Two Kinds of Girls. There are two kinds of girls .-One is the kind that appears best abroad-the girls that are good for parties, visits, balls, etc., whose chief chief delight is in all such things. The other is the kind that appears best at home-the girls that are useful and cheerful in the dining room, the sick-room, and all the precincts of home. They differ widely in character. One is frequently a torment at home; the other is a blessing. One is a moth consuming everything about her; the other is a sunbeam, inspiring life and gladness all along the pathway. Now it does not necssarily follow that there shall be two clases of girls. The right modification would modify them both a little, and unite their characters in one. 'Maria Theresa Jennings and Clotilda Semantha Jenning, gimme that are book?
