Jayne's Ague Pills,
Are warranted to make a perfect and lasting cure of Fever and Ague.

These Pills are put up in vials containing from 25 to 30 Pills each, and being thus excluded from the air, never deteriorate or undergo any change, and are WARRANTED, if used according to the directions, to be an INFALLIBLE REMEDY for Fever and Ague.

During twelve years extensive Practice in a low marshy district of country, where Fever and Agues were very prevalent, the Proprietor was always enabled to effect radical cures, of the most inveterate cases, by the use of these Pills.

Messrs. Jayne & Panoast of St. Louis, Mo., found these Pills so uniformly successful in curing Fever and Ague, that they sold several hundred bottles to various persons in Missouri, Illinois, &c., agreeing to return money in all cases where they failed to effect a cure, and such was the universal satisfaction the Pills gave of their value that they were never called upon to refund for a single bottle.

These Pills may also be used in all cases where a tonic or strengthening medicine may be required. Prepared only by Dr. D. JAYNE, No. 8 South Third Street, Philadelphia.

POETRY.

[SELECTED.]

SNEEZING.

Like a dog and a tin kettle,
Like a bill a man can't settle,
Like a hat without a crown,
Like a bottle upside down,
Like a coat that doesn't fit,
Like a piece of would-be wit,
Like a pot of ale that's dead,
Or like pasteboard gingerbread,
Like the queerest thing you please,
Is the checking of a sneeze!

Like a squinting lady's leer,
Or a cross eyed auctioneer,
Like a hat blown off a head,
When the hair is very red,
And the hat along the street,
Runs a race 'tis hard to beat,
With the owner running after,
Amid roaring peals of laughter!
Half a sneeze is just like that—
Like the man without the hat.

THE WIND.

The wind is a bachelor,
Merry and free:
He roves at his pleasure,
O'er land and o'er sea;
He ruffles the lake,
And he kisses the flower,
And he sleeps when he lists
In a jes'mine bower.

He gives to the cheek
Of the maiden its bloom,
He tastes her warm kisses,
Enjoys their perfume,
But, truant like, often
The sweets that he sips
Are lavished next moment
On lovelier lips.

PROSPECTUS

Of the 'Congressional Union' and 'Appendix,' &c.

The undersigned respectfully inform the public, that, with the commencement of the approaching session of Congress, they will begin the publication of the "Congressional Union" and "Appendix." The first will contain a full and accurate history of the daily proceedings of both branches of the national legislature. It will be compiled with such care that every citizen who is interested in the public affairs will find it a complete synopsis of their proceedings, and a ready book of reference upon all questions which come before them.

The second, (the "Appendix,") will contain every speech which is delivered in the House of Representatives and Senate during the session, reported at length by a full and able corps of congressional reporters, and revised before publication by the authors, whenever it is requested. These two works will be strictly impartial, and are intended to be as interesting and useful to the man of business, and to the politician of the one party, as of the other.

It may be said, without exaggeration, that the next session of Congress is destined to be one of the most important which has taken place since the foundation of the government. It is the long session. It is the session which will develop the general plan of the present administration. Its measures will stamp the character of our institutions for years to come. Some of the most important questions which are connected with our foreign relations, or our domestic concerns, will be presented for their consideration. The final measure of ratifying the constitution of Texas, which is to consummate her admission into our Union, and the admission of her members into our public councils—every measure which affects the Oregon question—our relations with Mexico—as well as the final decision on the revived Zoll Verein treaty,—these, and other measures which are more or less connected with our foreign relations will come under the review of the approaching Congress. Most of the eminently important questions which relate to our internal concerns—the revision of the best modes for preserving the public moneys—a variety of commercial measures—perhaps the best system for regulating the important interests of Texas—the Indian questions—the land question—best system for our navy—these and others will constitute a mass of business which is calculated to command much of the time of Congress, and much of the attention of the people. They will all be reported by the "Congressional Union," The Daily, Semi-Weekly and Weekly Union will, as usual, embrace an interesting variety of matter on political, scientific, and literary subjects, along with the current news of the day. The editor will continue to devote all his energies to the improvement of "The Union." He finds many accomplished men in this city. The administration has brought with it a considerable accession of talents. Several tried and distinguished members of the democratic party have accepted office under it. Some of them have liberally contributed their literary labors to our benefit; and we hope to enlist others in our service. Besides, the time is not far distant when the editor intends to call other talents to his assistance. His ambition is, to make his paper worthy of the metropolis of the Union. He is persuaded that, with the facilities which his position enables him to employ; with the official and other materials placed within his reach; and with the aid of the correspondence which he is attempting to establish in foreign countries, a paper may be published, which is not unworthy of the support of his country. In undertaking the task, he knew he had many difficulties to overcome, many lessons to learn, many sacrifices to encounter. He knew that amid the arduous cares of a new theatre, he could not at first do justice even to himself; but his zeal has never flagged. What enthusiasm and industry can effect, will be fully accomplished. Some errors he may have already committed. But upon one point, he can speak with great pleasure and with equal freedom. The men who are administering this government are men, anxious, as he believes, to do their duty, to serve their country, to carry out the pledges under which the President was elected, and the great principles of the party. So long as the administration is conducted in this spirit, and upon those principles, he is prepared to co-operate with them in the public service; and to give them as promised in his prospectus, "a fair, liberal, and efficient support."

We feel a deep sense of gratitude for the prompt manner in which our political friends, in every section of the country, have already come forward to sustain the "Union." May we not hope that our friends throughout the United States will continue to assist our labors, and prevail upon their friends to take some one edition of the "Union?"

