only one he has of that age), to run the Fall after they are three years old during the regular races over that course, Two mile heats, for $5,000, half forfeit, against any one of the same age.

And two of his get, now one year old against the get of any horse of the same age, over the same course, for the same sum and forfeit, the Fall after they are three years old, Two mile heats at the same time of regular races that Fall—making in all a Colts' main of five, of $5,000 each, half forfeit, and $10,000 on the odd fight, besides the Stallion Match above proposed.

The above proposals to be closed in forty days.

Given under our hands this 23d July, 1845, at Petersburg, Va. [The names and money are with the Virginia Bank, Petersburg.]

Here is a chance for Grey Medoc, Duane, Register, George Martin, Herald, Wagner, Bascombe, Treasurer, Zenith, Mariner, or any other 'flyer' who may have 'lived to fight another day.' As the proposition comes from 'the Boston Party,' we make no doubt the match is offered on him. At any rate, 'the old horse' has been taken up, and we understand that he will once more be placed at the head of a formidable string in the hands of Arthur Taylor.

An Adventurer in California—Capt. Suter.—Captain Wilkes, in his Narrative of the Oregon Expedition, describes a visit made by a party up one of the arms of the Sacramento river to the residence of Captain Suter. He is represented as a Swiss by birth, and as having been a lieutenant in the Swiss Guards, during the time of Charles X. Soon after the revolution of July, he came to the United States, and resided in Missouri. He then removed to California, and obtained from the government a conditional grant of thirty leagues square, bounded by the Sacramento river on the west. He erected his dwelling and fortification on a place which he calls New Helvetia, fifty miles from the mouth of the Sacramento, and the head of the navigation during the dry season. A young gentleman from Newport named Giger, was connected with his establishment. When Capt. S. first settled at this place, in 1839, he was surrounded by hostile tribes of Indians. But, by his energy and management, and the aid of a small party of trappers, he contrived to control them, and even to win many to his aid. He held the appointment of administrator, and exercised supreme power in his own district. His building consisted of extensive corrals and dwelling-houses. He paid for labor in goods; and his stock at the time amounted to 1,000 horses, 2,500 cattle, and 1,000 sheep. He had forty Indians at work for him, and had commenced extensive operations in farming. He was frank, intelligent, conversed in several languages, and had a wife and daughter, whom he expected to join him. There were nine different tribes of Indians in the neighborhood, and within a short distance of New Helvetia. In the evening, the party was favored with a dance by the Indian boys. Capt. S. may well be called pioneer. It is by such men, and with such energies, that a new empire will be built up on the shores of the Pacific.—Phil. Inq.

Just as we expected.—We learn from verbal but good authority, that the Yankees are constructing, within a few hours' ride of Boston, a number of large, wide, flat-bottomed vessels, drawing from four to six feet water, and intended especially to run in and out over the bars along the Texian coast. From the talk of the "Down-Easters," one would be led to suppose they considered Texas a very bad bargain; they are at least determined to make the most out of it.—N. O. Picayune.

Another Financial Operation.—An exciting topic of conversation in Charleston S. C., a letter-writer in one of the journals states, is the deficiency of some $20,000 in the funds of one of the Banks of that City, or rather in the cashier's funds. The story is a queer one, but the whole facts of the case have not transpired. This much is certain; the directors of the Bank in question, in looking over their bundles of bills which have been withdrawn from circulation, came across certain packages which looked "curious." These packages have been long done up; some as far back as 1835 were sealed with the cashier's official seal, and signed by the old President and the old cashier, both now dead. On opening the bundles, in place of finding $20,000, they found a sixpence worth of paper, cut in bill form, and nicely stowed into the packages. This was an astounding discovery, and coming, as it did, upon a business, active Bank—upon men famous for managing their institution in a most vigorous and energetic manner, it was the more overwhelming. The money is gone, but who has taken it, is the question to be solved.

Reminiscence of the North Carolina Press.—The first Printing Press in the Province of North Carolina was set up at Newbern, in 1749, by James Davis, from Virginia. Hitherto any document or paper was in manuscript. "The Legislative enactments," transcribed, were primarily published to the people at the next County Courts, after the manner of the Anglo-Saxons in England. These, which had never been printed, were on loose written sheets, in the hands of the inhabitants. Hence four learned men were put in, to a commission by the government, 1752, to revise and publish an edition of the statute laws; it was handsomely printed and bound in a small folio volume; and from the yellowish cast given to it by its leather binding, it received the homely name of Yellow Jacket, which it never lost.

