Wood's Seeds.

Crimson Clover

Sown at the last working of the Corn or Cotton Crop, can be plowed under the following April or May in time to plant corn or other crops the same season. Crimson Clover prevents winter leaching of the soil, is equal in fertilizing value to a good application of stable manure and will wonderfully increase the yield and quality of corn or other crops which follow it. It also makes splendid winter and spring grazing, fine early green feed, or a good hay crop. Even if the crop is cut off, the action of the roots and stubble improve the land to a marked degree.

POINTING TO PARKER.

The New York Herald which has for years long enjoyed the reputation of the political weather vane of newspaperdom has the following to say editorically:

"Judge Parker's telegram declaring himself for sound money has made such an impression that he may save the democratic party in spite of itself.

"The comments elicited from all quarters show that Judge Parker's action has won the confidence of the people, and that sort of confidence President Roosevelt has not inspired.

"His imperialism and his dictatorial ways, together with his revival of the race issue in the South and other Rough Rider fads, have awakened among the people a distrust of Mr. Roosevelt and the republican party quite as great as the distrust which Bryanism, sixteen-to-one-ism, populism and other freakish isms had excited with respect to the democrats.

"Mr. Roosevelt has the support of his intimate friends and his political proteges, but conservative people eye him with distrust. They acknowledge that he is irreproachable as an individual—that he is a staunch patriot, a good husband, a loyal friend. But they doubt his capacity for self control, distrust his judgment and question his conception of Presidential duties.

"Like the German Emperor, he wishes to meddle in every detail of the puplic service, to control every department, to rule every official, to be both the lawmaker and the executive, to be the source of power and to apply it.

"Between Mr. Roosevelt's views of the President's duties and the American people on that subject there is a very wide difference. He evidently thinks the President of the United States is a sort of dictator, while the people rightly regard him merely as their chief magistrate, as the executive head of the administration. The domineering conception of his official duties has excited widespread resentment among republicans and has led him to make mistakes that would have prevented his nomination if the republican party had had any other available candidate.

"As it was, however, he had virtually a walkover, and the democrats were entirely out of the running until Judge Parker's telegram to W. F. Sheehan at the St. Louis Convention revealed to them that they had a candidate possessed of strong sense and statesmanship. Before his ultimatum was delivered it was said in the Herald that Judge Parker was the servant of the democratic party, not its master. His telegram on the gold question proved the contray. It showed that the democrats who had nominated him believing him to be King Log, had really chosen King Stork.

"What the democrats needed was a master. They have found one in Judge Parker, and he may yet lead them out of the wilderness."

A Comparison.

BY MARY L. JOHNSON.

Can any one give a comparison
Between the bell and the heart,
When each as it's stirred with pleasure
Will suddenly give a start?

Do we ever hear the grand old bell
Strike solemn like and slow,
As if grieving o'er some dear one
Who passed off years ago?

Do not our hearts beat sadly,
When oft we contemplate
Upon the answer we'll receive
Up at the Golden Gate?

And on some bright clear morning,
Does not the bell seemed pleased,
When chiming forth some merry note
Upon the scented breeze?

Then comes the same comparison;
The heart with pleasure beats,
When on his knees before you,
Your love, your hand entreats.

Oh! let us then look at the two,
As being one combined,
For pleasure the heart has always beat,
For pleasure the bell has chimed.

No Pity Shown.

"For years fate was after me continuously" writes F. A. Gulledge, Verbena, Ala. "I had a terrible case of Piles causing 24 tumors. When all failed Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me. Equally good for Burns and all aches and pains. Only 25c at Staton & Zoeller's.

When Woman Envies Man.

When he gives his hair a neat brush and his coiffure is complete.

When the children cry and he can whistle a tune, get his hat, bang the door and go out.

When he trips up the street ahead of her on a rainy day with his trousers juantily turned up and no skirts to carry.

When he can wear his best hat in the rain without getting the curl out of the feathers.

When he doesn't have to twist his arms to hook his bodice up the back or drag six superfluous yards of dress goods behind him, and do it gracefully, too.

When he doesn't have to kiss his sworn enemy and tell him how sweet he looks.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"What do you mean," pugnaciously asks Secretary Hay of the British government "by sending an armed expedition into China?" The British government responds, "We don't mean a single thing. We shall withdraw it instantly just as soon as Tibet grants free trade to Britons and acknowledges the authority of the British government in Tibet." Secretary Hay yawns and says "Ah, indeed! Is that all? Go ahead, then. Beg pardon. Compliments to Curzon."

The Management of Wives.

In popular fiction, proverbs and cartoons, husbands are pictured as stupid animals, blind, perverse, born to be managed by some woman, and always devoid of tact. Who ever heard the phrase: "As tactful as the proverbial husband!" Who ever heard anybody say: "As clever as a husband?"

But the pathetic and absurd truth of the matter is that when a husband is clever, he is twice as clever as his wife, for when he is managing her the most she hugs to her heart the fond belief that she is managing him, and that he is at best a stupid old dear, fit for nothing else than to be steered along the path she thinks he ought to travel in.

