Discourse on the sixth Anniversary of Cape Fear Lodge, No. 2, of I. O. of O. F.—EDWARD CANTWELL.

We are indebted to the Wilmington publisher (Mr. Stringer) for a neatly printed copy of this eloquent Discourse.

The Address opens with a beautiful allusion to the late French monarchy—its splendor, power and resources—the sudden and overwhelming revolution which resulted in its overthrow, and an argument is then deduced of the necessity of associated effort, in accomplishing any great and permanent work of public good—the moral and political regeneration of the world, &c. &c.

The author then passes to the origin of Odd Fellowship—the rites of the Cabiri—Brahmins and Druids—the ceremonies of the Eleusinia, and the mystic horrors of the Mexican Teocali, are briefly referred to. Selfishness and personal aggrandizement are shown to have been the sole principle of union among these societies. They were never distinguished by any great works of public or private benevolence. There was nothing practical in their rites. Their sympathies were limited and confined within the narrow circle of their own Lodges. Not so, however, with Odd Fellowship. That is eminently practical. It is the handmaid of practical benevolence—charity—and religion.

The whole Address is written in a chaste and flowing style—abounding in sparkling thoughts and sentiments—clothed in elegant diction, and is altogether worthy of the reputation of the youthful Orator.

The following extract gives a sort of resume of the objects and aims of the order:—

ODD FELLOWSHIP
Is eminently practical. It is a domestic institution, framed for purposes of universal charity. Its members are known to you all, and they rest its broad title to your esteem in the daily exhibition of its enlarged benevolence. Far from interfering in the political turmoils of the day, the discussions and combinations to which they give rise, are carefully excluded. On the ground that the same principles are inculcated by the doctrines of Religion, it has been often objected, that the organization of a separate order for similar purposes, is dangerous and inimical. But surely those who exhibit this concern, can no longer be justified in continued jealousy, when after an experience of nearly half a century, it now boasts among its members in this country, some of the brightest ornaments of the Church, and claims indeed no higher place than as the humble hand-maid of christianity. What is true religion, if not that universal charity which this order practices and inculcates? The elevation of the soul to the author of the Universe; the grateful acknowledgment of his supreme control, and the natural outpourings of the heart at each new instance of his wisdom and goodness? The Independent Order of Odd Fellows is essentially christian in the spirit of its codes and the universality of its beneficence. When a few months since, the voice of weeping crossed the waters, and awakened the sympathies of America, for the starving population of Europe, we were among the first, and the largest contributors. Thus are its charities not confined to its own associates, or even to that people with whom its members happen to be politically connected; for rising like the grateful summer's cloud, far above the ordinary distinctions of society, from out its dark bosom, there doth fall on all the world, its tears of blessing and beneficence. In happy contrast to the sects which preceded it, it wastes not its energies in petty speculations without definite aim or usefulness. It seeks no exemption from the ordinary duties of the citizen. It asks no privileges which are not common to all. Its mysteries, like those of the ancients, are guarded indeed by injunctions of solemn secrecy. But such was the practice of christianity itself, in the early ages of the church. Driven to the catacombs of Rome, her heroic members, in presence of Time's departed generations, celebrated those mysteries the living deserved not yet to receive.

Possessed as we are of truths whose deep importance the world is as yet equally unprepared to acknowledge and appreciate: boundless in the extent of our influence, and the ubiquity of our members, some secret communion is manifestly proper to guard against imposition, to preserve our property, and to secure our usefulness. No one, however, is compelled to assume this obligation involuntarily. At every step, full opportunity for withdrawal is presented. No oath is administered. No restraint is imposed upon freedom in speech or action. The honor of him who is deemed so far worthy as to be admissible to our mysteries, is considered the best security for their preservation.

The total want of any union in effort or settled principle in morality, forms the striking deficiency in all former associations. The presence of both constitutes the peculiar feature of our order. It is that which its friends are most delighted to exhibit. Look through the broad and noble country which has been left us by our fathers, and see fast as rises its cities in the wilderness—wide as spreads the title of its civilization, associated with each are the Lodges of this Society, all working harmoniously in separate spheres, and all acknowledging a common head and union.—Like some beautiful flower transplanted from foreign climes, Odd Fellowship has already become indigeneous with our soil, and wafts its fragrance on every breeze.

Congress.
In the Senate, on the 21st ult., Mr. Mangum offered a resolution calling for information as to the proceedings of the Court Martial called in the case of Col. Paine, of the North Carolina Regiment, and held at or near Buena Vista, in 1847, and the dishonorable discharge of certain officers by the decision of that Court, which was agreed to.

In the House, on the 23rd, Mr. Daniel, from the committee on claims, reported a bill for the benefit of the legal representatives of James C. Watson, of Georgia; read and committed.

From the Fayetteville Carolinian.

Our Volunteers.—The treaty of peace being ratified, and orders issued for the return of the troops, our volunteers will no doubt be home by the first of August, or before. We hope our citizens will take the necessary steps to honor them as they deserve, and to tender to them the hospitalities which they will merit and expect from friends and countrymen, after their privations in camp.

It is said that in Perry co., Pa., they have started a Common Stock Community. The marriage ceremony is abrogated, and in worship all dress in white. Dancing, in which men, women, and children engage promiscuously, is a part of their religious exercise. A very 'common' affair, we fear.—Westchester (Pa.) Jeff.

Foreign.

By the steamer Britannia, Liverpool advices to the 9th June had been received at Boston.

Cotton, breadstuffs, &c. &c. had declined in price, and markets generally were dull. The Repeal Association and Orange Confederation in Ireland have at length fraternized. A new society, to be composed of the members of both of these bodies is to be formed. It is to assume the style and title of the Irish League.

