Half Sick Half Well

Many persons have their good day and their bad day. Others are about half sick all the time. They have headache, backache, and are restless and nervous. Food does not taste good, and the digestion is poor; the skin is dry and scaly and disfigured with pimples or eruptions; sleep brings no rest and work is a burden.

What is the cause of all this? Impure blood.

And the remedy?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

It cleans out the channels through which poisons are carried from the body. When all impurities are removed from the blood, nature takes right hold and completes the cure. If there is constipation, take Ayer's Pills. They awaken the dormant action of the liver; they cure biliousness.

His Hands Would Be Dumb.
"Can you keep a secret?" asked the first of the two.
"Sure," was the reply of the other.
"Tell me, and my finger will never so much as breathe a word of it to a living soul."—New York Sun.

The World Without Love.
"What would this world be without love?"
"Remembering the show and the supper of the night before—It would be a damned sight cheaper, for the night of Cleveland and London."

Dirt Chicago.
A little bit of municipal reform is apparently needed in Chicago. The Chicago Evening Post remarks: "When Washington Heston, at the banquet of the Merchants' club Saturday night, said that Chicago was 'the dirtiest large city in the world except Constantinople,' the truth was so palpable to those present that they were filled with pity and disgust over Constantinople. And when he said that Chicago's 'assessment is the most outrageous of any city in the world' there was not a man around the table to take issue with the statement, because every man there knew that it was notoriously scandalously, discredibly true."

Teats' Moby.
Signor Teats, the Anglo-Italian composer, has recently acquired one of the most peculiar hobbies possible. After a hard day's work, either of teaching his many royal pupils or of composing, he is wont to retire, in company with his charming wife, to his study. From thence the sound of hammering may be heard, accompanied by the noise of a mandolin. It may be gathered from these sounds that the great composer is seeking recreation at his favorite amusement of upholstery. It is safe to say that the greater part of the chairs, and certainly the whole of his wife's wardrobe, have thus been upholstered by Signor Teats.

LITERARY INDUSTRY.

Samuel Butler required 24 years to finish his "Hudibras."

Boutley is said to have written "The Lala, the Destroyer," in six months.

Hallam consumed 14 years in collecting the material for his "Liberator of Boston."

Hayden spent eight months in preparing one of his magnificent romances.

Richardson, the novelist, generally devoted two or three years to the composition of a novel.

Montgomery, the famous hymn writer, required but a single afternoon to prepare one of his magnificent paraphrases of the Psalms.

Hannah More is said to have written one of her "Essays on Female Education" in two weeks. She did not spend much time in revision.

Coleridge required a week to produce such one of his poems as "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner."

Shelley spent between six and seven years on "Queen Mab." He wrote very slowly and was particular in the choice of words, his manuscripts showing frequent erasures and corrections.

Hood wrote "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner" in a single afternoon. Another account declares it to have been written in a day and that much time subsequently was spent in revising it.

Thomas Moore often wrote a short poem almost instantaneously. He composed over two years in writing and composing material for "Lallah Rookh" and two years more in writing that immortal poem.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Money as Sleep.
"I lost you!" exclaimed the comte. The maiden raised her eyebrows. "As far as losing goes," she said, "you are certainly a peach!"

Her spirituelle metaphor indicated a culture Chicagoan.—New York Press.

Frays. Has a right to the word "infallible." It is an hour of outpouring which words cannot express—of interior speech which we do not articulate, even when we employ it.—Mrs. Swetchew.

During the four years of the civil war there were 307 pitched battles, 109 combats involving the presence of a number of regiments on each side and 282 skirmishes, stages and other actions.

Sir John Herschel proved that an iceberg 45 miles in diameter and 200,000 miles long would melt in one minute should it fall into the sun.

Get a Start On Catarrh

And Save Endless Suffering which Winter Brings.

Those who get a start on the disease before the cold and disagreeable weather aggravates it, will find a cure less difficult. Catarrh increases in severity year by year, and becomes one of the most obstinate and deep-seated troubles. But it is equally important that the right remedy be given. All local applications of sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., can never cure Catarrh, for they do not reach the disease. Catarrh is in the blood, and only a blood remedy can cure it.

Local applications only reach the irritated surface; the right remedy must be taken internally.

Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) is the right remedy for Catarrh. It cures the most obstinate cases by going direct to the cause of the trouble—the blood—and forcing out the disease. Those who have met with so much disappointment from local treatment should throw aside their sprays, washes and inhalations and take S. S. S. A cure will result. Send for free copies. Address: Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

It is easy to see the importance of prompt treatment for Catarrh.

Friendly, but Hypercritical.
The poetic young man was talking about autumn.

"See how the leaves fall trembling to the ground," he repeated softly.

"That's something of your own, isn't it?" remarked the person with a calculated nature.

"Yes. Is it not a sad, impressive thought?"

"I don't know that I can appreciate it," was the reply. "It sounds like poetry, though."

"Do you really think so?"

"Yes. It tinkles along in first rate style. But I don't see anything very impressive about it."

"Doesn't it appeal to your imagination?"

"Not much. I don't see how it's worth the trouble to write it down. The public didn't have to wait for you to be born to find out that autumn leaves fall to the ground. That's the way they always fall. If you'll go out some time and find them falling straight up or sideways, you can write a piece about it that'll leave Sir Isaac Newton a back number and make a hit with any editor in the country. And you won't have to put it in poetry either."—Washington Post.