I have sometimes been accused of saying harsh things of men, God love them!—but if so, here is where I made the amende honorable. I respect them more than they suspect. If women think men stupid, men know that women are contrary, and a clever man acts on the suggestion.—Harper's Bazaar.

When little Alton Parker gleefully ran to his mother with the great news that he had been appoined janitor of a building, and when Henry Davis was thrilled by his promotion to be brakeman on the B & O, neither of them thought that those occurences would have an effect on the Presidential election of 1904.

Dr. Friedmann, a Berlin playwright, knowing that a translated French play stands a better chance of success nowadays in Germany than an original German production, has given his new comedy a French title, with an imaginary French author, naming himself as the translator, and scored a brilian success.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but, when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 58 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Staton & Zoeller's drug store.

NAILS RECORD SICKNESS.

"One who makes a close study of finger nails will find many curious thing about them to excite his wonder and interest," says F. De Donato, who is an expert on such matters, "but none more so than the studies of physical condition told in their growth. You know the nail of a person in good health grows at the of rate of one sixteenth of an inch each week, slightly more than many authorities believe—but during illness or after an accident or during hours of mental depression this growth is not only affected and retarded so far as its length is concerned, but also as regards its thickness. The very slightest illness will thus leave an indelible mark on the nails, which may be readily detected as the nail grows out. If one has a sudden attack, such as acute rheumatism, which sends the temperature bounding upward to 104 or 105 within the space of three or four hours, it will be found on the nails, indicating the difference in thickness of growth between the time when health was enjoyed and the thin growth of the ill period. If the illness is one that comes on gradually, like typhoid fever, for example, instead of a ridge, a gentle incline will appear on the nails. Should one have an arm broken, the thick ridge can be seen only on the fingers of the one. When one has passed through a period of extreme excitement or mental depression, the fact will be imprinted on the nails, either with an abrupt ridge or a gentle slope according to the acuteness of the mental influence. In no instance can the marks of illness, accident or mental condition be clearly seen on the nail until after the growth has carried the line beyond the white or half moon portion of it, but a week or two subsequent to any of these things the ridge or slope may be found on the nails, usually readily visible to the eyes, but if not, the mark may be found by running the tip of the finger down any of the nails."—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Walking on the Ceiling.

Few people, probably, know what it is that enables flies to walk on the ceiling. It has been supposed that their ability to do so was due to the fact that each of their feet is a miniature air pump. This theory was found to be unsound, and it was then explained that the feat was made possible by means of a viscous substance which exuded from the hairs on their feet. This theory also was abandoned as being only partly accountable for the fact; and the preferred explanation is that flies are enabled to walk upside down on smooth substances by the help of capillary adhesion. An investigator has found by a series of nice calculations, such as the weighing and measuring of hairs—that a fly would be upheld by capilary attraction were it four-ninths as heavy again as it is. Each fly is supposed to be furnished with from 10,000 to 12,000 minute foot-hairs; these exude an oily fluid, and it is because of the repulsion between a watery surface and this oily liquid that a fly finds it difficult to mount a dampened glass.—Harper's Weekly.

A father recently overheard his young son use a word he did not approve, and calling the child to him, said: "My son, if you will promise me never to use that word again I'll give you a silver dime." The little fellow promised, and true to his word, refrained. About a week later he went to his father and said: "Papa, I've learned a new word worth fifty cents."—Philadelphia Press.

The Cost of Seeing the St. Louis Fair

Our average man will probably take lodgings and eat his meals wherever he may be. Therefore he probably will eat his breakfast outside the grounds and his lunch ean and dinner within. A tabulation of his minimum daily actual expense will be as follows:

Breakfast	$ .20
Carfare to grounds	.05
Admission to grounds	.50
Luncheon	.30
Dinner	.40
Carfare to lodgings	.05
Lodgings	1.00
Total	$2.50

There are three classes of restaurants to be found downtown near the fair grounds and within the grounds. In the first you may get a decent, clean meal for from twenty cents for breakfast to fifty cents for dinner, the latter including meats, fish, vegetables, bread and butter and coffee.

Could our friend afford to spend more money on his comfort than the foregoing table enumerates he can easily keep his expenses within five dollars a day during a two week' visit, as follows:

Breakfast	$.20
Carfare to grounds	.05
Admission to Fair	.50
Incidental rides and souvenirs	.85
On the Pike	.50
Luncheon at Fair	.50
Carfare downtown	.05
Dinner	.50
Hotel	1.50
Total	$4.85

Altogether a man on the average salary may do the World's Fair in a generous and enjoyable way for two weeks for from forty-five to seventy-five dollars. Perhaps a good average would be sixty dollars. This of course, does not include railroad fare, which cannot be averaged.—Leslie's Magazine.

The Raleigh Morning Post for the Campaign.

The present year promises a series of intensely interesting political developments. The season has arrived for County, District and State Conventions. In County, State and Nation both sides are lining up for warm and fierce contests, and all signs point to the most interesting campaign in the lifetime of the present generation.

