GRAND JURY REPORT.

The Grand Jury which adjourned on the Third Day of Court made the following report.

The Grand Jury beg leave to report that they have acted on all warrants, and presentments that have come before us. We have visited the County Jail and the several County offices and find them in good condition. That so far, as we have been able to ascertain, all the County officers are executing their duties satisfactorily. We have inquired into the management of the Home of the Aged and Infirm and find everything satisfactory to both inmates and the Superintendent, except that which has been called to your attention at this term of the Court.

We had the Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners before us, and he reported to us that he had examined the report of the Superintendent of Health of this County, for the month of May, 1909, which has just been made out, and that the Superintendent of Health reports that he has examined the convict camps and finds them in good, sanitary condition, with a good and sufficient supply of clothes and food for convicts.

The Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, says that he knows of no maltreatment of convicts, but he will look into the matter at once. We further find that the Schoolhouse in No. 10 township, near St. Lewis, is not safe for the children to be in during a storm. That when it rains, the building leaks, so that everything in it gets wet. It has caught on fire several times on account of bad roof.

We further find that there are only two School Committees in No. 8 Township, one having resigned, and no one has ever been appointed to fill the vacancy.

New Grocery.

Will Warren and Isaac Taylor have opened a store in the Ruffin building in West Tarboro ward. The store is being repainted and is being made attractive both inside and out.

Important to Cider Sellers.

Section 63 of the revenue act imposes a State tax of $20 on every dealer in max, beer, near beer, or any drink under whatever name, containing one-half of one per cent alcohol.

Trouble Makers Ousted.

When a sufferer from stomach troubles takes Dr. King's New Life Pills his mighty aid to see his Dyspepsia and Indigestion fly, but more he needs his new, fine appetite created by his healthy vigor, all because stomach, liver and kidneys not work right. 25c. W. H. Macnair's.

Robbery in Hardware.

Now that the Senate has passed the hardware schedule in which it is proposed to make a number of increases over the Dingley tariffs, some starting expositions ought to be made if the revisionists are formed and aggressive. They were enormous. They work a tremendous hardship on the people. In many instances the duties are so high that American manufacturers' their products in this country at from 25 to 75 per cent higher than they sell them in Europe, where they must meet European competition. Here are just a few items:

A FLYING MACHINE HOAX.

How Pittsburgers Were "Fooled" Half a Century Ago.

In old-stemmed times, more than fifty years ago, there came a great drought in the Ohio Valley, and Pittsburg was lined far and wide with marooned steamers waiting for "a rise." Steamboat men—captains, pilots and mates—were jolting each other for pasture, when an old pilot, native of Covington, Ky., casually remarked to an old engineer, native of Pittsburg, that there were more d-d fools in Pittsburg than anywhere else on earth, and proposed to bet $100 that he could prove it.

Of course the bet was taken for the "honor of the town."

The pilot manipulated newspaper boys with a story of a flying machine, the most natural and perfect in the world, the discoverer of a French savant who was making a tour of the country and would give an exhibition on a certain day by a flight of the "natural machine" from one of the bridges over the Allegheny River.

Owing to general stagnation of business on account of the low water at that time, the newspapers exploited the exhibition and everybody became interested. Excitement was great, and finally grew so intense as the day approached that it was arranged by common consent that the schools should have a holiday, and places generally should close in order that every one might see the show.

When the day arrived everybody in and around Pittsburg was at the river front, although it proved to be a cold and blustering day, with a strong wind blowing down stream.

The old pilot (masquerading as the fictitious French savant), muffled in a cloak, and unknown to the crowd, worked his way out to the center of the bridge, threw a goose out, which went sailing down the river, dropped his cloak and hid in the crowd.

It is said, that excluding those who were in on the bet, no person has ever been found from that day to this who would admit that he had been one of the fools taken in by the Pittsburg flying-machine exhibition.

Dance at Leggett's.

The young people will have a dance in Pittman Hall, Leggett's, Friday, June 18th. L. Forest and Boaz Gammon are the managers, which insures a pleasant affair.

The Largest Locomotive.