For Value Realized.
Tourist (in the morning)—Did the jury in the horse stealing case reach an agreement last night?

Alkali Ike—None; they are still argylin about it. I believe, but the mob agreed on the first ballot an lynched him with needless dispatch.

"Good gracious! Then why does not some one inform the jury that there is no further sag for them?"

Domestic Life in Bethlehem.
I went to Bethlehem several times, returning usually toward dusk. I constantly met the "Bethlehem men," as they are called—mechanics, masons, carpenters, laborers—returning on foot from their long and hard day's work in Jerusalem. The hours of labor in the east are from sunrise to sunset, and these men would leave Bethlehem early in the morning, and, after walking the six miles to their daily task, work all day and walk back at dusk to their late and scanty supper. The younger men looked worn out; the older men seemed to have lost all strength, and their eyes frequently looked dull and almost glazed.

I was invited to visit a family in Bethlehem. Their home was on the second floor of a building. It consisted of a single room about 15 feet square, with a concrete floor and not a single article of furniture save a tiny charcoal stove. It was clean. There were plenty of windows, and the window sills were low and broad and were used instead of chairs. There were little cupboards built in the walls, which held the food and the few dishes. At one side of the room was a larger room, perhaps 8 feet deep, 8 feet high and 6 feet long. Here were piled blankets, rugs and quilts, neatly folded. At night the rugs were taken up, and the family slept on them, using the blankets and quilts for covering. On great occasions a little circular table, about 3 feet across and 1 foot high, was used as a dining table.—McClure's Magazine.

Success Easily Attained.
"The appearance is that only a comparatively small number of people ever quite realize what an easy thing success would be if only they made effective use of the means to which they have already in hand," writes Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, D. D., in The Ladies' Home Journal.

"Difference among people in respect to efficiency are far less an affair of resources than they are a matter of getting those resources trained upon a particular point and of getting that point so close to the eye and the heart that it shall be able to draw those energies along convergent lines, like a sun-glass that will convert ordinary temperature into heat by contracting solar lines to a focus. It is worth a whole fortune to get well stirred up, to get all the energies of one's being drawn out in warm intensity upon a single object. A good deal of the success of even a man like St. Paul is due to that posture of mind and of life which he expressed when he said, 'This one thing I do.' He was wholly drawn in under the power of a single purpose. He was aglow with that purpose. Everything within him was combustible material, which he laid upon the crackling bonfire of that purpose. Success was therefore easy to him."

See how young man," said the stern father, "if you don't come home earlier after this I'll know the reason why."

"Glad to hear it, governor; that will have all explanations on my part."—Detroit Free Press.

Doctor—Well, how do you feel today, Mrs. Brown?

Mrs. B.—Oh, doctor, I feel like a new woman!

Doctor—Ha! Has the trouble really gone to your head?—New York Sunday Journal.

Solved the Difficulty.
In some of the farming districts of China pigs are harnessed to small wagons and made to draw them. The well known tendency of the pig to go in a different direction from that in which it is desired to have him go is overcome by his driver wishing him to go in a direction in which the driver doesn't really want him to go. At least that is the way the matter is explained by a recent traveler, who certainly ought to be an Irishman, if he isn't.—New York Tribune.

Priceless Pain

"If a stone can be placed on pain, 'Mother's Friend' is worth its weight in gold as an alleviator. My wife suffered more in her uterus than either of her other two children than she did at birth, and she has never since had a pain like that. I have used four bottles of 'Mother's Friend.' It is a blessing and one deserving to be known as a mother's friend."

These virtues Henderson Dale, Druggist, of Carroll, Ill., to the Healthful Regulator Company, of Atlanta, Ga., the proprietors and manufacturers of "Mother's Friend." This successful remedy is not one of the many internal medicines advertised to do unobtainable things, but a scientifically prepared liniment especially effective in adding strength and elasticity to those parts of women's organs which bear the severest strains of childbirth.

The liniment may be used as spray and all times during pregnancy up to the very hour of confinement. The earlier it is begun, and the longer used, the more perfect will be the result, but it has been used during the last month only with great benefit and success.

It not only shortens labor and lessens the pain attending it, but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child, and leaves the mother in a condition more favorable to speedy recovery.

"Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists at $1.00, or sent by express on receipt of price.

GRAYBEARD

WE make bottles of our GRAYBEARD every week. No more do not understand the delay. We have earned a reputation for making a clean, fresh, sure remedy for Cancer—Gastric, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, and we cannot make GRAYBEARD faster, and make it good.

A few years ago Cancer appeared on my face in form of a rash—not a sore, but a scab that dropped off, and soon reappeared, some worse. Finally it assumed the shape of a tumor, and, after a long and painful struggle, I was miserable. About that time a pleasure boat from New York came to my aid, and I got a bottle of GRAYBEARD, and in a few days my face was as good as new. I got better, and my appetite improved, I got stronger and Cancer left me. And it has not returned. GRAYBEARD saved my life.

It is a bottle of 100. If your druggist has not our GRAYBEARD, order direct, enclosing the $1.00 worth to help you pay freight. Address, Z. D. Respass Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.