To aid the people of North Carolina in keeping posted, the Raleigh Morning Post is making a most liberal campaign offers as follows:

One Dollar will pay for the Daily Post until after the National Convention in July. Two Dollars will pay for it until after the election in November.

Any persons sending us a club of six names for either of the above periods, together with the money paying for said subscriptions, may have one copy for the same length of time free.

All subscriptions and remittances should be sent to The Morning Post, Raleigh, N. C.

Leslie's Magazine for August

Ralph Cannon begins a new novel, "The Prospector," in the August Fiction number of Leslie's Monthly Magazine, and the first chapters promise a better story than either "The Sky Pilot" or "Black Rock." There are eleven other stories in this number, by such people as George Hibbard, Henry C. Rowland, Alice MacGowan, Holman F. Day, H. I. Green and Rex E. Beach, and they cover nearly every variety of up-to-date fiction.

J. Adam Bede, the humorist of the House of Representatives, has a most amusing article on "The Spellbinders," whom we all expect to listen to during the next few months, in which he tells a number of good stories. There are also remarkable photographs of the St. Louis Fair and portraits of the men who created that exposition, and a helpful little sketch of the cost of a visit to St. Louis this summer.

The delightful verses by Kennett Harris with some remarkably good drawings by Reginald Birch, are an attractive feature of of the number, and Mrs. Call's monthly paper on "The Freedom of Life," as usual, is well worth reading and thinking about.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Goldbick, of Colusa, Calif., writes. "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for Liver and Kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Staton & Zoeller.

—The special term of the Superior Court next month for the trial of criminal cases will not be untimely, for already there are in jail no less than twenty-five persons awaiting trial.

—As soon as the county primaries are off our hands it will be in order to form Parker and Glenn clubs.

BE WILLING TO BE NERVOUS.

To argue with nervous anxiety, either in ourselves or in others, is never helpful. Arguing with nervous excitement of any kind is like rubbing a sore. It only irritates it. It does not take long to argue excited or tired nerves into inflammation, but it is a long and difficult process to allay the inflammation. It is a sad fact that many people have been argued into long nervous illnesses by would-be kind friends, whose only intention was to argue them out of illness. Even the kindest and most disinterested friends are apt to lose patience when they argue, and that, to the tired brain which they are trying to relieve, is a greater irritant than they realize. The radical cure for nervous fears is to drop resistance to painful circumstances or conditions. Resistance is unwillingness to endure, and to drop the resistance is to be strongly willing. This vigorous "willingness" is so absolutely certain in its happy effect, and it is so impossible that it should fail, that the resistant impulses seem to oppose themselves to it with extreme energy. It is as if the resistances were conscious imps, and as if their certainty of defeat, in the case of their victim's entire "willingness"—roused them to do their worst, and to hold on to their only possible means of power with all the more determination. But every sharp attack, if met with quiet "willingness," brings a defeat for the assailants, until, finally the resistant imps are conquered and disappear.—Leslie's Magazine.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Ten Years of Suffering.

"I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Burge, of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from chronic diarrhoea for ten years and during that time tried various medicines without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well and I have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favor of that wonderful medicine." This remedy is for sale by W. H. Macnair.

Early Colonial Record.

Secretary of state Grimes in his search for documents bearing on the Colonial history of the state found a number of papers relating the war with Spain 1747-8, when the port of Beaufort was entered by the Spaniards. There are several dozen of the documents. One, for example, is a bill from Samuel Green, surgeon, for attending the Spanish prisoners and is for 143 pounds. It is stated September 23, 1748, and is against the Province of North Carolina for attending Spanish prisoners taken at Brunswick in Cape Fear river, by order of Maj. John Swann and Lewis DeRossett, sheriff. One of these Spaniards was John DeSalla, who, with a number of men, had been blown up when the Spanish sloop blew up. The injury of these men were horrible. Some of the others were shot. Another document is a death warrant signed by Governor Gabriel Johnson.

How to Improve Without Money.

If the town authorities are hampered by a lean purse but yet imbued with the spirit of progress and improvement, they should turn their attention to a market house whose rents will pay for it. Even at the beginning only a few dollars will be taken out of the town treasury.

A handsome, commodious market house can be erected on the town land and rented for enough to pay for its construction. The money can be borrowed from the building and loan association.

Nearly all improvements suggested to our "city fathers" became desuetudinarious because of lack of money. A market house is a prime and pressing need, but in this case with that beneficent institution, the Edgecombe Homestead and Loan Association, money is no insuperable barrier. It affords a splendid opportunity for the display of improvement activities.

—The county candidates have returned safe sound in limb if not in wind, from the Lawrence speaking.

—The enrolment at the A. & M. Summer School has reached 902, and before the school closes the number is expected to exceed a thousand.

Lady Eleanor Wickham, a London society leader, has a craze for wearing little grass snakes for bracelets. She entices the reptiles to twine themselves around her wrist, then she plunges her hands and arms into icy cold water for a few moments, with the result that the serpents become torpid and remain in a more or less comatose state for some hours. Thus she is able to preside at afternoon tea with her arms covered with living snake bracelets.