As this will be the long session of Congress, and will probably last eight months, we have concluded to publish the Congressional Union and Appendix on the following Terms.

For the Congressional Union, $1 50 per copy.
For the Appendix, $1 50 per copy.
Clubs will be furnished with 10 copies of either the above works for $12: 25 copies for $25

Fracas.—Yesterday, an affair took place at the Union office between Messrs. John P. Heiss, one of the proprietors of that paper, and Cyrus V. Grey, for some time correspondent of the New York Herald, but lately of the Charleston Mercury. Mr. G. had but entered the room, when Mr. H. drew forth a cowhide and administered several severe cuts with it. Mr. G. offered no resistance.

[What was Mr. Grey doing in the Union office, is the natural inquiry on reading the above statement in the Baltimore Sun.—New Era.]

Despair.—A Washington correspondent of the Charleston News says:—"It is feared that Elliott, who killed young Kendall, will become insane. I am told that he rises from his bed in the night, and paces his cell in the greatest agony. His trial will shortly come on."

Counterfeits.—We are requested to caution the public against receiving three ten dollar bills of the Bank of South Carolina, numbered 497, 498, and 500 on the right, (without the corresponding numbers on the left,) dated 15th Sept. 1845, and payable to Wm. McBarney, or bearer, signed by neither the President or Cashier, the bills having never been issued by the bank.

From the Raleigh Independent.

Frightful Scene.—We learn from the Richmond Whig, that at sunrise on the morning of the 3d instant, as one of the carriages of the menagerie, containing the lion, tiger, panther, &c. was in the act of starting for Petersburg, drawn by four horses, one of the horses took fright and attempted to run. This excited the lion, who roared from alarm, upon which the whole team dashed off at full speed; and, after running some distance, the wheels came in contact with the posts planted along the sidewalk, smashing three of them, when finally one of the wheels was knocked off from the axle, the driver pitched into the street and seriously hurt, and the wagon upset. The fore wheels being by this means detached, the horses proceeded furiously until they were stopped by obstacles in the street. Fortunately the cage was strong, and held its charged prisoners.

Who says Texas is no Corn country?
The Lagrange (Texas) Intelligencer says:—"Stephen Williams, Esq. of this (Fayette) county, made 1750 bushels of Corn from 25 acres. 10 acres of which were new ground, on his plantation in Lagrange's prairie, which is about 78 bushels per acre."

A Medical College is about to be established at Richmond, Va., under the control of the Thompsonians. They are about to petition the Legislature to be placed upon the same footing as other medical practitioners.—ib.

Sudden Death.—A female, named Elizabeth Angell, aged about 30 years, and residing in Little Water Street, after engaging on Saturday evening last in a game of cards for a small wager, which wager she had won, and the payment of which she was awaiting on the return of the messenger who had gone to purchase it, laid her head on the pack of cards which they had been using, and ere his return, being absent only three minutes from the house, in that position, died without a struggle. An inquest was convened by the Coroner, and the verdict was awarded, "that she died by the visitation of God Almighty." The deceased, we learn, had long been the subject of some severe affection of the head, and on the evening of her death, having but a short time previously labored under some strong excitement, it is believed, ruptured a blood vessel, which no doubt was the immediate cause of her death.

Norfolk Beacon.

The first step in crime.—A letter from New Orleans, published in the New York Post, relates the following incident: Some years ago a gentleman settled at Alexandria, on Red River, by the name of H. W. Brewer, by profession a lawyer, and who soon by his unexceptionable deportment, and his talent and ability, was sent to the Legislature, and afterwards appointed Parish Judge. He has a fine, manly open countenance, is tall and robust, and has every winning and prepossessing manner, and is about thirty five years of age. He has lately been discovered that in 1832, about thirteen years ago, he committed a forgery, and came out to this country, and has ever since been living under an assumed name. The Red River Republican in speaking of the discovery, says:—"His career here (under an assumed name) since that time up to the period when the report of his being another individual got out, was so unexceptionable, that had he at once acknowledged the act to have been an indiscretion of youth, it would scarcely have affected his standing and character in the community. Unfortunately for him he pursued another course, and attempting to free himself from the charge brought against him, he has had to resort to expedients of a character no less criminal than the charge of which he was first accused."

"His guilt was established, notwithstanding, and he has resigned the office of Judge of the Parish. What a lesson for youth! Truly the tales of life are more startling, and are enveloped more in mystery than fiction, with the revelations of which surpass in horror of feeling the thrilling drama of a maudlin."

The Baltimore papers relate the suicide of David G. Vost, Esq., an eminent lawyer and worthy citizen of Hagerstown, cause, pecuniary embarrassment.

New Production.—We presume it is not generally known that a Corn Broom Manufacturing has been in successful operation in this place during the past year, and such however, is the fact, and is probably the only one south of the Potomac. The establishment is owned and under the direction of Dr. Crittenden, who manufactures five or six hundred splendid Brooms last season—equal to any made in the United States for strength and beauty of finish. He raises the corn, and turns the handle from timber obtained on his farm. We are informed that these brooms will be furnished, wholesale or retail, as cheap as a similar article can be delivered in any of the southern cities.

Dr. C. made preparations for extending the business next year, but the drought of the past summer almost entirely cut off his crop of Broom Corn; he has, however, sufficient however, to make about 1000 Brooms. Success attend similar enterprises, say we.
