DEMOCRACY IS IMMORTAL! THE WORD DEMOCRAT STANDS FOR HUMAN LIBERTY AND HUMAN FREEDOM, AND CANNOT DIE! SENATOR VANCE.

The commencement at Chapel Hill last week was a brilliant one. The crowd was very large.

The bill as to the repeal of the ten per cent tax on State banks has been defeated in the House by a big majority.

Let the white men of North Carolina preserve the State and county government first and last. These are more important than all the rest.

It is a noticeable fact that nearly every county in the State re-elected the old Board of County Commissioners.

It is reported that the Populists will not probably put out a candidate in this Congressional District.

The Augusta Chronicle, the paper of Senator Walsh, referring to Senator Jarvis' address before the Immigration Congress that met in that city, of which the Messenger had something to say, gives this cordial notice:

"One of the ablest papers read during the session of the Immigration Congress, if not the ablest, was by United States Senator Jarvis, of North Carolina, on the theme, 'Obstacles to Southern Development'.

"I pray you, Master Lieutenant," said Sir Thomas More, as he ascended the scaffold, "see me safe up, and for my coming down I can shift for myself."

Theodore P. Haughey, the aged Ex-President of the wrecked Indianapolis National bank, was given six years in the penitentiary last week.

In passing sentence Judge Baker broke down and cried like a child. He said that it was the most painful duty of his life.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitution.

Always accompanies good health, and an absence of appetite is an indication of something wrong. The loss of a rational desire for food is soon followed by lack of strength.

When the supply of fuel is cut off the fire burns low. The system gets into a low state, and is liable to severe attacks of disease.

The universal testimony given by those who have used Hood's Sarsaparilla, is that it gives great merit in restoring and sharpening the appetite.

It will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

GEN. W. R. COX'S LETTER.

The following is the letter from Gen. Wm. R. Cox read at the Vance Memorial meeting held in Tarboro, on the 4th of June, 1894.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2, '94. Messrs. WILLIAMS AND PITTMAN, Tarboro, N. C.

Gentlemen—I am in receipt of your invitation to attend a meeting of the citizens of Edgecombe county, called for the purpose of taking action in regard to the death of the late Senator Vance, with the request that I and others should address the cause of the nation, when the Froelich Memorial is presented.

I therefore avail myself of this opportunity of calling attention to certain facts connected with our lamented friend, not generally known. It is no disparagement to others to assert that Governor Vance was one of the ablest and most patriotic of the people of our State.

He had rare opportunities to serve them and nobly improved them. Warmly attached to the union of the States, he had no sympathy with the rocking of the waves that presaged the storm soon to ensue it is said, with uplifted hands, he was advocating the cause of the nation, when the Froelich Memorial was presented.

Mr. Lincoln was received calling for troops to coerce the States. Immediately his hands fell, his head bowed, he descended from the rostrum, and called for volunteers to defend the State from an outrage upon her constitutional rights.

At the head of a company raised he promptly went to his services to the Government and from thence forward was a soldier, until the voice of the people called him to the executive chair. I will not dwell upon his business methods, which equipped our soldiers better than those of any other State, and provided for the needs of his people.

His wisdom, his foresight, and zeal distinguished him as the war Governor of the South. So much so that at the close of the war, the sectional party then in control of the National Government resolved that he should vicariously suffer for the transgressions of his people.

I called on him on his way to the Old Capital Prison. Notwithstanding the opportunities to enrich himself which one less scrupulous of us would have availed himself of, he was without a dollar save amounts contributed by a few friends from their scanty means.

While in prison he was visited by friends in the North who knew him when a member of Congress. By his good humor, his apt way of presenting in a ludicrous way the mistakes of others, he brought his imprisonment into ridicule and was early set at liberty.

Through prompt action, through the dark days of reconstruction, his voice and pen were employed for the welfare of the State. In 1875 a constitutional convention was called to supersede the odious carpetbag Government.

Many of our prominent men regarded the movement as premature and in writing committed themselves against the policy. There fore when as Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, urged them to take the stump and aid in our efforts, their responses were apologies. Not so with Governor Vance, who replied I might rely upon him to do what he could, and make an appointment for us to meet at Morganton to inaugurate a canvass of the western part of the State, for here there was much division among our friends and independent candidates announced themselves nearly in every county.

When in Morganton I received a dispatch requesting me to join him at his home in Charlotte. He then informed me he had sent his family off that morning. His friends had promised to raise money to enable him to make the canvass. They had failed to do so, until he declared he would put his individual note in bank, to raise the money to fill our appointments.

