North Carolina at the Cotton Exposition—The Wonderful Resources of Her Forests, Fields and Mines—An Unexplored Empire of Hidden Wealth—A Large and Creditable Display.

Corr. Charleston News and Courier.

ATLANTA, Nov. 7.—North Carolina deserves praise for making one of the largest and most creditable displays of agricultural, mineral and manufacturing products in the entire Exposition. In extent and variety, excellence of arrangement and thoroughness of preparation, it is an honor to the State and a standing testimonial to the tireless energy and patriotic exertions of the Hon. M. McGehee, the State Commissioner of Agriculture. The display occupies one-half of the western wing of the Railroad Building, and shows the vast range of minerals, woods, soils and products contained in the State—the achievement of the present and the possibilities of the future.