The largest locomotive ever constructed is one built recently to assist in the moving of heavy freight trains over the steepest grades of the E. R. Railway. The engine alone has a weight of 265 tons. It has 16 driving wheels and 4 cylinders. Two of the piston boxes are so large that a boy of twelve can erect on one of them and have room to spare. Working at full capacity, the locomotive can draw a train two miles long, loaded with 10,000 tons of freight, at a speed of eight miles an hour. This load, if it was in wheat would represent the harvest of twenty six square miles of fertile farms.

Of Course.

Those round-eyes Are very wise They say it pays To advertise. —LIFE.

THE USE OF TOBACCO.

Presbyterian Assembly Frowns Upon It Unreservedly.

Heretofore the question of the propriety of churchmen indulging in a long smoke or a short whiff has been confined mostly to the clergy. The Presbyterians in their general assembly at Denver, however, have declared for equal rights, or rather equal limitations, by resolving that neither ministers nor laymen should use tobacco. Thus do the high ideals find fruter from ecclesiastical principles. The abstract question of propriety in the cultivation of a habit that many find more comfortable than injurious is and has been an open one ever since Sir Walter Raleigh smoked the pipe of peace at an Indian pow-wow.

Just what effect the position taken by the Presbyterians will have may not be said, but as the agitation against the weed is not new, it is to be feared that the set habits of the present generation of smokers will not be influenced. Doubtless some fathers fond of a smoke themselves, will be roused to greater diligence in guarding their progeny from following in their footsteps. This would be a good thing, as smoking is an expensive and, it must be confessed, an unnecessary habit. It cannot be said, however, that the church and the weed are in hostile camps so long as the smokers' churches exist. —Haltmore American.

To Think About.

Tell us, are you advertising. In the same old foolish way. That your granddad did before you. And perad, "It doesn't pay?"

Think the whole world knows your address. "Can't it hasn't changed in years?" Wouldn't the pathos of such logic Drive a billi-goat to tears?

Just a card is all you care for. Hidden, low-keyed and quiet. Like the step upon a tombstone. Telling folks that you are dead. Wake up, man, and take a tonic. Bunch your hair and make a drive. Run a page and change your copy. Advertise and keep alive! —Robert Page Lincoln.

Want Better Streets.

Complaint is being made about some of the streets in the West Tarboro ward. The street back of the Ruffin store is said to be a wilderness of weeds.

An Ancient Citizen.

Sheriff Dawson has received formal notice from the Franklin County authorities to come and take a certain man named John Terry, who says his last residence was Edgecombe, and that he remembers well ex-Sheriff Station of this county. As that big hearted man has been dead over a score of years, Sheriff Dawson, without further information, indicating a more recent citizenship, will not be hiking to Lousburg for another prize for Superintendent Gorham.

June.

God plucked a rose all dripping sweet. With dew down; all fresh and cool. With evening as a new-made moon. Asleep within a forest pool. He laid the rose at Nature's feet— And someone called it June. —Metropolitan Magazine.

Much Improved.

Repairs and improvements are quite noticeable at the Tarboro KILLING MILLS. The third story has been added and will be filled with machines.

A new smoke stack is being put up to replace the old one, which some how could not stand up against a hard wind. Several additional employees have been added to the roll.

DUMMIES USED.

A Medieval Story of Today.

The Marquis de Fontenoy, in the Washington Post, interestingly tells of dummies of the late Sultan of Turkey, found in his palace. Her narrative reads like a romance of a century or more ago.

Among the strange discoveries made in the Yildiz Kiosk, after the deposition of Abdul Hamid to Gaipek, were a number of dummies arrayed in the costume which he used to affect, bearded, turbaned, and hooded, in such a way, as to represent him to the very life.

Nadir Agha, the deputy chief eunuch, who purchased his own safety by betraying the various hiding places of his master's jewels and valuables, explained that the dummies were used for the execution as a means of protection. Disposed in the most natural fashion, seated in the corner of a divan, or at a writing table of one of the rooms of the Sultan which no one was allowed to enter without being summoned, they enabled him to bask himself in the other parts of Yildiz Kiosk, without his absence being noticed by any one looking through the door. In fact, they helped him to convey to his entourage a most uncanny impression of his ubiquity.