That evening we took the cars for Greensboro, for notwithstanding our carpetbag Legislators had appropriated twenty millions of bonds to build railroads, not one mile was under construction. The result of that canvass is still remembered by many, but it is not known what at the close of our canvass Vance did not have five dollars which to reach his home. Result—a brilliant canvass, Robeson held the State redeemed and our people again allowed to elect honest men for public office, and our credit which was destroyed soon restored to normal standard.

For many of the blessings now enjoyed are we indebted to this great man, then our Governor. His opponent was a man of splendid address, great ability and had the general Government at his back. The campaign was the most memorable ever made in our State. The labors of Governor Vance during the canvass are to this day imperfectly appreciated. At this time it became my duty to meet him on several occasions and to my inquiries as to whether he needed money his uniform reply was "my campaign is costing me nothing, but when I meet a boy named Zeb, like to give him five dollars. In many a honest young Zeb were found, and no less than five were once presented on one occasion. So general a favorite was he that even horses, dogs, etc., were named for him. His labors were literally overwhelming.

From the time he reached the place appointed for speaking there was a continual stream of men, women and children seeking to approach and shake him by the hand. His body was scarred with heat, but never for a moment did he shrink his duty. A third time he was chosen Governor, an honor, never conferred upon any other citizen of the State.

Not to dwell upon facts familiar to all, it is sufficient to say that before the expiration of his term he was elected to the United States Senate as one of the leaders of that distinguished body. Though tiring in the lower House for six years while Vance was Senator, I never fully realized in what esteem he was held by his colleagues on both sides of the Senate Chamber until called to the present position. One of the most distinguished members of this body informed me that entering the Senate a new member while the McKinley Tariff bill was under discussion, he witnessed the ease and ability with which Senator Vance met every attack on his positions and with solid facts and ridicule defeated his adversaries. He conceived the highest admiration for the man and became warmly attached to him. This instance is not singular.

During his long and protracted illness the liveliest interest for his recovery was manifested on both sides of the Chamber and when the Willamette bill came up for consideration the Senior Senator from Indiana gave expression to the general feeling of his friends when he in the Senate, regretted the absence of the Junior Senator from North Carolina.

Contrary to the general opinion Senator Vance was a close student, a fine belletrist scholar and possessed the elements of the highest oratory. During the debate of the McKinley bill he sacrificed his health and his eyes in nightly labor over his complicated Tariff schedule. And during the special session of 1893, though his health was very feeble he lost no interest in his public duties nor spared himself in preparing for the debate of the various bills.

He delivered a well prepared and able speech on the repeal of the Sherman act. Having occasion to go into the cloak room soon after its delivery I found him lying down surrounded by friends, wet with perspiration and nearly exhausted. I then feared for him what ultimately proved to be true, that it would be his last public appearance on the floor of the Senate.

After the death of that able and learned lawyer and fearless Democrat Ex Attorney General Black, there was a meeting in the Supreme Court room, attended by many distinguished publicists, to pay honor to his memory. It was generally conceded that among the speakers delivered there was not one equal to that of Senator Vance. I had occasion to know the labor he bestowed on its preparation.

Not to extend this letter to a wearying length, I wish to call attention to the fact that when Vance was elected to the office of Governor, in addressing the vast concourse that gathered in Raleigh, he after calling attention to the manner in which our State and the country had been robbed and plundered by carpetbaggers and their confederates, he dramatically threw up his hands and truthfully exclaimed, "Yellow citizens, my hands are clean!"

After accomplishing so much for us, he died as he lived, poor and with clean hands, with a conscience clear, manhood untarnished and a fame and a name dear to every household from his home amidst the Black Mountains to the Lowlands of the East washed by the waters of the billowy Atlantic.

In the presence of this illustrious public servant, this devoted North Carolinian, this great tribune of the people, who consecrated his manhood, his decrepitude, and perhaps gave his life for his State, and who after all his sacrifices died poor and with clean hands, let us teach our youth to revere his memory, to follow his example, and whether dealing with private or public affairs, to keep their hands clean always.

And the wayward, but sincere seeker after political truth, may safely give heed to his dying admonition that "The Word Democrat Stands for Human Liberty and Human Freedom, and Cannot Die—Democracy is Immortal."

I am, with great respect, Very truly, Wm. R. Cox.

In 1876 he was nominated for Governor. His opponent was a man of splendid address, great ability and had the general Government at his back.

The result of that canvass is still remembered by many, but it is not known what at the close of our canvass Vance did not have five dollars which to reach his home.

Result—a brilliant canvass, Robeson held the State redeemed and our people again allowed to elect honest men for public office, and our credit which was destroyed soon restored to normal standard.

Those Pimples

Are tell-tale symptoms that your blood is not right—full of impurities, causing a sluggish and unhealthy complexion.

