THOSE ELECTION BETS.

The Republican organs in their grind turn out a lot of chaff these days about the odds offered against Mr. Bryan's election by Lloyd's Insurance Company. They have tried to make it appear that this company, which, as is well known, insures against nearly every sort of loss imaginable, was offering odds, ranging from 7 to 5, to 1 against Mr. Bryan's election.

As a matter of fact, says the impartial Washington Herald, investigation shows that Lloyd's Agency is offering nothing like the stated odds on the election. All the company is doing, or has offered to do, is to insure any business man against a possible loss resulting from the election of Mr. Bryan-a very different thing. On this subject, the Philadelhow to use the hand gracefully. Keeping the hand closed when in repose is awkward, for it accentuates the breadth.

A pretty pose of the hand is uined by bending it at the knuckle joints and curving in the little and fourth fingers.

Crooking the little finger and let ting it stick out is one of the most unbecoming poses of the hand.

In this posture a long hand looks as though it had a tail and the width of a short one is emphasized. The best way is to bend down the