This recalls the extraordinary story of the nihilist Solovoff, who suffered death on the gallows for shooting at a dummy of Alexander II. The latter, toward the end of his reign, had lost his nerve, owing to the frequency of the attempts made upon his life, and had announced to his entourage that he had made up his mind to give up the custom of his daily drive through the streets of St. Petersburg, on the ground that he hated driving, hated saluting, and hated being stared at.

Dummy Represented Car.

Gen. Count Alexander Adlerberg II, who was minister and chief of the imperial household, as well as principal confidant and adviser of his sovereign, represented to him how unwise it would be to disappoint the people.

Finding the car obstinate, he conceived the idea of a wagen figure, made in the likeness of his master, with practical joints worked by interior mechanism. It was so constructed by an English firm that when wound up it turned its head slowly from side to side, with a slight wiggle of the body, raising its hand in salute. It was an admirable likeness, quite sufficient to deceive the subjects of the czar, especially as the imperial carriage was always driven at a tearing gallop, almost surrounded by an escort of Cossacks.

It was this dummy that took the place of the emperor on his gaily driven, and it was this dummy that received fair in the breast the bullet of the pistol fired by the nihilist would-be assassin Solovoff. An inch lower down and it would have smashed and stopped the mechanism. As it was, the dummy continued to bow and salute, just as if nothing had happened, and Reuter's correspondent, in describing the affair for the foreign press over the wires that evening, wrote as follows:

"Luckily the emperor, who was accompanied as usual by Count Adlerberg, was untouched. As so often happens in such cases, the assassin, doubtless through excitement, entirely missed his aim. The remarkable thing was the coolness and courage displayed by his majesty. So far from evincing the slightest alarm, he continued to salute the crowd on either side, smiling as though nothing at all had happened. Later in the afternoon when the news of the attempt on his life had spread, a vast crowd of people collected in front of the winter palace, and the czar, in answer to their continuous cheers, at length appeared on the balcony and bowed repeatedly."

Of course, it was the emperor in flesh and blood who appeared on the balcony. The only sufferer, therefore, in this whole affair was the would-be assassin. For not only did he get no credit for his coolness and courage, and for the excellence of his aim, but he suffered death on the gallows for having shot at a dummy.

Women Who Are Envid.

Those attractive women who are overly in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a scratched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion, many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at W. H. Macnair.

COST OF THE BIG DITCH.

Estimates for Panama Construction for Next Fiscal Year are $35,000,000.

A quarter of a billion of dollars will have been appropriated by Congress for the purchase and construction of the Isthmian Canal, if the estimates for the expenditure in canal construction for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1910, are agreed to by Congress next winter.

These estimates, amounting to about $35,000,000 have just been received in Washington from the Canal Zone, and are being reviewed by Secretary of War Dickmann.

Already there has been appropriated for the purchase of canal rights from France and Panama and for construction a total of $110,000,000. Secretary Dickmann finds it very difficult to reduce the estimates, and Congress itself has learned that a reduction of the estimates merely invites a deficiency appropriation later.

Married.

A wedding, attended amid most charming surroundings, was that of Miss Ethel Denver Pike and Dr. Spencer Phippen Bass, of Tarboro, N. C., which took place at 8 o'clock this evening at "Elron," near Lenoir, Va., the country residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Yvon Pike of Washington, D. C.

The ceremony which was witnessed by only the immediate families and a few house guests, took place in the drawing-room, which was made beautiful with masses of white geraniums and the glow of many candles.

The bride, in an exquisite gown of white satin, trimmed in rose point lace and orange blossoms, entered the room with her father, who gave her in marriage. Preceding them was the matron of honor, Mrs. Scott Todd, of Atlanta, Ga., who wore lavender mousseline and carried a basket of lavender sweet peas and maiden-hair ferns.

The groom, with his best man, Mr. Theodore Chisholm of Tarboro, and the bride attended by Miss Alice, who the ceremony was performed by Rev. William Hildgen Burkhardt, pastor of St. James Church, Lenoir.

A large reception followed, after which the bride and groom left for a honeymoon in the Thousand Islands, her going-away gown being of pongee.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Gen. Albert Pike, and on the maternal side comes from an old Virginia family. Dr. Bass is a son of the late Dr. Henry Turner Bass of Tarboro, N. C., and is a graduate of the University of Virginia, where he was president of the medical class. —Washington Herald.