A few bottles of S. S. S. will remove all foreign matter, cleanse the blood thoroughly, and give a clear and rosy complexion. It is most effective, and entirely harmless.

Washington Letter

(From Our Regular Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 9, 1894.

The readers of this paper will recall the fact that Senator Ransom secured an appropriation of $600,000 for building a light house on Diamond Shoals off the Rocky and terrible Cape Hatteras.

Not only North Carolina, but the civilized nations of the world are interested in this great enterprise. It will be alone an enduring monument to Senator Ransom's enterprise, foresight, sagacity and tremendous influence here.

The Light House Board has favored his reports from the engineers who are building this great light house. They have at last found a solid foundation and the work will be completed as rapidly as possible.

When it is done, storm-tossed Hatteras will be robbed of half its terror.

This light will shine far out over the ocean warning the distant mariner of the hidden rocks that roar their treacherous frosts along the coast. It will be one of the most magnificent structures of the kind in the world.

Its electric lights will be modeled in accordance with the latest invention in that subtle and marvellous force which is fast becoming the motive power of the nineteenth century. All that advanced science has discovered, will be utilized in making North Carolina's mighty beacon a brilliant success.

Through the agency of the half million, Senator Ransom has secured for this purpose all the skill of the Wizard of Hanlo Park as well as that of the most accomplished engineers will be combined for the promotion of the commerce of North Carolina. The vessel of the maritime world can sail for her ports knowing full well that the dangerous reefs are to them no longer terrors in cognia—that a gleaming flash of light stands an everlasting sentinel over its raging surges to warn them as to their course. It is commendable to give good places to such of North Carolina's sons as Pendleton King, W. P. Roberts, W. M. Robbins, T. J. Jernigan, F. M. Simmons, Melville Carter, Robert Glenn, O. B. Aycock, etc., but these benefits and with an administration. The Hatteras Light House will send its electric rays like a perpetual benison over the surface of the ocean almost as far as its waves beat upon the coast of the State.

Secretary and Mrs. Hoke Smith have returned from Chapel Hill. Secretary is almost as much pleased with his reception in his native State as her people seemed to have been with him.

Mrs. Cleveland and the babies are at Gray Gables for the Summer.

Mr. Bunn has reported favorably a French Speciation Claim bill, which if it passes both houses of Congress will result in giving a good deal of money to a member of North Carolina's claimants.

I expect my old friend Joseph Daniels is at the bottom of the following judicious ruling. It has been determined that all employees in the Interior Department will hereafter be subject to a close inspection by the heads of the various bureaus as to their attendance, habits and effective industry. If they fall below a certain percentage they will be subject to reductions to a lower grade.

Any absence on the part of employees without permission of the chief of the division in which they are employed will not only be detected but also be marked against the clerk. Under the caption "effective industry" is included general ability, accuracy, adaptability, directive power, rapidity, system, and versatility.

Hon. Thomas Settle has secured the promise of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds to favorably report the Durbin building bill. The Winston bill has already been favorably reported and the New Bern building is to be commenced this month.

The ridiculous bill proposing to concentrate all the customs collectors' offices at Wilmington has been defeated. The rumor that Ransom was the author of this absurd measure is false. No one familiar with either Senator's views or record would believe it for a moment.

My nomination of Charlie Vance to be member of Congress seems to have met with a hearty endorsement in the western part of the State. A number of letters from strong men have been received pledging themselves to support a plan of an eminently proper tribute both to his father's memory and the young man's own merit and ability. As his father's secretary, for about fifteen years he has become thoroughly familiar with the methods here, and with such subjects as the Tariff, Finance, etc., and it is no more a matter than "Old Zeb."

Senator and Mrs. Jarvis left Wednesday night for Greensboro, N. C. where the Senator delivered the commencement oration.

The marriage of Miss Katie L. Millard, of Asheville, N. C. to Mr. Henry B. Stevens, took place at 2 o'clock Wednesday at the home of Mr. George E. Denmark, pastor of the bride, 1918 Third Street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Junius Denmark, of Louisville, Kentucky.

Representative Breckinridge, of Kentucky, returned to Washington Wednesday after his brief campaign in Kentucky. He describes the meetings at which he spoke as being among the largest ever known in the district. He believes that if the convention was held within thirty days, he would get a majority larger than his opponents combined. He will visit Kentucky at intervals, making a few speeches on each occasion. If this course of a colloquy between Mr. Holman and Mr. Wilson about limiting general debate on the Indian appropriation bill, the latter gave notice that he intended to offer an amendment providing that no person should be appointed agent at Indian agency in either State or territory than the one in which he resided.