France is still the theatre of considerable confusion.

With the exceptions of engagements which have recently taken place between the Italians and Austrians, and the surrender of some Danish soldiers to the Prussian army, affairs generally look somewhat quiet.

Now if the stomach and bowels are very healthy and strong, they expel the humors which the checked perspiration caused to be retained in the body, and no harm is done. But, if the stomach and bowels do not happen to be in this healthy condition—if, for instance, the bowels should be in a costive or bound state, the matters of their own as well as those received from the occasion of checked perspiration, are again taken up by the blood, and this Fluid of Life may be so impeded as to produce Apoplexy or Paralysis; or it may become quicker in its circulation and fever be the result. If the lungs have been previously affected, then inflammation of the Lungs; if the heart, then Aneurism, or some affection of the heart, or Angina Pectoris; if the brain has previously suffered, then inflammation of the brain. If an injury has been done in time past to the body, and the part where such was done continues weak, then that part will be affected.

Now all these dangers and difficulties can be prevented, and the long and certain sickness, by assisting Nature in the outset with a good dose of the Brandreth's Pills.

Be exceedingly afraid of COUNTERFEIT PILLS. The Agent is the only person from whom Brandreth's Pills should be purchased.

Beware of Imposition.

The greater the value of any discovery, the higher it is held in the esteem of the public, and so much in proportion is that public liable to be imposed upon by the spurious imitations of ignorant, designing, and dishonest men, who, like the drone in the hive, have neither the ability nor the inclination to think or provide for themselves, but thrive and luxuriate upon the earnings of the deserving.

The extraordinary success attending the use of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, in diseases of the lungs, and the many singular cures it has effected, have naturally attracted the attention of many physicians, as well as the whole fraternity of quacks—and caused unprincipled counterfeiters and imitators to palm off spurious mixtures, of similar name and appearance of the genuine Balsam. Some are called "Syrup of wild cherry and tar," "Cherry syrup," "Compound syrup of wild cherry," "Wild cherry confrey," and sundry other compounds; to which they attach a long string of "puffs." But of such nostrums we know nothing. It is Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, alone that performs the cures. Let them not deceive you.

None genuine, unless signed I. BUTTS on the wrapper.

Asthma cured by Jayne's Expectorant.
Lambertville, N. J. April 27, 1844.

Dr. Jayne—Dear Sir—By the blessing of God, your Expectorant has effected a cure in me of a most distressing complaint. In December last, I was seized with great severity by a paroxysm of Asthma; a disease with which I had been afflicted for many years past. It was attended with a hoarseness and soreness of the lungs and throat, together with a laborious cough, and complete prostration of strength, and worn out with suffocation, when a bottle of your Expectorant was sent to my house. At first I thought it was nothing but quackery, but seeing it was so highly recommended by Dr. Going, with whom I was well acquainted, I was induced to try it, and in a few days it completely cured me, nor have I ever had any return of the disease since. I have now formed so high an opinion of your medicine, that if I had but a few bottles of it, and could obtain no more, I would not part with them for ten dollars each.

Yours, most respectfully,
JOHN SEGER,
Pastor of the Baptist church at Lambertville, N. J.

No excuse for a Bald head.
From the Somerville, N. J. Whig.

Sometime since I called upon Mr. P. Mason, of Somerville, for Dr. Jayne's celebrated Hair Tonic, to restore my hair, which was then falling out daily. I procured one bottle, and applied its contents according to the directions. When the bottle was exhausted, I discovered to my great surprise and satisfaction, that the young hair was starting handsomely; I therefore purchased another, and so on till I had used three bottles, and now, as a compensation, my hair is as thick as ever.

And what is more surprising, my baldness was not occasioned by sickness, in which case there is a greater hope of restoration—but was hereditary.

Wordsworth Academy.

THIS School, the next session of which will commence on the fourth Monday in June, is situated 15 miles south east of Warrenton, on the road leading from that place to Halifax, in a very pleasant and healthy section of country. The community is distinguished for morality, and young men would be but little exposed to temptation to vice. The scholastic year is divided into two sessions of five months each. There will be a public Examination at the close of each term. The expenses per session of five months are as follows:

Board, including every thing,	$35 00
Tuition, 1st class English,	8 00
" 2nd " "	10 00
" 3rd " including Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, Rhetoric, &c.	15 00
" Languages,	15 00

Declamation and composition will receive particular attention. No deduction of charges except in cases of protracted illness. The school is in charge of Mr. J. B. Soloman, a young man of excellent morals and undoubted ability.

LEWIS BELCHER.
30th May, 1848.

State of North Carolina.

Lunsford R. Cherry, vs.
Wesley Manning.
Original Attachment—In Edgecombe County Court.

Returned to May term, 1848, of Edgecombe County Court, with the following return of Sheriff:—"Executed by levying on the following property—one waggon and harness, negro man Sam, and said Manning's undivided interest in 266 acres of land, adjoining the lands of Reddin Pittman, Harrison Pittman and others—the 12th day of April, A. D. 1848."

THE defendant, Wesley Manning, is hereby notified, that the above Attachment was duly returned at May term, 1848, of Edgecombe Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions, and that unless he be and appear before the Justices of said Court, at the next term thereof, to be held at the Court House in Tarboro', on the fourth Monday of August next, and then and there replevy and plead to issue, judgment by default final will be entered against him, and the property levied on, condemned to be sold to satisfy the plaintiff's recovery.
By Order of said Court, at May term, A. D. 1848.
JNO. NORFLEET, Clerk.
