A PAINTER OF HOBBIES.

There is nothing particularly edifying in the investigation that has been going on this last week before the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs. The thing all came up through the magazine article written some months ago by Henry Reuter, a naval artist who made the discovery that every thing was all wrong with the Navy. Mr. Reuter is not a naval expert, not a warship constructor, nor anything in that line. He is merely an artist who has done a good deal of ship drawing and ship painting—and who in the course of his work has been thrown into contact with many naval officers, each of whom has some particular hobby as only natural with men of any profession who are interested in their work. Some of these officers, in a perfectly good faith probably, declared that the American warships carried their armor belt too low. Others thought that the ships did not have enough ironbored, others thought that the ammunition hoists could be improved and others that the turrets were not properly protected. All these points are technical matters that furnish subjects of discussion for the naval boards of all the great powers, and all of them have been figured out in the light of the best naval construction with each successive warship that the American navy has built. But Mr. Reuter, dabbling in the technical matters and made it appear that the whole of the American Navy was fit for little but the scrap pile. Therefore the Senate Committee on naval affairs has had numerous witnesses before it, Admiral Converse, Admiral Capps and a number of others, all of whom have agreed that the charges of bad construction were unfounded. It was not till the committee got before it Commander Sims last week that they found anyone to agree with Mr. Reuter. Commander Sims said that all of the charges brought against the navy were true beside many others that had not been brought. He said that American sailors did not know how to shoot in spite of the fact that they hold the most of the gun records of the world. And he said other things of the same sort. But as soon as he started in to say disagreeable things the committee shut him up as though they were afraid of finding out something. This did not seem very odd either. If there is anything in the charges against the navy, it ought to be brought out. That is what the investigating committee is for. If the charges are untrue, they will be easily disproved. The comments of Commander Sims sounded on the face of them like unreasoned criticism, but the Naval Committee is never going to get at the truth by shutting up the witness and not allowing him to talk. The subject needs to be threshed out and the more publicly the better.

BRYAN, BLAINE AND CLAY.

As leaders of men, as predominant, controlling personalities in their parties, there is a striking similarity with them all. Where Henry Clay sat there was the head of the political table. It was equally true of James G. Blaine, the plumed knight of the "Republican party." No man in three-score years and more has so completely dominated his party as William J. Bryan, the peerless leader; won its loyalty. No man has controlled any party with a character so pure and in honesty so unquestioned as Mr. Bryan. Blonemies may bitterly oppose his policies, but the honesty of the man cannot be questioned and is not by well informed fair-minded men. It is not over-stating the fact to say that in this respect neither Clay nor Blaine measured up to Mr. Bryan. On his throne none higher sit. Mr. Bryan can have the Democratic nomination for the asking, and without having to do so strenuously, so could Mr. Clay and so could Mr. Blaine, but neither could be elected. Unless Mr. Bryan voluntarily declines a nomination at Denver he will for the third time have an opportunity to prove that while the most popular man in his party whether he can obtain a sufficient number of votes to elect him. Mr. Clay's enemies encompassed his overthrow. The followers of Roscoe Conkling brought the defeat of the most magnetic man that ever rose to eminence in the republican party. It is this similarity between Mr. Bryan and the two great American leaders that have gone before that has caused many true and loyal Democrats to question the wisdom of nominating him. For the enemies of Mr. Bryan, we care not a great, but these men, who are actuated, prompted by party zeal, in suggesting some one else, the Southern democrats bespeak a word, a word of charity and consideration. These men are not at war with Democratic policies, they would repudiate any man who does not favor them. These men will vote for Mr. Bryan if he is nominated and work for his election. The imputation of sinister motives to such men is not only unfair and ungenerous, but also gives aid to the real enemies of Mr. Bryan.

PANDORA'S BOX OF EVILS.

Some republican papers, especially those of the independent kind, are giving their readers information of the sorry pass the republican party has brought the country to. Thus the N. Y. Sun, with its independent soul much vexed by what Mr. Bryan asserts is mainly due to Mr. Roosevelt flouting "Democratic policies," declares that we are now indebted to President Roosevelt for: "Private confidence and credit shattered; decreasing business; empty freight cars and empty pay envelopes; railroad employees and industrial workers laid off by the hundred thousands; disaster made thoroughly republican; the Constitution kicked one side like a broken-teddy bear; the courts insulted; capital persecuted and frightened; suspicion and hatred sown sedulously among classes whose prosperity or adversity is inseparably mutual; half veiled, sinister prophecies of riot; the army demoralized by favoritism, the navy embarked upon a mysterious and dangerous adventure, currency reform unachieved, civil service reform made a byword." The Sun might have added that the Trusts have been fined but no trust magnate, however guilty, is yet in stripes. Harriman, that malefactor of great wealth, is at large and is said to be again likely to be a delegate to the republican national convention. The Trusts are still selling abroad cheaper than at home and the margin is larger than ever against the American people. Serious scandals in Congress to say nothing of frauds and graft being wide-spread. Such and more is the Pandora box of evils that the people inherit from republican rule.

