Boll Worm Probably.

Mr. W. E. Jeffries has discovered that this cotton crop is seriously affected with a very strange disease, or insect or something that has done it great damage. In fact about a third of his cotton crop is cut off thereby. The bolls are affected. At a glance they appear perfectly sound, but on close inspection a small speck can be observed and when cut open the boll is totally rotten on the inside. Mr. Jeffries has inspected a number of other crops and finds them in the same condition, but none has been affected as his own. A stalk of the diseased cotton has been sent to the State entomologist to learn its trouble.—Rocky Mount Record.

Government Printing Office Sec'd.

The action of the President writes Charles A. Edwards, a Southern correspondent in turning out Public Printer Palmer has brought to a crisis the trouble in the great printing. Mr. Palmer has determined to ask for a Congressional investigation when Congress meets in December and air the whole thing. If he gets the investigation it is going to make trouble for a whole lot of people here who will be brought into the thing, who, otherwise never would be known to it. It is going to involve Senators and Representatives and big newspaper proprietors all over the country who are the boliers of stock in the Mergenthaler Linotype machine. It is going to show up the Mergenthaler people first got the permission of Congress to ask the Public Printer to use his own discretion to place in the Government Printing Office the linotype machines and put hand workers out of a job. It is going to show how the thing was done and the commission paid to a lobbyist to get the thing done. I do not know that any man connected with the Government work got a copper cent for placing in either the Mergenthaler or the Lanston machines in the Government Printing, but I do know that a whole lot of people here and mixed up here own stock in both companies and that they did not pay very much for the stock. It is a nasty mess and part of the game of some of the Republican stand patters is going to be to keep the Congress engaged in investigations all during the session so it can't get busy with the tariff, railroad rate legislation or anything else. The whole thing will be rich, rare and tasty when it comes and I am going to tell the whole truth about it all, and I care not whether it hits Democrats or Republicans. Lets clean out the whole rotten outfit and give the people a chance. Will the people take a chance when it is offered to them?

Widely as the people of the United States may differ as to the "public ownership of public utilities," it is becoming more and more apparent that there is a definite purpose to assert the principle of "public ownership of public utilities."

The people are no longer indifferent to the abuses of the powers placed by them in the hands of officials; they are becoming keenly alive to the fact that the use of public position as a means of fattening private purposes is altogether too prevalent and gratifying, or more properly put, thieves—in positions of public trust—are finding their pathways strewn with thorns in the shape of indictments, prosecutions, and jail sentences.

And the most encouraging feature of this newly awakened sentiment appears to be the widespread acclaim with which is being met the efforts of prosecutors, judges, and juries to lay punitive hands upon the rascals in high places. There is hopefulness in this attitude. Punishment of small-fry offenders never has more than local deterrent effect, but when the arm of the law is reached out and laid heavily upon the "big fish," fear is put into the hearts of the grater everywhere.

The very fact that the people own their servants, in the sense of having the right to exact honest and efficient service from them, is coming to have a fixed place in the popular mind, and public pillars of high and low degree will do well to keep the fact in mind.—Dummond Mont, Cal.

Keep the Turkeys Growing.

It is now about two months until Thanksgiving and there is no time to be lost if we expect to have our turkeys in prime condition for the market. Of course they must not be confined, but on the contrary they should have the range of the fields, where grasshoppers and bugs are plentiful.

If there is fresh water, either a stream or spring, near by, so much the better. If not, then we must see that they are provided with water morning, noon and night.

When they return in the evening, they should have all the whole corn or wheat that they will eat and then must not be disturbed by dogs or children.

Turkeys are by nature very timid, and any sudden scare will do great injury to them.

Keep them growing and at the same time reasonably fat, so that when the real fattening time arrives they will require only the finishing process to make them fit and fine.—E. X.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Benettville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which she had heard of once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now as strong and healthy." Station & Zoeller the druggist, sell and guarantee them, at 50c a bottle.

Those who intend to build or repair old buildings should read the advertisement of Fire Chief H. T. Dav, who is ex officio building inspector.

A Good Law.

By mistake, probably Mitchell county has a most excellent law, enacted by the recent General Assembly. This law reads as follows: Section 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person or firm or a dog known to be dangerous or vicious to run at large. Provided, however, this section shall not be construed to prevent any person from turning such dogs loose from eight p. m. to six a. m.