The first Newspaper, entitled "The North Carolina Magazine, or Universal Intelligencer," was begun by Davis, in Newbern, about 1764. It was about a demi-sheet, in quarto pages, convenient to be bound. Andrew Stewart likewise began to publish a weekly newspaper in Wilmington, which he called "The North Carolina Gazette, or Weekly Post Boy." Greensboro' Patriot.

Extraordinary Escape.—We received a letter from Harrisburg, in Hardin county, from which we make the following extract:—

Last evening, (Tuesday, 23d June) as the Rev. Mr. Taylor was returning home in his barouche, with Samuel C. Chalfant, the barouche was struck with lightning in Benjamin Bates' lane. The lightning passed down Chalfant's back, entering inside of his coat collar, and came out at his waist, tearing his coat to shreds; and setting his shirt on fire and burning his skin pretty badly. The horse was knocked dead for a while; but Mr. Taylor was unhurt, although he and Chalfant were sitting together on the back seat. Mr. Taylor did not know that Chalfant was hurt until he got out to attend to the horse, when Chalfant tumbled out after him. He then perceived the smoke rising from Chalfant's shirt, and put out the fire. Chalfant rode home the same evening, and is now doing well, though his burn is pretty severe. Louisville Ky. Journal.

From the Fayetteville Carolinian.

An important case has just been decided in the Supreme Court of Louisiana, which will send to Africa some six or seven hundred slaves. The late Stephen Henderson, who died some six years ago, directed in his will, that his slaves, near 700 in number, should be sent to Liberia, by the American Colonization Society. His directions were, that at the end of five years from his death, the slaves should be permitted to draw lots, and the ten on whom the lots should fall, should be sent to Africa; at the end of ten years 20 should be sent out, and at the end of 25 years the whole of the residue, with an outfit of $100 each. The suit was brought by the heirs against the executors, but the decree of the Court is that the will must be carried out, and slaves sent to Africa. A similar case is pending in the Supreme Court of Mississippi involving the emancipation of over two hundred slaves.

Iron House.—Mrs. Brown, of Glasgow, has imported into New Brunswick, the different parts of a cast iron house, to be erected near Fall River, in the vicinity of St. John. These houses are said to be very common in the West India islands, and their manufacture in England is a profitable business. They are said not to cost much more than ordinary houses; and there is no fear of being turned out of doors by fire. We should like to see a row of them in Fayetteville, and ourself occupying one.—ib.

Internal Improvements.—We mentioned the assembling of a Western and South-western Convention at Memphis, on the 4th of July, to take into consideration the interests of that section of the country. The Convention was slim, but a committee was appointed, and a lengthy Report, in which the importance of the valley of the Mississippi is duly set forth and magnified, and a number of improvements suggested, and the completion urged of such as are already commenced namely, the removal of snags from the Mississippi; a canal around the falls of the Ohio at Louisville; light houses on the coast of Florida, the connecting the Mississippi with great lakes by a steamship canal, and thereby give the produce of the great valley a chance for markets in the eastern cities; ship-yards and naval stations on the Gulf of Mexico, and the lake coasts; the completion of the Cumberland Road through to the western frontier; the completion of the great line of Railroads from Memphis to Charleston, of which only 130 miles is unfinished, and 50 miles of the 130 already graded.—ib.

From the Raleigh Independent.

Another Wife Murdered.—A most atrocious murder was committed at Avon, Ct. on Tuesday night, by Orrin Woodford, of that town.—The victim was his wife, whom he struck with an axe, splitting her head completely open, and then ripped out her bowels with a knife! He is not an intemperate man, and no reason is assigned for this horrid deed. He has been arrested.

From the N. Y. Jeffersonian.

Ladies Cowhiding each other.—The heat of the weather produces strange events. The N. O. Picayune of the 15th reports quite an excitement in Canal street yesterday growing out of the circumstance of one married lady being cowhided by another. It seems the parties had some dispute, and that the one who inflicted the stripes had heard of something derogatory to her fame having been said by the other. The two were in Canal street, when the aggrieved lady stepped into a store, bought a cowhide, walked to an opposite store where she found her enemy, and forthwith fell to chastising her, using her weapon most vigorously. The gentleman in whose store the scene occurred stepped between the parties to make peace, and, as is reported received sundry lashes about his shoulders for his gallantry, before he succeeded in separating them. The lady who was attacked finally took refuge in the back part of the store, and after a short time the other walked coolly off.

A Good Description.—A New York paper thus describes one of the fashionable gambling establishments in that city: "The furniture is splendid—the clocks scientific—the servants admirable—the wines exquisite—the company select—the roguery superb—the cheating unvalued—the equality unequalled."