DOROTHY DEWDROP.

Dorothy Dewdrop lay where she fell in the cusp of a leaf on the verge of the dell, Gleaming and glowing, but idle and still— Just a part of the plan of the infinite will! Away rolled the moments, and lo, where she slept The dawn on its warm little beamy-feet crept, Till a ray kissed her cheeks, and she passed, with a sigh, Like a little mist-ghost, to the depths of the sky! Dorothy Dewdrop no doubt felt a scorn At having lived merely some moments of morn; And pity it is that she never may know That a heart felt her beauty and waked in its glow! —Baltimore Sun.

GUARANTEEING DEPOSITS.

If the United States government which can at any time inspect a bank and find out just what it is doing and how its business is being conducted, requires security for its deposits, why should not security be given to the depositor who cannot examine for himself and does not know anything about the bank's solvency or methods? Any loss to the national government, to the state, to the county, or to the people, and thus be small upon each one, while the loss to the individual has to be borne entirely by himself and may wipe out his entire savings. Is not the argument stronger in favor of the protection of depositors than it is in favor of the protection of the nation, the state, the county, or the city? But the case is even stronger when the bank is required to put up specific security for the protection of national, state, county or city deposits. Its pledged securities are thus hypothecated and the inferior securities are left for the security of the depositors, so that as a matter of fact, the public deposits are not only protected, but they are protected at the expense of the individual depositors. What shall we say of a national bank which willingly gives the government specific security and then opposes the protection of depositors? And, strange to say, these big banks that get the big deposits from the government upon specific security are the very ones that have fought and are fighting the system for the guaranty of depositors. It is time that the depositors understood the situation and got together for their own protection. Will any banker who is opposing the guaranty system answer this argument and explain why its not right to protect individuals?—Bryan's Commoner.

THE PARTIES ON THE CURRENCY.

Senator Bailey emphasized, in his address on the currency, practically the only difference in principle between the majority and minority of Congress on the Aldrich bill. The Democrats in both House and Senate, led by Mr. Bryan, want a currency issued directly by the government and loaned to the banks at interest, while the Aldrich bill provides for the issue of currency by the banks as under the existing national banking act. Because it would be redeemable in gold, Senator Bailey contends that this government currency would be in no sense fiat money, and so he repudiates the accusation that he and his party associates are reviving greenbackism in any form. He holds that it is not a banking function to issue currency, but an exclusive prerogative of sovereignty, and that the government should not surrender it to private corporations that should surrender the power to coin money. Mr. Bailey undoubtedly represents a very considerable body of sentiment throughout the country on the financial question.—Mr. Bryan has incorporated the idea of a government currency in his latest platform, and will undoubtedly endeavor to commit the Democratic party to it at the Denver convention. This the issue will be plainly joined between a bank currency and a government currency.—Washington Herald.

BAILEY'S ESTIMATE OF ROOSEVELT.

In the greatest speech on the currency that has been delivered in Congress for some years, Senator Bailey, of Texas, thus epitomized his estimate of the President: "We have never before witnessed such a mixture of good and evil in any public man. Before we have finished praising him for some wise recommendation he makes another so foolish that our praise must turn to censure. They tell me that he is brave; and I answer that he is just as rash as he is honest; and I answer that he is just as arbitrary as he is honest. He is— "Too bad for blessing, Too good for curse, I wish in my heart He were better or worse. "If he were much better, he would be a Democrat, and if he were a little worse he would not obscure and confuse the great issues between Democrats and their adversaries."