Section 2. That any person violating this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

"This indeed a pity that this law does not apply to the entire State, and impose the same penalty upon the dog that it does on the person.

President Roosevelt before he has the federal government to take over the control of insurance companies might have Congress to John D. Rockefeller at home, also Morgan, Ryan and many others.

Control of Public Servants.

Widely as the people of the United States may differ as to the "public ownership of public utilities," it is becoming more and more apparent that there is a definite purpose to assert the principle of "public ownership of public utilities."

The people are no longer indifferent to the abuses of the powers placed by them in the hands of officials; they are becoming keenly alive to the fact that the use of public position as a means of fattening private purposes is altogether too prevalent and gratifying, or more properly put, thieves—in positions of public trust—are finding their pathways strewn with thorns in the shape of indictments, prosecutions, and jail sentences.

And the most encouraging feature of this newly awakened sentiment appears to be the widespread acclaim with which is being met the efforts of prosecutors, judges, and juries to lay punitive hands upon the rascals in high places. There is hopefulness in this attitude. Punishment of small-fry offenders never has more than local deterrent effect, but when the arm of the law is reached out and laid heavily upon the "big fish," fear is put into the hearts of the grater everywhere.

Political Contributions.

The very fact that the people own their servants, in the sense of having the right to exact honest and efficient service from them, is coming to have a fixed place in the popular mind, and public pillars of high and low degree will do well to keep the fact in mind.—Dummond Mont, Cal.

An Eskimo Girl's Hair Dress

When an Eskimo young lady goes to a ball she is a gorgeous sight to gaze upon. A traveler reports just how a belle was dressed on such an occasion.

Her dress was made of the intestines of a seal, split and sewed together. This makes a transparent garment and the girl trimmed it with elaborate embroidery of oiled words and fringed it with strings of beads. Her trousers were white and made of Siberian reindeer skin embroidered with strips of wolf skin. Her hair was braided on each side with strips of wolf skin and strips of beads. Heavy necklaces and pendants of beads and teeth of animals hung around her neck and over her shoulders.

Show white gloves made of fawn skin were on her hands. Those fitted perfectly and were ornamented with strips of skin from some animal—perhaps the seal. To complete this elaborate outfit this Eskimo belle carried long eagle feathers, one in each hand, which she waved as she danced.—Washington Star.

Washington, D. C. Sept. 22.

While in New York the other day I met and talked with a man whose investments in manufacturing and the jobbing trade are sufficiently large to entitle him to be classed with the millionaires. The man himself had just been made that Senator Elkin's Committee on Interstate Commerce was to meet next November to prepare their bill which is the outcome of the hearing in this city in the early summer. My friend is not a railroad man nor in sympathy with railroad men. He is a self-made business man whose eye teeth have been out after sharp contact with the world and who has fought his way to the fortune he possesses.

"I have just returned from a trip through the South and West

A Fine Orchard.

The finest and largest apple orchard in the State is that of A. A. Boggs, of Waynesville, covering 70 acres, the trees being about 20 years old and embracing 29 varieties. Mr. Boggs sells his fruit in the South, in car-load lots, and is now getting from $3 to $4 for it. His trees are in first-class condition and are loaded with fruit, in fact, the limbs of many nearly reaching the breaking point. His crops will probably reach 3,000 barrels. Prof. Hime says that section and the Brushy mountain section in North Carolina have no superior for apple growing, and that after awhile this will be a most noted apple region in the country.

Cost of Living and the Tariff

Senator Dooliver does not look for any tacking with the tariff at the coming session of Congress, but he does look for legislation regulating railroad rates on lines recommended by President Roosevelt, and this notwithstanding there are a great many Republicans in Iowa who believe the present tariff schedules do more injury to the great common people, every twenty-four hours than the railroads can possibly inflict on them in twenty-four days.