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

By a vote of 49 to 29 the next Democratic Convention will be held in Charlotte on Wednesday June 24. Resolutions to endorse W. J. Bryan for president and C. B. Aycock for vice president were offered, but were not voted on, the committee voting that it was not within its province to endorse the candidacy of any candidate, national or State. Appropriate resolutions and touching eulogies were paid to deceased members of the committee. Hon. B. H. Bun, of Rocky Mount and James R. Llewellyn, of Rockingham county. Capt. W. H. Powell, by proxy represented, J. H. Exam for Edgecombe and E. L. Travis for Halifax.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNUAL SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The greatest Sunday school meeting of the year will take place in Burlington on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 7-9, in the Christian church. This will probably be the best convention the State Association has ever held. The Burlington people are making every effort to make the delegates welcome. The entertainment will be free, and any one interested in Sunday school work may attend. Among the speakers on the programme are W. C. Pearce, of Chicago, the Teacher Training and Organized Adult Department Superintendent of the International Sunday School Convention; Mrs. J. W. Barnes, Superintendent of Elementary Department of the International Association; Rev. B. W. Spillman, of our own State; Dr. Jas. A. B. Scherer, President of Newberry College, S. C., besides many other Sunday school workers in our State. This is an inter denominational Sunday School Convention and every Sunday school in the State should have a representative in Burlington. Any one wishing to attend should send their name to W. K. Holt, Burlington, and entertainment will be provided. WILL USE SPLIT-LOG DRAG. For the county, the Southern lifts its best hat to G. T. DeBerry, who has consented to use the split-log drags on two roads, the one leading out by the King farm and the other one by Major C. M. Parks' farm. Superintendent Martin and he effected this arrangement Thursday. Mr. DeBerry is farming on both these roads, so it is quite convenient for him. He is a successful farmer and all round, excellent progressive citizen, which insures the proper use of this road improver. All the virtues will be brought out by him. The community and the traveling public are to be heartily congratulated. STATE NEWS IN BRIEF. Senator Bailey, of Texas, will make the principal speech at the annual banquet of Manufacturers of High Point to be given the first of April. Walter H. Page, a North Carolinian, editor of World's Work, New York, will deliver the commencement address at Trinity College, Wednesday, June 10th. There will be a prohibition mass meeting in Halifax March 17th. Doubtless no Irish are expected to attend. St. Patrick's Day in the morning. Maurice J. J. Keenan, of Louisville, who stole $6,000 from his father, pleads insanity. The old man, no doubt admits that there was decided financial method in his madness. It later appears that the mob that attacked and unmercifully beat the Greeks at Belhaven, killed two and wounded six others whom it is believed will recover. Governor Glen's beginning Monday will be absent from the State, visiting with his son, Washington, Philadelphia, New York. This will explain any unusual quietude in Tarheeldom during this period. Kodol is today the best known remedy for all disorders of the stomach, such as dyspepsia, heart burn, sour stomach and belching of gas. Sold by R. E. L. Cook.

GOOD FOR EVERYBODY.

Mr. Norman R. Coulter, a prominent architect, in the Delbert Building can Francisco says: "I fully endorse all that has been said of Electric Bitters as a tonic medicine. It is good for everybody. It corrects stomach, liver and kidney disorders in a prompt and efficient manner and builds up the system." Electric Bitters is the best spring medicine ever sold over a drugist's counter; as a blood purifier it is unequalled. 50c by all druggists.

THE DESPISED NEEDFUL.

No matter how we argue, No matter what we say We all bow down to money And meet the coin half way. A common human weakness To try to make a mass. On every floating dollar, An unresponsive cash. We talk about a dollar As though we didn't care For anything so vulgar. Such language is hot air, For when we see one coming We brace ourselves and try With all our art and muscle To let it not pass by. When speaking large and earnest Before the infant class We tell them to hunt virtue And let the dollar pass. But when the talk is over And we take our seat Should we observe one passing? We chase it down the street. The root of every evil, As we have oft been told, The source of all our trouble, Is low, unlovely gold. And, though we say preserve us From it for pity sake, We're looking out for trouble If that's the form it takes. —Nashville American.

HEIGHTS OF EUROPEANS.

According to the report of a Danish anthropometric commission, the following are the average heights of the different European peoples. Since the meter is equal to thirty nine inches, the figures become more intelligible by a little multiplication: English and Norwegians, 1.70 meters (5.52 feet); Danish and Hollanders, 1.67 meters (5.42 feet); Swiss, Russians, Belgians, Germans, 1.66 meters (5.39 feet); Italians, Spanish, French, 1.65 meters (5.36 feet); and Hungarians, 1.64 meters, which is a slight fraction below that of the Frenchman.

WANT AN ICE PLANT?

It has been suggested to several of the leading business men of town to purchase the ice plant, which is not being used in Wilson, as the two ice companies in that town have consolidated. This suggestion is being considered as it would insure an ice plant for Tarboro this season. A sentiment of the business men leaves no doubt that a company could be organized in the near future to supply Tarboro and the surrounding towns with this much needed commodity. One man stated this morning, he was willing to subscribe $1,000 for an ice plant.

MOST FITTING.

It was most fitting that the next Chapter of the Daughters to contribute to the Wyatt Monument fund should have been that of Rocky Mount. Half of the patriotic women of that Chapter belong to Edgecombe county and feel as much pride in Wyatt as do the Daughters of the Tarboro Chapter. This letter tells the encouraging news: Rocky Mount, N. C. March 10, 1908. Mr. John A. Mitchener, Sec. of Wyatt Memorial Fund. Dear Sir: Enclosed find check for one hundred dollars from the Bethel-Heroes Chapter No. 636, Rocky Mount, N. C. Please send a receipt. Very sincerely, Mrs. James C. Brasswell.