The cost of living is advancing, notwithstanding the present harvest is the most bountiful in a double decade. The salaried man and the wage earner, week by week, and day by day, find the struggle harder to make their incomes meet the cost of living. Even the Labor Bureau, now that no political exigency is at hand to juggle with its statistics, admits that the cost of living is constantly increasing. There are many millions of laboring men and women, and wage-earners in this country, who would not give a snap of the finger for all the railroad legislation Senator Dooliver can imagine the rest of his natural life. They want cheaper food, cheaper fuel, cheaper necessities of all sorts, and the time is not distant when they will become clamorous, and if that clamor shall be heard in the land, one year from now the Sixtieth Congress will be Democratic in the House of Representatives, and the tariff will be as paramount as an issue in 1908 as it was in 1892.

And everybody knows what that means. It means fat-frying, and things like that. It means days of tribulation for the Republican party, and a period of hope for the Democratic party.

The American people, when they make up their minds, can run a round on the political stage as rapidly as a French dancing master in a ballroom. They know there is something wrong with the tariff, they know the stand patters can correct it, if they choose, and if relief does not come, the people, as in 1892, will rise up and smash the thing and rebuild it, and let us hope they shall have become more skillful in the business than they were a dozen years ago.—Washington Post.

Handsome Quarters.

W. L. and J. E. Simmons have fitted up the store recently occupied by E. Miller, for their casket and embalming parlors. They are making no display of the interior from the street. Handsome lace curtains cut off the view from the windows and the doors are kept closed. But the interior is fitted up in an up-to-date style. Well balanced cases hold costly caskets that can be pulled down for inspection and with equally as little effort they can be returned to their places. All the paraphernalia incident to the undertaking business is there stored away.

In assembling their coffins etc. in this store they obtained increased space for the display and storing of their furniture.

Without reflecting on any one we believe that we can safely state that they have the largest, most complete and handsome stock of furniture ever assembled here.

These young men are doing well and the Southerner heartily congratulates them, because they deserve it.

Commission for it would be their duty to create a bureaucracy that would help the dominant party.

Every practical politician admits this to be a fact and you can not get away from it.

A Matter of Health

Those who may need a horse or a mule, live they far or near, are advised to try this market. Never before have there been so many head, horses and mules, and never before has there been such competition. A greater number of persons will offer for sale these animals, and each one will have a larger number to select from. Tarboro is going to be a horse and mule market this winter.

Like Finding Money.

Finding health is like finding money—so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold, sore throat, or chest irritation, better get promptly like W. C. Barber, of Sandy Level, Va. He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble, caused by smoke and coal dust on my lungs; but, after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds." Greatest sale of any cough or lung medicine in the world. At Station & Zoeller's drug store; 50c and $1.00; guaranteed! Trial bottle free.

World Tolerance of America.

Reviewing America's part in recent world politics, the City of Mexico Herald says that "great and dramatic actions always arrest the attention of the world, and recent American history has been full of them. The world in fluence of the United States began with the birth of the republic, when the outgoing challenge of the Declaration of Independence stirred deeply the hearts of all lovers of freedom in the Old World. The American Revolution was a great chapter in the historical evolution of mankind. Later came the chastisement of the Barbary pirates, an exercise of power remote from the shores of the United States, and, still later, an American commodore battered down the doors of Japanese exclusiveness—surely the act of a nation conscious of strength and willing to exert its force for great ends. From its foundation, therefore, the United States has been a world force, in that it has profoundly influenced the common lot of humankind. Each step forward in the broadening of American influence has been part of a logical evolution of power, and on the whole the great cause of human freedom, of ordered liberty, has been benefited. From the Declaration of Independence to the peace conference at Fontenoy, the United States has exercised an influence upon the course of human destiny."

Get Off Cheap.

He may well think, he has got off cheap, who, after having contracted constipation or indigestion, is still able to perfectly restore his health. Nothing will do this but Dr. King's New Life Pills. A quick, pleasant, and certain cure for headache, constipation, etc. 25c at Station & Zoeller's drug store; guaranteed.

It is seldom that any one can say ought about the management of the cases in court by Messrs. Gilliam & Gilliam, but they surely were not out-of-date when they failed to get some doctors from Raleigh to prove that old man Bolin Varrel died from heart failure and not from any blow inflicted by J. H. Phillips, their client.

The Wake County authorities seem to have greater regard for the opinion of certain physicians than they do for the verdict of a coroner's jury.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine smells the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is still afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy, the mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized.
